Fire injures 4

BY RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Four persons were injured in a fire Wednesday morning that nearly destroyed Murden's Appliances building at Belite Ave. and Laskin Rd. All four were tenants in the resort landmark's second floor apartments.

One of the victims, Virgil Partin, in his 40s, had apparently suffered a heart attack but was rescued by firemen.

"We had to pull him from the building," Chief Investigator Milton Holland said. "He was in that smoke for maybe 45 minutes before we could get him out. He really looked bad."

Officials at General Hospital of Virginia Beach said Partin had suffered a cardiac arrest and was in critical condition in the hospital's cardiac care unit.

Witnesses at the scene also said that Fletcher Hoggard, 66, appeared to be seriously injured. But hospital officials said later he was treated for burns of the head and hands and released.

Two 18-year-old roommates, Donald Hixon and Michael MacDougall, jumped from their second floor rooms, hospital officials said. Hixon was treated for smoke inhalation and released. MacDougall was admitted to the hospital with fractures of both ankles.

Irvin Murden, principal owner of the building, said the fire apparently started in one of the apartment. It spread rapidly through the wooden partitions. There were eight units, Murden said, but only five were rented. One tenant had already left for work, the other had moved in his belongings but was not yet occupying the apartment.

Store employees alerted firemen that Partin was still in the building. "He's pretty much of a loner," Murden said, "but

Officials optimistic

Future population projected

By KIRTM BABUDER

An influx of 18,000 people could be expected in Virginia Beach during the next 18 months if everything goes according to plan.

The plans are those of the builders in the city.

Permits have been issued for 6,286 housing units that must be under construction within the next year and a half. Virginia Beach has an average of 3.9 people in a single family home and 2.5 in a multiple family dwelling. When these figures are multiplied, Virginia Beach will have 18,000 new residents.

City Council issued use permits for 4265 multiple family dwellings units in 1972. Builders have secured building permits for 2676 units. A builder needs both of these permits before beginning construction, but has one year after the use permit is granted in which to secure a building permit. Construction must begin six months after issuance of the building permit.

For construction of a single family home, a builder needs only to secure a building permit. Permits for 2001 homes were granted in 1972. Construction of these must also begin within the six-month time limit.

Eighteen thousand more people in Virginia Beach. "The figure is in the ball park," according to Ron George, an economist in the city's Planning Department. But the city plans on an influx of only 10,000 - 12,000 people per year. They take into account the vacancies in apartment complexes, which according to George, could run as high as 20 per cent.

City officials seemed optimistic about Virginia Beach's growth.

Walter Alford, of the Industrial Development Department of Virginia Beach, is especially optimistic. He sees the city's population growth as an asset in drawing big industry to the community.

Virginia Beach is losing its reputation as a "bedroom community" already, Alford feels. Today, only 37 per cent of the population leaves the city to go to work in the morning.

Industrial planners seek a stable force of workers in a city before bringing in an industry. The population growth of Virginia Beach, Alford feels, will supply this stable work force.

Industry would also broaden the tax base of Virginia Beach, according to Alford.

City Manager Roger Scott is also optimistic, but with reservations.

Scott sees many problems connected with the population growth of Virginia Beach. But he feels the growth is necessary and sees no reason to discourage it.

"Everything we do is to meet the problems of growth in Virginia Beach," stated Scott. He does not see the use of zoning as a means of stopping the growth; any method of slowing down population growth in the city would be a matter of policy determined by city council.

Both Alford and Scott's comments pointed to one very important factor in the future of Virginia Beach: the city needs proper planning in the proper direction.

'New twist' to water contract

After a lengthy dispute, involving years of offers and counter-offers, Virginia Beach is apparently in a position to finalize a water contract negotiations with Norfolk.

The position evolves from Norfolk's reply to Virginia Beach's latest water contract proposal offered Norfolk last December 14.

City Manager Roger M. Scott described the latest reply from Norfolk's G. Robert House Jr., by saying, "The proposal is a new twist we haven't heard before, and after we've had time to explore it we'll make a reply. We hope to do that within the next week."

Scott was uncertain however as to whether the terms of the reply would be formally discussed during next Monday's regular session of Virginia Beach City Council.

The proposal calls for improvements of Norfolk's water system at a total cost of $45 million over the next 20 years, with water being supplied the resort city at an annual rate of 44 1/2 cents per 1,000 gallons for the initial six billion gallons. Additional water required by Virginia Beach annually would be supplied at no cost.

New POW director named

Cdr. Clarke Gammell, CINCANTFLT Public Affairs Officer, Wednesday assumed command of "Operation Homecoming", involving the return of American Prisoners of War whose families reside in the Tidewater area.

These duties previously were those of Cdr. Barry K. Trebor-MacConnell, Fifth Naval District Public Affairs Officer, who has become well known to families of POWs as "Cdr. T-Mac".

The decision to relieve T-Mac was reportedly made by Adm.

James O. Cobb on the eve of his being relieved as Commandant, Fifth Naval District. Adm. Cobb was unavailable for comment on the matter Wednesday due to preparations for his change of command.

When questioned as to the reasoning behind the decision, in light of the amount of assistance T-Mac had given to POW families and the press regarding Operation Homecoming, T-Mac said, "When you look at the thing you now have a man who will be able to devote 24 hours a day to the operation for the next two months, I haven't got 24 hours a day. Basically the decision was made on grounds that Cdr. Gammell would be in a better position to run the operation from here on out than I, because of a larger staff of personnel and the amount of workload on my office."

Cdr. Gammell has assured families of POWs, and others concerned, with Operation Homecoming, that he will give whatever assistance he can in affecting a rapid return of Tidewater POWs. He may be contacted by phoning 444-6263.

Arson suspected in White Sands fire

By LES LEHIGH

Arson is receiving strong consideration as cause of the fire which virtually destroyed the former Bow Creek Country Club Friday night. This possibility came to light Monday as City Fire Investigators Jim Hundley and W.H. Cartwright, assisted by members of the State Fire Marshal's office, continued to probe into cause of the fire.

Contrary to earlier reports, the building was occupied by about 15 persons when the fire was discovered. All managed to escape without injury moments before the alarm was sounded.

As the investigation into the fire entered its third day, Hundley said, "This fire is of a suspicious nature and certain circumstances indicate arson is involved." He added this conclusion was based on "certain burning patterns, and the rapid spread of the fire."

Mike Bonavita, Bow Creek golf pro, was among those in the building at the time of the fire. He said the group of men were playing cards in a room at the rear of the coffee shop, adjacent to the front vestibule of the building.

Bonavita said, "We smelled smoke and investigated. We saw smoke coming under a door which leads into the locker room. Someone yelled for everyone to get out. I ran down here (to the pro shop) and phoned the fire department."

"By this time," Bonavita added, "flames and smoke were rolling out back doors. You could see flames moving along the drapes inside, and windows

Finger printed bingo players carry fight to Richmond

By DONNA HENDRICK

"We're jailbirds," says Mrs. James (Mikki) Jacques.

"We still have police records," says Mrs. Dorothy McAllister.

The police notified us that if we didn't close down our party games, they would have to close us," says Father Alfred Grotzinger of St. Gregory the Great Catholic Church.

The bingo hubbub continues in Virginia Beach. The latest scene in the saga of the Aragona Recreation Center raid was played recently in Richmond when interested citizens of Tidewater testified before the House of Delegates General Laws Committee on a bingo-legislation bill sponsored by Del. Lester E. Schlitz of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Jacques, Mrs. McAllister and Father Grotzinger were among the 300 people who went to Richmond to testify before the committee.

Father Grotzinger prepared some comments in which he pointed out that many churches, civic organizations and volunteer fire departments depend on proceeds from games like bingo to keep going.

"The local people have done all they can to support the bill," Father Grotzinger said. "We feel they should either legalize bingo or close down every place where it is played. Most of us think it looks good for this bill to pass."

The bingo tussle started in Virginia Beach last March when police, acting on a tip, arrested over 300 bingo players at the Aragona Recreation Center. They were taken to the police station, fingerprinted, booked on misdemeanor charges and released after bond was put up by the president of the Recreation Center.

The bingo players were never actually jailed and charges against them were later nolle prossed. But Mrs. Jacques and Mrs. McAllister, as well as other players arrested in March, are upset that they now have police records and that their thumbprints are still on file.

They are currently working with their lawyer, L. Charles Burigas, to have their police records and thumbprint files destroyed.

"What hurts us is that we have records at all," Mrs. Jacques said. "And that they still have our fingerprints. Plus we all got letters in the mail, I believe from the assistant city attorney, saying we should conduct ourselves more properly in the future. I resented that."

Mrs. McAllister, a 72-year-old bingo player, plans to reappear this month. She said she is embarrassed by the fact that she is a "jailbird."

"Here I am 72 years old and riding in a police car for the first time," Mrs. McAllister said. "And I'm getting married. I've lived all this time without ever being arrested. Oh, My!"

The bingo furor does have its lighter side, although having a police record is no laughing matter. Mrs. Jacques is renowned for her cake-baking prowess and decided to bake a special cake for the Richmond hearing.

It was a chocolate sheet cake covered with white icing. In licorice trim, she drew a bingo card on the cake, complete with numbers and a free square in the middle.

She was going to present the cake at the hearing, but got cold feet at the last minute and brought it back home instead.

Mrs. Jacques also composed a little ditty to uplift the spirits of the bingo people. To the tune of "A Dog named Bingo," they sang this song, dubbed "Ringo," on the bus trip to Richmond:

Mrs. James Jacques

There was a game we people played and "Ringo" was its name-o R-I-N-G-O, R-I-N-G-O, R-I-N-G-O, and Ringo was its name-o. But!!! Strange things have been happening to change protection of the "Innocent!" K-A-I-D-S, R-A-I-D-S, R-A-I-D-S, and that's the end of the game-o.

Ringo is another name for bingo. Since bingo playing has been deemed illegal, many clubs tried to get around the law by calling the same game ringo.

The next step in the bingo battle locally is for the Aragona people to appear in court with their attorney to have their fingerprint files destroyed.

Statewide, the next step is for the General Assembly to act on the amendment to the state gambling law, which, if passed, would legalize bingo games, lotteries or raffles conducted by certain specified groups (rescue squads, trusts, foundations) for charity. That is, as long as the receipts do not benefit any one person except to repay expenses incurred in conducting the game or lottery.

Meanwhile, the Virginia Beach "jailbirds" have adopted a hopeful wait and see attitude, looking forward to the day they can go back to the Aragona Recreation Center to play bingo legally.

Chris Conkwright stayed undefeated for the season while handing Princess Anne's Carlos Benjumen his first loss this year in the 119 pound match.

COX 32, PRINCESS ANNE 9

Both teams entered the match unbeaten, but the state championship Cox team turned what many thought would be a close match into a rout. Princess Anne won three matches, at 98, 155, and 167 pounds.

Princess Anne's Ken Nowlin and Cox's Timmy Davidson began the 98 pound match undefeated. Nowlin remained undefeated when he handed Davidson his first loss of the season. Nowlin is now 7-0-1 for the year, and Davidson is 6-1-1.

Danny Allen (155) picked up his seventh win of the season by defeating Steve Slough of Cox. Allen has a 7-1-1 record.

Princess Anne's Ed Smith won his eighth match in nine outings by defeating Terry Roche in the 167 pound class.

Chris Yerkes of Cox edged Gary Passage of 105 pounds to give Yerkes a 5-2 season record. Glen Felthousen 112 remained undefeated in eight matches by handing Timmy Rogers his first loss in nine starts.

In another match of unbeaten, Carlos Benjumen suffered his first loss in seven matches when he was defeated by Cox's Chris Conkwright. Conkwright, a 119 pounder, is still unbeaten in eight starts, and Benjumen's record is now 5-1-1.

Burt Spry of Princess Anne lost his second match of the season in the 126 pound match to Mike Battallo. Battallo has not lost in his eight matches this season, while Spry's record is now 7-2.

Scott Harrell (132) handed Jim Benjumen his first loss of the year. Benjumen is now 4-1, and Harrell is undefeated in eight matches.

Mike Newburn (138) won his eighth match without a loss when he handed Princess Anne's Bill Farmer his second loss in nine starts.

Pete Drew, a 145 pounder, is now 5-2 with his win over Princess Anne's Cutchins. At 185, James Gaudreau won his eighth match of the season without a defeat by pinning Princess Anne's Richard Early. Early is now 4-3-1 for the year. Cox's Bill Summs upped his mark to 5-2 with a win over David Jones.

KEMPSVILLE 43, GRANBY 19

The Beach's wrestling domination of area schools continued this week. Kempville became the fourth Beach school to romp Granby.

Bob Wernick won his fourth in a row, giving him a 4-1 mark, by downing Granby's Fuqua at 119 pounds. Mark Storey (132), now 6-1-1, battled to a draw with White Mark Barbee's record went to 5-2-2 when his match with Lombeck ended in a draw in a battle of the 145-pounders.

Randy Jordan, at 155, pinned Tanner to up his record to 5-3-1. Frank Welch's record climbed to 5-3 with a win over Clark in the 167 pound class.

The unlimited division saw Mark Rimarski winning his eighth victory in nine starts with a pin over Davis.

KELLAM 28, LAKE TAYLOR 16

Bob Verner (105) defeated Lake Taylor's Kitchen to up his record to 6-2. At 126 pounds, Jay Payne remained undefeated in nine starts with a decision over Bowen. Ray Akina, a 132 pounder, made it two wins in a row by defeating Lupelika. Akina is now 6-3 for the season.

Gene Burn, at 145, notched his eighth win in nine starts by picking up an easy forfeit victory over Harrell. Tim Terry remained undefeated at 185 pounds for the Knights by defeating Whitfield. Terry's record is now 7-0-1.

FIRST COLONIAL 35, BAYSIDE 10

Bayside's Bobby Dossett remained undefeated at 105 pounds with a win over Paul Hughes. Dossett's record is now 6-2, with both losses coming at 112 pounds. Elvis Smith made it two wins in a row by pinning Bayside's Leach. Smith now has a 5-3 record.

Terry Haddox stayed unbeaten at 119 pounds by downing First Colonial's Pete Scoppa. Haddox is 7-1 overall, with his only loss at 126 pounds.

Freeman Gregg won his seventh match in eight starts by defeating Bayside's David Wallis. Jerry Pontes of First Colonial remained undefeated.

Bo Killen is top rebounder at Wofford

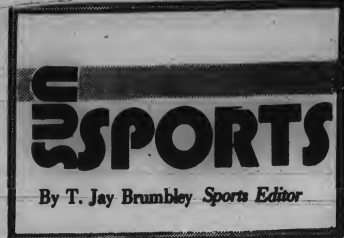

Bo Killen continues to command a starting role as Wofford College nears the end of its basketball season. Killen has started all fourteen games for the 6-8 Terriers.

Killen is the fourth leading scorer on the team, averaging 9.2 points per game. The Virginia Beach forward leads the team in rebounding, hauling an average of 8.3 balls off the boards each game, or 117 for the season.

During the season, Killen has been the game's high scorer once and the leading rebounder eight times. His 12 tallies led all scorers in a 39-36 overtime loss to Lander College. His top rebounding effort came against Baptist College. He was credited with 14 rebounds in the game.

Little League needs YOU

By T. Jay Brumbley
SUN Sports Editor

"This week we've gotta get organized!"

Little League is not all baseball games on Saturday morning. Little League is not only hundreds of youngsters in brightly colored uniforms gleefully banging out singles and home runs under the piteous eyes of their fathers. Little League is not just boys engaged in organized play while keeping off the streets and out of mischief.

Little League is all of that, of course. But Little League is more. Little League is men, men behind the scenes making it possible for the actual games to take place. Big men directing the affairs of the Little League enable the little men on the field Saturday mornings to become the big men of tomorrow.

A handful of people have worked very hard to make the Virginia Beach Little League a success. Oceana Naval Air Station set aside several acres of land for construction of the ball park.

But, more is needed. More money is needed to complete construction of the park and to buy additional uniforms and equipment. More people are needed to coach and to manage teams, to serve as umpires, and to run refreshment stands.

Men with leadership qualities and management abilities are needed now. These men are needed before the rest, for without League leadership there may be no League. If there is no League this year, coaches, managers, umpires, and concession stand operators will not be needed. Even worse, there may be no teams, and our boys will not be needed.

The potential is here for the Virginia Beach Borough to have the finest ball park in the entire area. To make it possible, however, the sense of civic pride and community spirit that lies dormant in each of us has to be aroused. Once aroused, a person's pride and spirit can make the "impossible dream" into the "appreciated reality."

An effective Board of Directors is needed now if Virginia Beach is to have an effective Little League program this summer. The Board must be made up of men with concern for our young people and for our community. The Board must have men capable of planning and directing the affairs of the Virginia Beach Little League.

The officers of the League call to muster tonight all men of Virginia Beach possessing management skills, leadership qualities, civic pride, and concern for our young people. Tonight's organizational meeting will be held in Galilee Episcopal Church, which is located on Pacific Avenue at 38th Street, at 8 p.m.

The Virginia Beach Little League serves the youth of Fort Story, North Virginia Beach, Beach Borough, Bay Colony, Birdneck Point, Seatack, and Croatan. Many of Tidewater's foremost business and community leaders live in this area.

I hope to see more than a handful of you at Galilee tonight. Come on out. Make Thursday, February 1st, a great beginning in the process that molds men from the boys of Virginia Beach.

Tim Gunn and Nan Stolle are in athletic volume

Tim Gunn and Ken Stolle, both of Virginia Beach, are among seventeen Berry College athletes included in the 1972 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America." Both are just freshmen at the Georgia college.

Gunn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Yale Gunn of 2305 Wolfsmare Drive, was named as an outstanding cross-country runner. Stolle, who was named as an outstanding soccer player, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.S. Stolle of 2236 Kendall Street.

The honor awards volume is an annual publication, national in scope. Its purpose is to recognize athletes who have distinguished themselves by outstanding sports achievement and service.

Coast Guard boating classes beginning soon

A course in small boat handling and seamanship will begin at Indian River High School on February 15th. Sponsored by the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Ft. Pierce, the course will consist of a two hour class each week for twelve weeks, beginning at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Classes will be open to all small boat owners and their families. Non-boaters are also invited to attend. Classes are designed to help the novice boatman learn the fundamentals of safety and courtesy on the water.

Registration will be held at the beginning of the first class on February 15th. Although the courses are considered free, there will be a small registration fee to cover the cost of books and building maintenance. Additional information may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Eleanor Cross at 543-6176.

Cinclant wives sponsor Wings ice hockey game

The Virginia Red Wings-Boston Braves ice hockey clash on February 22nd will be sponsored by the Cinclant Officers Wives Club. Stated for a 7:30 p.m. face-off on the Scope ice, the game will serve to raise funds for various club projects.

Tickets for the game will be on sale at all military exchanges on February 1st and 3rd, through Special Services, and by mail. Mail orders should be sent by February 15th.

Tickets are priced at $3, $4, and $5. Mail orders should be sent to Red Wings Tickets, 604 Glenbrook Court, Virginia Beach, Virginia, 23452. Make checks payable to the Cinclant Officers Wives Club, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your ticket request.

Meyerhoff to talk at Sports Club Tuesday

Coach John Meyerhoff, head basketball coach and athletic director at Chesapeake College, will be guest speaker at the Virginia Beach Sports Club's luncheon meeting Tuesday, February 8th. Chesapeake College has just been purchased by the State as part of the community college network, thus ending the sports program there.

It is hoped that Coach Meyerhoff will shed some insight on his and his players future next year. He had recruited some good talent for his programs for Virginia Beach.

Frank Yenser, director of the Norfolk Paramedic Rescue Service, was guest speaker last week. He gave a very informative talk and slide presentation on the work of the paramedics.

All members in the area are invited to attend. Meetings begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Ocean Heights Restaurant.

Knights sponsor spaghetti dinner

The Knights of Columbus of Virginia Beach will sponsor a spaghetti dinner Saturday, February 3, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the K of C Hall, 235 First Colonial Road.

Prices are $1.35 for adults and 75 cents for children. Proceeds will go to the Knights of Virginia. Reservations are requested.

BURT SPRY LOOKS LIKE A PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH SUFF PRETZEL as he eyes the clock in his 126-pound match with Cox's Mike Battallo. Battallo won the match to stay unbeaten.

Bill Summs voted top defensive lineman

Bill Summs, Cox High School's outstanding defensive tackle, has been voted the most outstanding defensive lineman in Virginia Beach. He thus becomes the first winner of the David N. Maxwell Memorial Award.

The Maxwell Award is a three-foot high silver and walnut trophy purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Maxwell as a memorial to their son, David, who was a defensive tackle at Princess Anne High School. The award will be presented annually to the City's top defensive lineman as voted by the coaches of the six Beach high schools.

Summs was one of the most heavily recruited seniors in the area before signing a grant-in-aid with Virginia Tech a few weeks ago. He started at Cox for the past three years, playing on the offensive, defensive, and all specialty teams.

Beach Power Squadron will conduct free boating classes

The Virginia Beach Power Squadron is offering a free boating course at Virginia Beach Junior High School and at Princess Anne High School. The twelve week course will begin February 19th at Virginia Beach Junior and on February 20th at Princess Anne, commencing at 8 p.m. each course night.

Safe handling of all types of boats, especially the small family outboard, is emphasized. Registration is open to all interested men, women, and older teens. It is not even necessary to be a boat owner.

No advance registration is required. All registrations can be made on opening night at either of the locations.

BILL SUMMS

The 6', 218-pounder was regarded as one of the quickest linemen around. He has both strength and speed, enabling him to average eight unassisted and ten assisted tackles per game. He also blocked a kick and recovered three fumbles during the past season.

"In my fifteen years of coaching, he is one of the most outstanding linemen I've ever worked with," Cox coach Al Habit commented. "And I've worked with some great ones. He is very aggressive, fast, and strong. He is capable of starting with Tech next fall."

Real Estate Today

BY BUD LAUBACK G.R.I.
LARASAN REALTY CORP.

TAX TIP IF YOU SELL FOR A PROFIT

Normally, taxpayers who sell their home for a substantial profit face a heavy tax load, but this burden can be avoided: If you buy another home that costs as much or more than the sales price of the old one, within a specified time, the profit from the sale is not included in your taxable income.

Usually, the new house must be bought and occupied within a period starting one year before and ending one year after the sale. Longer periods are permitted for servicemen on active duty and when building a new home. This tax deferment applies only to the sale of a home which is the family's main residence.

When figuring the amount of gain for which tax may be postponed, you may deduct for "fix-up" expenses if they were accomplished within 90 days prior to the sale, and paid for no later than 30 days after the sale. Check with your accountant or the IRS on details if this matter affects you. It could be well worth your while.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Larasan Realty Corp., 3401 Virginia Beach Blvd. Phone: 340-3030. We're here to help!

PRINCESS ANNE—53, KELLAM 49

Kellam had upset on its mind Friday night before a partisan home crowd, and for three quarters of the game it looked as though the Knights would prevail. Princess Anne turned the game around in the final period and salvaged the win with a 53-49 final score.

Kellam led by one point, 13-12, at the end of the first quarter and kept their one point edge at the half, 29-28. Princess Anne battled back in the third period and took a one point lead, 39-38, by the end of the quarter. The Cavaliers outscored the Knights 14-10 in the final period to take the hard-fought game 53-48.

Jim Perkins was the top Kellam scorer with 13 points. Also in double-figures for the Knights were Tony Davis, 10 points, and Sam Baker, 11 points. The Knights played a very aggressive defensive game that nearly gave them a upset.

Mike Ange led Princess Anne and game scorers with 21 points. John Paden's 11 points and George Purdin's 10 rounded out a dual-figure scorers for the Cavaliers.

In the preliminary contest, Kellam's junior varsity knocked Princess Anne from the unbeaten ranks with a 64-48 win. The Junior Cavaliers now have a 11-1 record, while the Junior Knights are 4-6.

WASHINGTON 96, BAYSIDE 55
Booker T. Washington outscored Bayside in every quarter last Friday night in Scope in their 96-55 runaway victory. Bayside stayed within striking distance until the third quarter when the Bookers pulled out of Bayside's reach.

Bayside trailed 20-12 at the end of the first quarter and 44-32 at the half. The Bookers then went on a scoring spree, outscoring the Marlins 27-14 and 23-9 in the final two quarters.

Bayside had two players to finish in double figures. Elton Gross had 19 points, and Jim Goffigan hit for 11 tallies.

MAURY 82, KEMPSVILLE 55
In the other half of the Scope doubleheader, the outcome was just as one-sided. Only the names were different. This time it was Maury knocking off Kempsville 82-55.

Although Maury outscored Kempsville in every quarter, it was the lopsided second period that really sunk the Chiefs. In that fateful quarter, the Commodores burned the nets for 22 points while limiting the Chiefs to just nine.

Much to Kempsville's credit, the team did not give up. They fought Maury the last half tooth-and-nail, and Maury only managed a 41-30 scoring advantage in the last two quarters.

Jimmy Roberts was the only Kempsville player to finish in dual figures. He had 12 points for the night.

LAKE TAYLOR 91, FIRST COLONIAL 41

Virginia Beach should have stayed home Friday night. Not only did Bayside and Kempsville get soundly beaten on the courts in Norfolk, but Lake Taylor made it a complete sweep of visiting Beach schools by defeating First Colonial 95-41.

Lake Taylor's Titans bombed the Patriots every quarter. The only quarter that was even close was the second, as First Colonial made 13 points to Lake Taylor's 18.

Speedy Gainer was the only Patriot to hit double figures. He had 12 points for the night.

KEMPSVILLE 60, KELLAM 49

In a game that was nip-and-tuck until the final period, Kempsville broke the game open in the final quarter by outscoring Kellam 22-12 to win the thriller 60-49. The Thursday night contest looked as though the outcome could go either way until the final few minutes of play.

The first quarter ended in a 2-all tie. Kempsville led 28-24 at the half. Kellam pulled within a point, 36-37, at the end of the first quarter. Kempsville was as hot as Kellam was cold in the final quarter, and that made the difference.

Doug Benham was the only player to hit double figures for Kellam with 12 points. Jimmy Roberts and Britt Glisson wound up in dual figures for Kempsville. Roberts had a game-high 31 points, and Glisson had 10 tallies.

KEMPSVILLE 55, FIRST COLONIAL 43
Kempsville managed a narrow two-point lead, 12-10, at the end of the first quarter, but First Colonial tied things at 18-all at the half. The Chiefs broke the game open in the last two quarters by outscoring the Patriots 14-9 and 23-14 to pick up their sixth win of the season.

Britt Glisson led Kempsville and game scorers with 23 tallies. Jimmy Roberts also hit double-figures for the Chiefs with 17 points.

GRANBY 80, PRINCESS ANNE 79

Princess Anne dropped its third game of the season Tuesday night to visiting Granby. A valiant come-from-behind effort in the final quarter saw the Cavaliers outscore Granby 25-17, but the rally fell short and Princess Anne went down in defeat 80-79.

The Cavaliers led at the end of the first quarter 22-20. Granby got hot the middle two periods, outscoring Princess Anne 43-32, and made their lead hold up. Mike Ange led all game scorers with 35 points. Also in double figures for Princess Anne were George Purdin, with 12 points, and Robert Hughes, with 15.

WASHINGTON 81, COX 51
The first quarter was close. The rest of the game was not. Cox trailed the Bookers 14-13 at the end of the first period, but Washington went on a scoring binge the remaining three quarters to win a relatively easy victory.

Three Falcons hit double figures, led by Brooks Williams' 16 points. Randy Robinson scored 14 tallies, and Billy Titterner had 11 points.

LAKE TAYLOR 90, BAYSIDE 71

FLYING THROUGH THE AIR without the greatest of east is Kellam's Ken Bazemore. He runs into Mike Ange while heading toward the bucket.

A Virginia Institute of Marine Science study is underway to determine the best location for fallout to enter the ocean off Dam Neck. While this exact location is not known it has been indicated to be at some point beyond the surf zone.

Design of the plant is expected to require a year, with another two years anticipated for construction. A number of interceptor lines to serve the plant are already under construction, but it is expected at least four years will be required before the plant can be placed in operation.

VIRGINIA BEACH. Where The Living Is Lovely

Get away from it all

Imagine waking to the sound of a bounding surf, walking barefoot in soft sand, watching a seagull's graceful glide, or listening to the joyful laughter of children building sandcastles. All of this — and more — abounds along the 36 miles of wide, white, unspoiled beaches of the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay in Virginia Beach.

HEY YOU ...
WHERE'S YOUR
"PERSON TO PERSON"
CLASSIFIED AD?

And if Captain John Smith had had the foresight to become an innkeeper when he and his party landed April 26, 1607, on the shore that is now part of Virginia Beach, the company might be able today to boast of having more than 7,000 well-managed motel rooms available for the visiting public. But, instead Captain Smith became the first "tourist" in Virginia Beach. Virginia Beach, with its 222 square miles of land interlaced with 79 square miles of inland waterways and diversity of outdoor pleasures, unquestionably is becoming "the" place for vacationers in Virginia and several surrounding states. While some coastal vacation spots have reported "no-no" business, tourism in Virginia Beach has increased about 20 per cent each of the last three years.

Of course, new accommodations are going up continuously to keep pace with the Beach's ever-growing popularity. More than 800 new luxury motel rooms were added in the 1968-70 span, and already this year 171 new units have been started.

Besides the tremendous lure of nature and history to be enjoyed during the days, when the sun goes down Virginia Beach offers cocktails with the choicest seafood cuisine and a variety of other menus for memorable candlelight dining. Too, many of the restaurants regularly present first class entertainment.

For the outdoor sportsman, a number of charter fishing boats are ready to go fishing for Gulfstream marlin, bonito, the fighting bluefish, giant striped bass, tautog, flounder, spot and other varieties. Or, if hunting is the desire, the marksman might go on an in-season search for deer, turkey, wild boar, ducks, geese and occasionally bear in the 35,000-acre Back Bay section of Virginia Beach. Other nature lovers will revel at the marvels to be seen while walking the trails of 2,700-acre Seashore State Park, where several hundred different types of flowers and shrubs help moss-festooned trees set the stage for a chorus of rare birds and frolicking wildlife. More than 500 camping spaces also are available in Seashore State Park. Approximately 2,000 camping sites are available in private grounds in other sections of Virginia Beach.

PEACE: Chords swelled and filled the chapel as they gathered together with prayers of thanksgiving

By HELEN CRIST

Last Friday, just a little before noon...the sun beamed on the stained glass windows of the Oceana Chapel of the Good Shepherd, shooting flashes of brilliant colors on the turquoise carpeting of the sanctuary. It was empty, except for Mrs. Mary Boyd at the organ in the balcony. As the chords swelled and filled the chapel, the air seemed charged with expectancy, and with that special divinity that one often feels in emptied churches.

'This time it's got to be real'

In a few minutes, an ecumenical service of memorial thanksgiving would begin: memorial to former presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman, and to Martin Luther King; thanksgiving, for the signing of the Peace Treaty ending the Vietnamese war. There would be prayers for peace, and a special thanks for the return of POW's and MIA's.

It was, of course, the day before the official signing of the treaty in Paris, but as Lt. Cmdr. Michael P. O'Neill, Catholic chaplain said: "This time it's just got to be real." He would participate in the service with Capt. George T. Boyd and Cmdr. Ben A. Rice, Protestant chaplains.

It was nearly noon, and the doors began to open. There was subdued excitement, joy and anticipation as the people came in.

For Jane Denton, seven years a POW wife, there was no doubting her happiness.

Blessed with an inner poise and serene countenance, now she was beaming. "We're so very happy...and yet, there are so many missing in action that it's hard to rejoice too much," she said.

Her husband, Capt. Jeremiah Denton would be coming home, but she was remembering the other wives who weren't so fortunate. There were good wishes and hugs for Jane Tschudy, whose husband, Lt. Cmdr. William Tschudy was Denton's bombardier-navigator when their A-1A Intruder was shot down July, 1965.

We saw the happiness on the face of Betty Joy. Though her husband, Cmdr. James Joy was not a POW, he was Air Wing Commander on the America which deployed for Vietnam in June. And Betty would be seeing him soon.

"We've waited for this so long, but it can't be faced with total happiness and exhilaration," Betty said.

For Dorothy McDaniel, the wait for her husband, Cmdr. Eugene B. McDaniel, a POW for six years, would be ended.

There would be prayers for peace and a special thanks . . .

She talked of the reaction in the community about her.

"It's been overwhelming, my phone's been ringing all day. It just seems as if the people are so sympathetic in this area, and they're rejoicing with us. We can't thank them enough - please tell them that."

The word of peace was especially gratifying to Jill Seay, chairman of the POW-MIA. "They're Not Forgotten" committee. Jill's husband, Lt. Cmdr. M.E. Seay, Jr. was with her at the service.

"It's so unreal, but most of us feel that this is it. But we're going right ahead with the committee as long as they need us - selling the bracelets, buttons, bumper stickers. And we're putting up 'Welcome Home' billboards all across the country."

Mostly, there were women at the service...a few men and perhaps a dozen children in the 200 of the congregation.

'And may God grant that never again will you have to go forth to war.'

A few jets were heard as Capt. R.C. Mandeville, Oceana commanding officer, dedicated the service.

Together, the congregation sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." But the singing was not loud nor triumphant. Rather, there seemed a mood of quiet gratitude, almost as if to be loud and rejoicing might break the spell.

There was not a sound to be heard as Chaplain Rice, in a prayer of thanksgiving said: "Politicians may propose, but it is the little man, the grunt, the sailor, the flyer who disposes...amid squalor, loneliness, mind-numbing sleepiness, the stench of death and gut-churning fear.

"...It's the little man both here and abroad who most wants peace; who pauses at this pregnant promise of peace with a prayer of thanks to whom we say, with grateful hearts, well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter now into the joy of peace and rest. And may God grant that never again will you have to go forth to war."

Driving a school bus is a job 'that grows on you'

By LORNA ZILLER

"It grows on you. In the summertime when I'm off I miss my job," Mrs. Ida Bell Whitehurst commented.

"I enjoy my job. I enjoy the children. When I first started I needed a job. Then I found that I could do it and liked it," Mrs. Mary Virginia Gregory explained.

The job both ladies discussed so enthusiastically was that of bus driver for the Virginia Beach Public School System. Mrs. Whitehurst has held the position for 26 years while Mrs. Gregory drove her first bus 13 years ago.

Recalling the days when they began transporting students to the local schools, the ladies agreed that the bus system has improved over the years.

"When I began driving a bus there was no training at all. All you needed was a driver's license to operate a car," Mrs. Whitehurst said.

Mrs. Gregory rode on the bus she was to drive once before taking over so the lady she was replacing could show her how to shift. "I drove without scraping gears and ended up with a contract."

Today, all bus drivers and substitutes must meet requirements designated by the State Department of Education. They take a drivers' training course taught by Earl Stanley, supervisor of transportation and James C. Ross, assistant supervisor. It consists of eight hours of defensive driving training and eight hours of first aid instruction. They must pass a written examination and a road test to obtain a license to drive a bus.

According to Stanley, the steady improvement in the school bus system, particularly in the last five years, is a result of the training program plus better built buses which meet stricter safety standards than were in existence in years past. Safety features on buses include padded metal bars, cross-over mirrors, governors, flashing red lights and the color of the bus. More experienced drivers also contribute toward safer and better bus service.

"Twenty-four per cent of our drivers have 11 years or more service, while 76 per cent have from three to 10 years experience," J. Warren Littleton, director of transportation, remarked. "We only have about a 15 per cent turnover in drivers."

The continued improvement in the bus system has caused insurance rates to drop steadily since 1968, Ross indicated. Statistically during the period from Dec. 1, 1971 to Nov. 31, 1972 records indicate that 366 buses traveling 2,945,000 miles over 800 routes (athletic runs and field trips not included) carried 39,000 students to and from school with only 58 minor accidents reported to the Motor Vehicle Department. Approximately 90 per cent of the accidents were non-chargable and only 14 drivers out of the other 50 per cent were considered at fault.

Field trips average about 180 a month and no accidents have been reported. Athletic transportation is for the team and band members, ROTC units, cheerleaders and the drill teams only.

Both Mrs. Whitehurst and Mrs. Gregory have excellent safety records. Mrs. Whitehurst has been involved in only two small accidents, neither chargeable. Mrs. Gregory has not an accident.

Littleton explained that discipline on the whole is excellent on the buses which also is a positive safety factor. The drivers have the same control on the buses as teachers have in the classrooms with principals of the schools having the final say on discipline problems.

"We tell the parents it is the privilege of their child to ride the bus and he must obey the rules," Littleton said.

"I don't have any problems now," Mrs. Whitehurst remarked. "The little ones don't want to stay seated but I give them a good talking to about that and wanting to hang out the windows. They want to move around and talk to friends so I just put them on silence for awhile." She said the high school students present no discipline problems.

"I talk to the younger students about the danger of standing. I never have any problems with the high school students," Mrs. Gregory noted.

Mrs. Whitehurst's present route is Louise Luxford Elementary and Princess Anne High School. Mrs. Gregory transports students to Linkhorn Park Elementary and First Colonial High School.

Safety rules are posted on each bus with the understanding that the bus driver has the responsibility and authority to enforce all regulations. Passengers are not permitted to throw objects on the bus or out the windows and glass objects or live animals may not be carried on the vehicle. Other rules include the prohibition of smoking, eating or drinking on the bus, the use of improper language, excessive noise or putting the head, arms or legs out the window. The bus driver may refuse to allow any student on the bus who has an unsafe object in his possession such as matches, firearms or knives.

Both bus drivers mentioned a safety factor involving the cooperation of other drivers on the road—that of stopping for a bus that is letting passengers on or off. Drivers do not always stop as they should.

"That is one thing that really provokes me," Mrs. Gregory admitted. "I always hold the door until I see that all of the cars have stopped."

Mrs. Whitehurst said she has had problems with cars not stopping and she has noticed that women drivers are the worst offenders.

"There are also the occasional drivers who will cut in front of the bus from a side street because they don't want to get behind it and have to stop."

They also mentioned they are very cautious when they know students getting off the bus have to cross in front of it.

"I always count the kids who will be crossing in front of the bus and then count them as they go by."

Proper maintenance of the buses also plays an important role in the continued improvement of the transportation system.

Willis Hughes, the supervisor of the maintenance garage, said the 28 buses receive regular check-ups. From 10 to 30 buses a day go through the garage for servicing. The shop has 17 employees including seven specially trained mechanics and seven helpers. Four service trucks and a wrecker with a crane are available to aid any buses which break down on their routes. The garage is open from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the trucks are available until 4:30 p.m.

The maintenance department has grown in the 36 years Mr. Hughes has been with it. The original shop was a tin shed with room for two buses and eight buses to service.

At present one main problem facing the transportation department personnel is finding substitute drivers, Stanley said. To qualify for a position a person must be between 16 and 65 years old, have never been convicted of a felony, who can pass a physical examination plus a chest x-ray and have a moral slip signed by two reputable citizens.

The regular drivers are mostly housewives. Several men are signed up as substitutes but only three are full-time drivers. Women with pre-school children are allowed to take them with her if seats are available.

In addition to driving a bus, Mrs. Whitehurst works for three and a half hours in the Princess Anne High School kitchen. Mrs. Gregory is a monitor in the cafeteria at Sealack Elementary from 10:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

The Old World comes to the Beach

"Quaint" is the adjective that comes to mind as one steps through the door into the Old World Village Inc. at 222 First Colonial St.

Composed of eight individual shops, the Village opened in June in the building once housing Hirtz Bazaar and Auction. Patrons may browse through the period, toy, calico, silver and curiosity shops, country house, year-round Christmas shop and the Thieves market, which contains much of merchandise left by prior owners.

"We never closed our doors. We constructed around the customers," Mrs. Nancy Sullivan, co-owner, said. "They enjoyed it. Some of them even liked to come around just to see the progress."

Operation of the Village in the family enterprise of the Sullivans and family of Wilkie Wilkerson, the other half of the partnership. Remodeling was undertaken by family members, friends and acquaintances.

"I had the ideas for the shops in my head. Wilkie knew how to put them down in wood," Mrs. Sullivan explained.

Debbie and Diane Sullivan and Kathy, Julie and Barbara Wilkerson help out in the shop which is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The doors were opened from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. during the Christmas holidays.

Antique and country store items from Country-American period and "early attic" furniture to stationary, dress materials and trims of all sorts may be found in the shop.

Each shop is decorated to surround visitors with an old world atmosphere that makes them feel as if they have returned to the days of yore.

Rather unique antique pieces on display include an old-fashioned popcorn cart, cook stove, tilting table and a dress form which dates around the early 1900's (the latter is not for sale and is affectionately known as Minerva).

Although new furniture is not stocked in the store, it can be ordered for customers preferring the mod look to the Country-American one. Persons redecorating their homes may select all accessories as well as the furniture at the Village. Professional advice may be obtained from Mrs. Sullivan who does interior decorating in addition to helping out in the combined shops.

Mrs. Jerry Curling of the Beach stitches up the country curtain orders, while other draperies and curtains are done by custom houses.

Future plans in addition to finishing up the present shops, include a restaurant to be known as "The Victorian".

"It will be a very unusual restaurant and good food with just a touch of gourmet will be served," Mrs. Sullivan noted with enthusiasm. "It will be very quiet and sophisticated and there won't be anything like it anywhere else in the area."

In discussing the history of the Village, Mrs. Sullivan explained that she and Mrs. June Bolick opened a very small shop years ago with under $100. They kept reinvesting their profits until their business which began in three little rooms of approximately 500 feet expanded to an enterprise housed in 3,000 square feet of space.

"We learned by doing and our shop grew until we took over the whole building in which it was located. All advertising was done by word of mouth," Mrs. Sullivan recalled.

After Mrs. Bolick decided to retire in June, Mr. Wilkerson became Mrs. Sullivan's new partner. She had become acquainted with the Wilkersons last winter when Mrs. Wilkerson came into the shop to buy a yard of ruffling. Before the sale was finished Mrs. Wilkerson had asked Mrs. Sullivan to help with the interior decorating of Rose Hall.

Mrs. Wilkerson now keeps the books for the business as well as helping in other phases of the remodeling.

"There is nothing they can't do or figure out how to do," Mrs. Sullivan said of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson. "Without them I would have had difficulty getting my ideas to turn out as beautifully as they have."

Return phones and save money

About a year ago, The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia introduced a plan whereby residence customers could save $5 on their installation charges when they carried their phone(s) with them when they moved.

Now C&P is providing another way to save. A C&P residence customer who disconnects his phone service for one reason or another may receive a $5 credit. To receive this credit the customer cuts the cord of his telephone(s) near the connecting block and takes the phone(s) to a C&P business office or other designated location.

L. F. Patrick, local manager for C&P, pointed out that this credit of $5 is only applicable to subscribers who have basic telephone service.

Probation given for selling drugs

David J. Zackowski has been placed on four years probation following his conviction of two counts of sale of marijuana. Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr., placed Zackowski on probation after suspending a four year sentence on the conviction.

Judge Wahab upheld the recommendation of probation in a pre-sentence report on Zackowski following a plea from Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Sciortino that he be imprisoned.

Zackowski, 24, Temple, Penn., was convicted of two separate sales of marijuana to an undercover policeman while stationed in Virginia Beach as a serviceman.

In recommending Zackowski's imprisonment Sciortino said, "Anyone who sells drugs should be incarcerated, go to the penitentiary." Pointing to recent increases in drug trafficking in the resort city as well as increasing number of drug law violation arrests, Sciortino indicated the failure to send those convicted of drug law violations to prison is creating growing disrespect for the law.

He said, "It's impossible to maintain credibility with young people that using drugs is contrary to the law. They see people coming to court and going back on the streets, it's all just a big game to them. They just don't believe there's anything wrong with using or selling drugs. The only way to convince them is sentencing to the penitentiary."

Defense Attorney Lucien B. Cox, III, countered with, "The greatest credibility is a fair administration of justice, consideration of the individuals involved." He also pointed to Zackowski's entering college while awaiting a pre-sentence report following his conviction, and his not becoming involved with the law again.

Judge Wahab indicated that his review of the case and material contained in the pre-sentence report resulted in the opinion that imprisonment of Zackowski would serve his purpose towards his rehabilitation.

Pari-mutuel betting would relieve burden of taxation

To The Editor:
How long are we to sit idly by while we are being taxed to the hilt in one form or another and more to come, along with the ever rising rates of utilities and water consumption? Whenever pari-mutuels are mentioned to alleviate many of these taxations the hue and cry goes out about the evils that follow.

These groups or individuals should stop and consider that the 10 per cent who would fall by the wayside would do so regardless of pari-mutuels and that 90 per cent would be relieved of the heavy burden of taxation thrust upon them.

Did we not have the same hue and cry about whiskey-by-the-drink? Are we in the Tidewater area going to sit idly by in a tourist paradise where thousands visit annually and offer them nothing but a body of water and force them to other states to enjoy pari-mutuel racing and let some other city within 100 or 200 miles from here get ahead of us?

Are we to listen to the notables of Northern Virginia about what is best for our populace?

Bicyclist wants trails

To The Editor:
As a bicyclist and a student concerned with the growing ecological problems of our area, I wish to express my support of the proposed bike trails in the Seashore State Park. Also the idea of a network of bike trails.

Not only will these bike trails provide an activity area for family and group outings, but what better way of showing your children the beauty of nature. A bike trail could provide a place for science teachers and parents to teach children to appreciate the things of nature that are fast disappearing due to pollution.

Bike trails could also provide an enjoyable way to exercise to benefit the individual's health and if a network of bike trails were created, bicycle enthusiasts could ride bikes instead of driving a car. This would cut down on pollution and help to preserve the beauty of nature and prolong the life of man by giving his environment a chance to recover from pollution.

Sincerely,
Roxana Bertka

REPORT FROM SEN. JOE CANA

As the Senate completed its third week of the General Assembly's "short session," discussion centered largely on a number of public hearings in which many Virginia Beach citizens participated.

A public hearing on the Bingo Bill, introduced in the House of Delegates by Del. Lester Schlitz of Portsmouth, was held on January 24. Representatives from several churches in Virginia Beach were present to show their support for this legislation. Many of us in the Senate would like to find a way to make it possible for volunteer fire departments, rescue squads, and other charitable organizations to make money on such games. I support this legislation, but I want to be sure that the criminal elements cannot get their hands on any part of the profits from Bingo lotteries and raffles conducted in the name of charities.

NON-RETURNABLE CONTAINERS

A public hearing on the Non Returnable Container Bill was also held this week. I introduced this legislation in the Senate and I believe that it will save the consumer money. It will also conserve some of our natural resources. Last year, the State of Virginia spent over one million dollars for picking up litter on interstate, primary and secondary highways. I believe that this standard returnable bottle which will have a refund value of 2 cents. The standard type bottle would reduce the sorting required by the dealer, and reduction in the refund being decided upon to encourage this type of container.

Most dealers complained that while they did not mind getting back bottles, they definitely did not want to have to handle empty cans. As a result, provision was made for establishing redemption centers. These centers must provide a convenient service to customers for the return of empty beverage containers for specific dealers. Each dealer who is served by a redemption center may request to provide a refund, and may instead direct his consumer to obtain in the refund of the redemption center. It is expected that this option will be exercised mainly for cans, and only in the metropolitan areas. I want to thank the many citizens who came to the public hearing and made statements in support of the Non-Returnable Container Bill. The presentations were factual and interesting; they contributed significantly to our case. The Committee will not act on the bill until Monday, January 29.

REPORTING CHILD ABUSE

Governor Linwood Holton declared last week to be Child Abuse Prevention Week. Teachers in public and private schools, and more specifically, those teachers in nurseries and kindergartens are in positions to directly observe cases of children who have been abused by their parents or relatives. Under the present Child Abuse Law, however, teachers are not included in the list of professionals, i.e., doctors, nurses, case workers, etc., who are granted immunity from civil court proceedings when reporting child abuse cases.

I have introduced a bill which allows teachers to report abuse cases without fear of being prosecuted. I feel that this will have a great effect on seeing that more infractions of child abuse are enforced.

There are a number of bills left to be considered this session. As your representative, I want to know your feelings before I vote on these matters. Therefore, in this week's column I am including a public survey which asks citizens to indicate their preference on several important issues. A response to this questionnaire would be greatly appreciated. It will indicate to me that you are interested in helping your Senator and that you are interested in participating in our democratic process of government. Please return the questionnaires to this address: Senator J. Joseph Cana, State Capitol, Richmond, Virginia 23219.

DELEGATE MCCLANAN'S BILLS

Virginia Beach Delegate Glenn McClanahan's proposed amendment to the State's Sunday Blue Law was to come before a joint session of the Senate and House General Laws Committee Tuesday afternoon.

Delegate McClanahan's bill (House Bill 1405) would require an employer to inform new employees whether or not they would be required to work on Sundays. An employee is fired for refusing to work on Sunday and was not informed of the requirement at the time of hiring, the employer would be subject to a misdemeanor.

Business which have established Sunday openings would not be subject to the McClanahan proposal.

Last week McClanahan introduced two bills which could have far ranging effects in Tidewater. The first bill would limit the charges that one city could make to customers outside its boundaries to 50 per cent above the amount charged within its own boundaries.

Among cities in the Old Dominion which are currently charging no more than 50 per cent above are Bristol, Clifton, Ashland, Bluefield, Stanton, and South Hill.

The second bill provides that cities selling water and other utilities to non residents come under the control of the State Corporation Commission.

In Tidewater, McClanahan's bill would bring Norfolk under the State Corporation Commission.

REV. JACKSON GIVES INVOCATION

At the invitation of Delegate Glenn B. McClanahan, Rev. Roy R. Jackson, 413 23rd Street, Virginia Beach, gave the invocation convening the January 22, 1973 daily session of the Virginia House of Delegates. Rev. Jackson is a resident of Virginia Beach, is the retired minister of Beach Grove and Bethel United Methodist Churches. The invocation which he gave was as follows:

"Almighty God, the Supreme Architect of the Universe, the Creator of all things both large and small, hear us as we invoke Thy Presence and benediction upon us.
We are Thy servants into whose hands has been committed the awesome responsibility for the well being of the citizens of this Commonwealth of Virginia.
- Father give us ears with which to hear, knowledge that we may evaluate, wisdom to execute.
Faith and compassion to reach beyond visible limits.
May we seek solutions, not mere evasions.
May we recognize needs, as opposed to desires.
May we see individuals, not masses.
May we be less conscious of self and personal strivings and more conscious of those less fortunate than ourselves.
May we be so blessed as to ask the right questions and then answer them attentively for the answers.
As of old may we hear these words:
"And what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with your God." Amen."

Peace

January 27, 1973. Saturday night. Not like any other Saturday night. Not like any other day. The dark strikes seven. A flood of emotion. Tears, laughter. A memory that has haunted. The voice of fifteen year old son. "Mom, I don't want to have to go to Vietnam." Empty assurances of peace. Three doubled years. An eighteenth birthday. A draft card. High school senior. Somewhere a church bell. Peace. "Thank you, God, for answering this other's prayers." A very personal peace.

Bill for a voice

Delegate Glenn McClanahan has introduced a Bill before the General Assembly that would permit the inclusion of major community issues on the ballots during the November elections, allowing the people to express their opinions on issues affecting them.

This proposed legislation makes so much sense one wonders why it has not been done long before now. What better, and inexpensive, way to determine the thinking of the people than to open issues to the voters?

Had this been done in the past today's legislators would be in a better position to know how the voters feel on pari-mutuel betting, legalized bingo and other forms of gambling for charity, the Sunday Blue Laws, even go-go dancers.

The laws of this country should be for the people. The people should therefore have a more direct voice in the laws. The Bill proposed by Delegate McClanahan has promise as a means to that end.

Ida Patricia Davis weds Curtis Graves

Miss Ida Patricia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morris Davis of Virginia Beach, became the bride of Curtis McKee Graves, son of Irvin M. Graves of Salem, Mass., and Mrs. Elsie T. Scholl of Daytona, Fla., January 20 at 3 p.m. at United Community Methodist Church with the Rev. Herbert A. Moyer officiating.

The bride was escorted and given away by her father. She wore a gown of ivory de-lustered satin. The empire bodice had a Victorian high collar and long full bishop sleeves accented with re-embroidered alencon lace and baby seed pearls.

The hem of the A-line skirt which flowed to a chapel length train was bordered with a wide band of French alencon lace. The bride chose a face-framing bonnet of alencon lace and seed pearls. Three-tiered graduated nylon illusion lace billowed from the headpiece.

The bride carried a cascade of stephanotis, sweetheart roses and a cymbidium orchid to match the ivory color of her gown.

Mrs. Sandra A. Lahren of Virginia Beach served as matron of honor. She wore an A-line empire gown with ivory chiffon bodice and deep burgundy velvet skirt. A bib effect was formed on the bodice.

with imported Venice lace flowers. The ensemble was completed with a velvet Juliet cap. The matron of honor carried carnations in shades of pink in a bouquet type container.

Bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Foster of Portsmouth and Miss Mollie Heffner of Richmond. Miss Terry Chory, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. The attendants wore gowns to match the ensemble of the matron of honor.

Victor Glancey of Norfolk served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Clay Allen of Garner, N.C., and David Seymour of Virginia Beach.

A reception in the church social hall followed the ceremony.

The bride graduated from Princess Anne High School and Princess Anne Business College. She attended Louisa (N.C.) College and Old Dominion University. She teaches piano with the National Guild Association and is currently employed as a clerk at the Naval Amphibious School, Little Creek.

The groom is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and attended school in Cambridge, Mass. He is presently employed by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company.

The couple will live in Virginia Beach.

Girl Scouts to conduct Beach recycling project

The Linkhorn Neighborhood Girl Scouts working with ECOS will conduct a service project of glass collection for the purpose of recycling. The Scouts will be distributing posters and fliers throughout the neighborhoods, so please be watching for them. This project is being conducted by all the age levels in scouting - Brownies through to the Seniors with the help from the leaders. Besides the glass, trucks, boxes or drums, and support from the community are desperately needed to make this worthwhile project a success.

Collection points are being set up in local neighborhoods. During the week of February 4-9 Girl Scouts will be canvassing their neighborhoods for those who require help in transporting their glass to the local collection points. Most of these collection points will have banners or signs in front announcing that they will receive glass. So look for these banners in the following neighborhoods: Seatack, Colony Trailer Court, Triangle Trailer Court, Lindeer, Laurel Manor, Chancicler, Bay Colony, Oceana, Shadowlawn, 17th Street thru 26th Street, North Virginia Beach, and Croatan Beach.

February 10 is the date set for rounding up the glass collected and transporting it to the Tiny Giant on Holly Road. Glass will also be received at the Tiny Giant during the hours of 10 thru 1. From this point the glass will be taken to Portsmouth to the ECOS glass recycling center. Truck will be necessary for this.

It is the hope of us all that with the great community help and support perhaps Virginia Beach could be a location for a glass recycling center.

Birthright: a pro-life organization

"We feel we are a pro-life organization. When a pregnant girl comes to us for help, we see the lives of two individuals—the developing baby and the mother. Hopefully we can offer life to the baby and hope to the mother."

The observation was offered by Mrs. Rosemary Fotheringham, director of the Virginia Beach chapter of Birthright, an organization which offers 24-hour service to assist distressed pregnant women at no charge to the clients.

Girls and women seeking help through Birthright talk with trained volunteers who can tell them what services are available to them. The volunteers also will set up appointments with area doctors or clinics and, if necessary, provide transportation. Counselors will aid the client in finding employment to enable her to meet financial obligations generated by the pregnancy. Baby clothes and other items may be provided and, in emergencies, even furniture and food.

"Birthright personnel will help arrange any financial, medical or religious assistance needed, as well as legal and adoptive counseling. Pregnancy tests are also provided," Mrs. Fotheringham explained.

All counseling and assistance are directed toward helping the expectant mother who may be considering abortion, in surmounting obstacles—physical and/or mental—which have caused her to decide not to have the baby.

"Most of our clients are unwed, white and under 21. They have no knowledge of community resources, are often frightened and have no where to turn unless they have a good relationship with their parents," Mrs. Fotheringham said.

Mrs. Fotheringham said,

Birthright founder Mrs. Louise Summerhill of Toronto, Canada, felt a woman's natural instinct is to have the baby regardless of circumstances. However, the attitude of society toward unwed mothers is often one of ostracism and condemnation. The woman is generally the sole victim of the situation as the father escapes unscathed.

Mrs. Summerhill felt the unwed mother "deserved a helping hand through pregnancy and in having the baby rather than having to resort to an abortion because of pressure from family and acquaintances."

The organization was founded four years ago in Toronto by Mrs. Summerhill with the contention that "it is the right of every woman to give birth and the right of every child to be born," Mrs. Fotheringham explained.

"We, in Birthright, don't feel the woman solves her problems by aborting a pregnancy."

Many of the girls who call Birthright have aborted one pregnancy and are pregnant again. Some of the girls have become pregnant again by the same man who was responsible for the first baby.

"The girls seem to learn more responsibility if they carry the baby to full term whether they keep it or let it be adopted," Mrs. Fotheringham said.

For instance, one girl living at home was told by her father to have an abortion or move out of the house. She was not financially able to move into an apartment so had the abortion. She was then ostracized by her family for aborting the baby.

Continued family pressures caused her to begin seeing the married man who was the father of her first baby and she became pregnant again. The second time she sought help through Birthright so she could have the baby.

"We try to give the sympathy and understanding that the girls miss at home so they won't have to return to the man who got them pregnant in the first place," Mrs. Fotheringham commented.

"The decision of many women, particularly young girls, to have an abortion is based on the lack of knowledge on fetal development. It's a question of ignorance. Young people don't know what is involved. They wouldn't consider it if they knew the facts of fetal development."

She explained that the brain and heart of an eight weeks old baby are recordable. Slides, posters and other media available through Birthright show abortions by suction at eight weeks, a D&C abortion by salt poisoning at 12 and Cesarean at 24 weeks.

"We've had more reports of salt poisoning which is an agonizing death for the baby although the Cesarean is worse because the baby is alive when taken out."

Girls who contact an organization to arrange an abortion also must be aware of "hijackers" in the abortion business. One young girl pregnant for the second time, told Birthright personnel she had flown to New York for an abortion the first time. It was arranged through an area organization. Upon her arrival at the airport she was approached by a man who inquired if she were there for an abortion. Thinking he was from the agency to which she had been referred she went with him only to find herself in a room filled to over capacity with women waiting for abortions.

"She told me they were given numbers for the abortions. She was placed in a reclining chair to abort, was told to sit for an hour and was back home the same day. She became so depressed she had to seek professional help."

The approximately 60 volunteers in the local Birthright chapter have been trained in the art of counseling through professional organizations such as Family Service and Catholic Family Service. The training consists of three evening sessions once a week. The new volunteers then work with senior counselors for on-the-job training.

"Their function is quite different than normal counseling as they are the middlemen between the girls and the services which can help them," Mrs. Fotheringham said. "Volunteers are from all walks of life and are selected because of a sincere desire to help pregnant girls."

Mrs. Fotheringham said the volunteers must be mature, stable, well-balanced, sensible, sympathetic and "have the certain something that helps them relate to other human beings."

There is no paid personnel connected with Birthright and volunteers work on a first name basis to keep a more informal atmosphere as well as for protection.

If a problem of a client is so complicated the lay volunteers can no longer handle it they will send her to the most appropriate agency. "We have doctors, psychiatrists and social workers we can call on for medical assistance or in-depth counseling."

Since founded by the Canadian housewife, 100 Birthright chapters or similar organizations may be found in Canada, United States, New Zealand, England and Australia.

Virginia chapters are located in Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Falls Church with others being planned in Richmond, Newport News and Roanoke. The chapters offer educational material on fetal development and abortions for use in schools and by other organizations. "Sex, should we wait" by Dr. J.C. Wilke introduces young people to attitudes one should take toward sex. It is available in book form, cassettes or records. "Handbook on Abortion" is also available.

Birthright has been criticized because abortion is not included as one of our solutions for solving an unwed girl's problem. Mrs. Fotheringham explained, "To us, abortion is not a positive solution but rather a negative one. It's an instant band-aid or pain killer to cover-up conditions which caused the pregnancy in the first place."

Hub announces new promotions

Joseph L. Redden has been promoted to manager of The Hub in Pembroke Mall Shopping Center, according to William M. Mullally, president of the nine-store chain of men's clothing stores.

Redden joined The Hub in June, 1970, and was later promoted to Assistant Manager of the Military Circle store.

Beauty pageant resumes at Beach

Virginia Beach was not represented in the Miss America Pageant last year. The Virginia Beach Jaycees sponsored the pageant in 1970 and the Chamber of Commerce in 1971. But neither renewed the franchise in 1972.

Now, in 1973, the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant is in the hands of two local residents, Mrs. Marietta White and Mrs. Polly Pearce. The two women have formed the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant Committee which is now in the process of formulating plans for the event.

Applications will be accepted for candidates until February 15 for the Beach Pageant in May. Any girl living in Virginia Beach or who is a full time student in Virginia Beach, who is between the ages of 18 and 28; and has never been married, is eligible.

Contestants will compete in three divisions: swimsuit, evening gown, and three-minute talent presentation. The winner of the Miss Virginia Beach pageant will go on to the state Miss Virginia competition to be held in Roanoke in July.

Asked why she had undertaken the gigantic project and responsibility of a beauty pageant, Mrs. White replied, "I feel that a city the size of Virginia Beach ought to be represented in such a state and national function."

A preliminary interview of the local candidates will narrow the number of contestants to 12. The pageant judging of these 12 will be based on talent - 50 percent; swimsuit - 25 percent; and evening gown - 25 percent.

The winner of the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant, in addition to being eligible for the state competition, will be awarded a scholarship. The scholarship money will come from advertising sales as well as from donations. The winner of the state competition will receive a $1000 scholarship and the winner of the Miss America Pageant will receive a $10,000 scholarship.

Anyone interested in competing in the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant should contact Mrs. Marietta White at 340-4078 or Mrs. Polly Pearce at 420-8906.

Portraits by Torres offers photography for all occasions

"Photography for all occasions" is the trademark of Portraits by Torres Ltd., a professional portrait studio located at 4221 Virginia Beach Blvd. at Thalia, across the street from Willis Wayside.

George Torres, who has been a professional photographer for 20 years, is the owner manager, chief photographer and photo finisher of Portraits by Torres. Torres is a Cuban who sought asylum in this country after escaping the Castro regime. He was a free-lance photographer in Cuba. He was the first photographer to process color in Cuba and is now the first photographer in this area to do his own color processing.

"I knew Castro in school, although he was older than me," Torres said, "He was also a free-lance photographer."

Torres came to this state because he had visited the United States before and liked Virginia best of all the states he visited. Torres was a photographer for WAVY-TV for four years before he opened his own studio in 1964 at Ward's Corner.

He has been at the Thalia location since August.

Torres is aided by a competent professional staff. His wife Modesto is also a photographer who shoots many weddings. The studio also has a complete bridal consulting service headed by Mrs. Evie Myatt, former bridal consultant for Rose Hall. Mrs. Myatt helps brides-to-be and their mothers plan every detail of the wedding, from choosing the correct invitation to helping the bride dress.

"Her real purpose is to take the weight of the wedding off the bride and her mother," said Tom Myatt, Evie's husband.

Tom handles public relations services for the studio and also assists Torres with the color processing.

The Torres studio handles all types of photography, including commercial and portrait, but weddings are the specialty. "Every wedding is different," Torres said, "so I try to look at them in different ways. I try to be creative. No two people are alike, so I try not to make any two weddings alike."

"We have a real soft-sell operation here," Tom Myatt said. "There are no hidden charges. When we quote a price, that's it. And we depend on a awful lot on word of mouth advertising. People who use us like our work and they tell their friends. And that's what we depend on."

THE BIBLE SAYS

Question: WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY ABOUT LENT?

ANSWER: The Bible says absolutely nothing about Lent. This is another ordinance and religious observance invented by Rome and is not from God. Lent is Roman Catholic in its origin, though its name is from the word "Lent" (from the Latin "Lentus" meaning "slow") which is the last thing before Lent, a time in which to "sober and indulge the desires of the flesh. If they MUST be called upon to FAST during Lent, then they MUST be given special license and opportunity to indulge the flesh before Lent!"

Thus, in the city of New Orleans (and other places), they have a "carnival." Ash Wednesday begins Lent, so the "Mardi Gras," which means "Fat Tuesday," is held the day before. The Mardi Gras celebration is a pure indulgence of the flesh, and it is expected to be "suspiciously 'religious people' to get them through Lent, the time of fasting. Vice and immorality runs rampant in these celebrations. But, after 'carnival' time — the season of merry-making, before Lent (Wednesday) — and after 'Fat Tuesday,' during which the desires of the flesh have been satisfied, these same people sanctimoniously and piously enter into a period of fasting to make them seem 'very religious.' (1 Tim. 3:2)

Some of the young people of this generation have objected to the hypocrisy of religion. If they are objecting to the sort of thing described above, then they are one hundred percent right! The whole concept of Lent and accompanying observances is without the authority of God, and nowhere to be found in the Bible. We refuse to subject ourselves to such practices which, at the very best, are the height of hypocrisy and an abomination to Jehovah God!

ALPHA Brain Wave Function

FOR EVERYONE INTERESTED IN DEVELOPING MENTAL POWERS.

On April 2nd a television network carried a science news special — "The Unexplained" by a well known narrator — in which one of the most fantastic breakthroughs in modern psychology was discussed. This new scientific breakthrough deals with the conscious control of one's brain waves. Researchers have demonstrated that with "Alpha" training a person can eliminate anxiety, tension, and frustration. Also they could enhance concentration, awareness and recall. In fact alpha control is escalating the expansion of human development at a fantastic pace.

SILVA MIND CONTROL using mental training exercises, has successfully trained over 75,000 individuals to turn the Alpha Wave on and off at will and then practice applications of this exciting new technique for developing a superior way of life.

Initial research was started by Mr. Jose Silva in 1944 with techniques being improved and refined to the point that a few hours of classroom instruction is all that is needed to be much more effective in the routine of daily living. LEARN SPECIFIC TECHNIQUES. Once you have mastered the techniques of Silva MIND CONTROL you can totally relax anytime you desire; you can eliminate insomnia, anxiety, tension; have greater artistic ability; enhance your learning capacity; have more vitality and energy; be more successful in your business and personal life; eliminate bad habits and create good habits; control your weight, smoking, etc.

IMPROVE YOURSELF CONFIDENCE AND ASSURANCE. ELIMINATE FEARS AND BECOMING A TRULY HAPPY, EFFECTIVE PERSON. You will learn techniques to help your loved ones in dramatic and effective ways. Become a better student, parent, employee/employer; a more effective problem solver.

Our students learn techniques to become more sensitive to the feelings and emotional attitudes of others. Learn to become intuitive; learn to develop controlled E.S.P. and everyday practical applications of the so-called extra senses!

COME SHARE THE EXCITEMENT. THIS MAY WELL BE THE MOST INTERESTING, INFORMATIVE, AND STIMULATING LECTURE OF YOUR LIFE.

Annie Patterson knows and tells Did McGovern bug the Democrats?

Was Henry Kissinger marked for death?
Was Mary Jo dead before she hit the water?
Did TWA ship secret ammunition to Africa in 1959-60?

Annie R. Patterson has answers to these questions. Lee Harvey Oswald killed no one. Wallace double-crossed L.B.J. and H.H.H. and was shot. Nixon bugged no one.

James McCord master-minded the plots to kill R.F.K., J.F.K. and M.L.K. Annie R. Patterson has support for these statements. Wallace and his million dollar take. The plot to kill Nixon. McGovern and his concentration camps for the aged.

Joseph Kennedy and his $30 million Las Vegas casinos. Annie R. Patterson can tell these stories.

Annie R. Patterson is living on the fifth floor of the now empty Cavalier Hotel in a suite overlooking the Atlantic Ocean and the hibernating resort area of Virginia Beach. She lives alone, surrounded by books, papers, and her typewriter. She loves the quiet winter beach and the peaceful woods.

Life for Annie Patterson is calm...now. But the past fifteen years have been exciting, dangerous, and dramatic. She has spent five years in a Mexican prison for confiscating nuclear films. She interceded with China on behalf of the United States to bring an end to the war. She has been closely involved in the lives of Robert Kennedy, Joseph Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Howard Hughes, and Jimmy Hoffa.

Mrs. Patterson has compiled her experiences into a book entitled "The Great Expose No. 1". The first books came off the press last November and there are about 40 in circulation right now. By February 5, 2,000 will be in book stores. Mrs. Pat-

Civic Ballet auditions set

The Virginia Beach Civic Ballet will hold auditions for apprentice, junior and senior level dancers on Saturday, February 10, and 3 p.m. at 1120 First Colonial Road.

All area ballet students are eligible to participate. Major Burchfield, ballet master, will conduct the auditions.

Dance auditions to be held

Tidewater Dance Guild will hold open auditions on Saturday, February 3, at 1 p.m. for a special concert at Chrysler Museum.

The Guild needs additional dancers for a concert of all original Tidewater works to be presented March 23 and 24 at the museum theatre.

Auditions will be held at the Guild studio, 5772 Arrowhead Drive, in the Kempsville area. Additional information may be obtained by calling 499-1928.

Promises, Promises

One performance saves day

When the Jack Lemmon-Shirley McLaine movie version of Neil Simon's book "The Apartment" swept the country by storm, and even walked off with the Academy Award, little did people know that its musical adaptation would take over.

But it has. "Promises, Promises" has swept through the road show circuit and is now infiltrating the dinner theatre field.

Adapting a show of such magnitude, with its numerous set changes, to theatres of limited capabilities, is no easy matter.

The Tidewater Dinner Theatre's presentation of "Promises, Promises" is a valiant try. But the disadvantages of technical limitations are there and are apparent. The sets are dwarfed by the enormity of the stage and the 14 changes that take the audience to some six different locations become wearisome.

The show has one very strong feature going for it, however; a talented and dynamic young man by the name of Christopher Cooney who almost singlehandedly overcomes some of the production's drawbacks.

In his role as Chuck Baxter, the ambitious junior executive who strives for the top by lending his apartment to the senior executives for meetings with their girlfriends, Cooney is fascinating to watch.

There's much of Tony Curtis in Cooney but it only takes a moment to realize that the impression is for real; it is not an impersonation.

Patricia Reedy portrays Fran Kubelik, the co-worker Chuck loves only to learn she is one of the girls who frequents his apartment, but her interpretation of the role loses the pathos that makes Frank believable and inspires sympathy in the audience.

Her most touching moment in the show is when she gently strums the guitar and sings "I'll Never Fall in Love Again."

Victor Savage is good as Dr. Dreyfuss, Chuck's neighbor who marvels at the number of girls who visit the apartment, but the role would have more comedy impact if Savage were more forceful, a stronger character.

The other roles are primarily vignettes and are treated as such.

There is much left undone in this show; it doesn't quite come up to its expectations. But the performance of Cooney makes up for most of what is lacking and turns "Promises, Promises" into an enjoyable evening.

Jaycees awards

William L. Shephard, Jr. has been selected by the Virginia Beach Jaycees as the "Outstanding Young Man of 1972".

The annual Jaycee award is awarded to a young man between the ages of 21-35, who is selected by a committee of civic and community leaders in Virginia Beach. Nominations were solicited from the citizens of Virginia Beach.

Shephard was presented the award at a Jaycee Award Dinner, held January 23 at the White Heron Motel.

Shephard, who is Vice-President of the Air-A-Plane Corporation, was president of the Jaycees in 1969-1970 when he led the chapter to a banner year. In 1970, he was named as one of the Outstanding Young Men in America; in 1971 he was named one of the Outstanding Young Men in The South and one of the Outstanding Community Leaders in 1972. He presently serves as Chairman of the Board of Tidewater Gatehouse, which assists job corp trainees in finding employment in The Tidewater Area. A graduate of V.P.I. Shephard is married and has three sons.

Also honored at the banquet was James N. Fletcher. Fletcher was named "Boss of the Year". The Jaycees honored Fletcher because of his service in the community. Fletcher, a native of Memphis, Tennessee, is presently store manager of Sears at Pembroke Mall. He has been with Sears since 1948 and came to the Tidewater Area in 1969. Since then, Fletcher has served as President of the Pembroke Mall Merchant's Association, Chairman of the Administrative Board of Haygood Methodist Church. He has recently been appointed Virginia Beach Crusade Chairman for the American Cancer Society. President Nixon appointed Fletcher as Metro-Chairman for the National Alliance of Businessmen for 1972. Fletcher is also a Director with the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and on the Board of Directors of United Virginia Bank.

Paul Mauch (left) receives from Burk Withers the trophy honoring him as the Beach Borough Volunteer "Fireman of the Year".

Volunteers honor Mauch

Paul J. Mauch has been named "Fireman of the Year," in the Virginia Beach Borough Fire Department, for an unprecedented fourth consecutive year. He received the award last Saturday night during installation of newly elected officers go guide the unit's operation during the coming year.

Mauch, 55, has been a volunteer fireman for seven years. He was honored for his contribution to the community through his devotion to duties in the volunteer fire department, after being nominated for the award by his fellow firemen.

Burke Withers, of the firm Withers and Taylor which supplies the trophy for the annual award, made the presentation to Mauch.

The 1973 administrative officers are: F.G. Jones, President; N.W. Davis, Vice-President; G.M. "Chip" Atwater, III, Secretary; P.J. Mauch, Treasurer; and Father F.V. Bambrick, Chaplain. These men appoint officers of the various operational companies of the department.

Truck Company officers are: F.G. Jones, Deputy Chief; E.B. Pinner, Captain; and W.C. Johnson, Lieutenant. Engine Company officers are: J.W. Bailey, Deputy Chief; P.J. Mauch, Captain; J.C. Bell, Lieutenant. Salvage Company officers are: C.B. Owens, Deputy Chief; R.B. Alley, Captain; and G.S. Johnson, Lieutenant.

Jaycettes are honored

Sue Shephard and Jane Waters of the Beach have been selected as Outstanding Young Women of America of 1972. They were nominated earlier this year by the Virginia Beach Jaycettes on the basis of their outstanding achievements.

The women are recognized for their contributions to the betterment of their communities; professions and country. Complete biographical sketches of the women will be featured in the annual awards publication "Outstanding Young Women of America".

Mrs. Shephard is a teacher of English and has taught at Kellam High School. She is president of the Virginia Beach Jaycettes and a member of the Virginia Beach Princess Anne Junior Womens Club. She is also active in the Virginia Beach United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Waters is also a teacher and holds a degree in Elementary psychology. Past president of the Virginia Beach Jaycettes, she is a member of the Carolina Farms Garden Club and the Indian River Bowling League. She worked at the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon and the Vote Yes For Classrooms committees.

Pleasant Hall:

Kempsville landmark is eligible for acquisition, restoration, and repair through federal grants

By SONJA HILLGREN
Sun Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The importance of the Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission as a link between Virginia Beach efforts to save historic sites and federal sources of funding was underlined last week at a Washington conference of historic preservationists. Federal law gives the VHLC power to decide which historic preservation projects in Virginia receive National Park Service grants and which properties are listed in the National Register of Historic Places maintained by the National Park Service.

At the conference Dr. Junius R. Fishburne Jr., VHLC executive director, and his assistant, Tucker Hill, heard federal officials explain the latest changes in the bureaucratic red tape of requesting grants. The conference was attended by similar officials from the other states.

At the same time, the VHLC announced that the historic Pleasant Hall house in Kempsville has been added to the National Register.

National Register designation makes Pleasant Hall eligible for a federal grant of 50 per cent of acquisition, restoration or repair costs, but precious few of the 5,000 listings in the National Register have been restored with federal funds.

Since the 1966 passage of strong federal historic preservation legislation, the Wishart-Boush House has been the only Virginia Beach property to receive assistance. That grant was for $3,000 from the National Register division of the National Park Service.

National Register grants fall under a program completely separate from the Federal Government's nearly 300 National Park system units.

The VHLC was allocated only $195,000 in federal funds for fiscal 1973 for surveys and planning as well as restoration and repair projects throughout Virginia.

Virginia probably will have a comparable sum to spend next year because President Nixon's fiscal 1974 budget maintains National Park Service historic preservation at the 1973 level.

The VHLC was allocated $98,000 in state funds for fiscal 1973 and $110,000 for fiscal 1974, Fishburne told the Sun.

In view of the relatively low level of state and federal support for VHLC, Fishburne said some of his most important responsibilities are to be a "catalyst" for preservation activities and "to be available to make comment on preservation."

Even without state or federal funds for repair and restoration, the National Register listing of Pleasant Hall as well as other local places like Pembroke Manor, Old Donation Church and the Adam Thoroughgood house puts "symbolic" weight of the federal government behind local preservation efforts.

National Register listing also prevents alteration or destruction of listed historic properties by federally funded or licensed projects without National Park Service permission.

Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, would add more teeth to the National Register.

He has introduced a bill to forbid anyone—including private owners of historic properties—to alter or demolish National Register properties without Park Service permission.

Taft's bill also gives the federal government right of first refusal to purchase historic buildings if their owners desire to sell them.

Taft has introduced a companion bill to provide tax credits for the expenses of maintaining the exterior appearance and structural soundness of historic buildings.

Taft and many persons at last week's conference view historic preservation as a necessary part of urban planning. Leaders in the field said they don't want a proliferation of museums. They prefer to see historic buildings converted to useful modern purposes.

That attitude helped bring the Department of Housing and Urban Development into the historic preservation field during the past five years, but now it appears that HUD's direct participation is ending.

The President last month imposed an 18-month freeze on most HUD programs and proposed in his budget that categorical HUD programs, including the historical preservation grant program, be replaced by a special revenue sharing program.

Under revenue sharing, historic preservation projects would compete at the local level with such needs as water and sewer projects.

Margaret Green, a HUD preservation grants specialist at last week's conference told the Sun: "In that kind of confrontation, preservation is going to lose."

Faced with the hard fact of the loss of a major preservation program if Congress approves the HUD special revenue sharing program, historic preservationists more and more are echoing James Biddle, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

The National Trust, a private organization chartered by Congress, mostly offers advice rather than money to governments and groups interested in preservation.

Biddle wrote in the December, 1972, issue of Challenge, a HUD magazine: "Although preserving, restoring and sometimes adopting historic structures to today's needs are often major and expensive undertakings, they can—and very frequently are—accomplished through imaginative and determined efforts."

He pointed out that private citizens in Richmond undertook the restoration of the 19th century homes around historic St. John's Church.

Biddle emphasized that private business interests have reaped profits from preserved shops and restaurants in "Underground Atlanta," Larimer Square in Denver and Ghirardelli Square and Cannery Row in San Francisco.

Nudity ordinance touches topless, bikinis, literature

By LES LEHIGH

An ordinance passed by City Council Monday to prohibit "certain public nudity" became effective Tuesday and immediately an injunction was filed in court against its enforcement.

The injunction was filed by attorney Joseph L. Lyle, Jr., on behalf of the Jamaica Inn, one of several businesses in Virginia Beach which would have to discontinue use of topless go-go entertainers.

The ordinance appears primarily designed to prohibit the use of topless go-go dancers as a form of entertainment in Virginia Beach. It would not, however, ban the use of nude performers in productions in museums, concert halls, schools, etc., nor prohibit the showing of x-rated movies. But it would ban sale of magazines containing nude photographs and so-called "adult books" at newsstands anywhere in the city including hotels and motels.

When asked what the injunction was based on Lyle said, "It boils down to the contention that enactment of the ordinance is an arbitrary and capricious exercise of the City's police power. In that, one, these people have been lawfully doing business in this identical manner for approximately two years licensed by the City; two, the intent of this ordinance bears no relationship to the protection of the public morals; three, it's unconstitutionally void for vagueness in that if the man on the street reads it, it would normally be construed to prohibit many lawful activities such as the wearing of bikinis and low cut dresses; and finally, that it's discriminatory against a few who are being denied equal protection of the laws."

Within minutes after passage of the ordinance attorney Calvin Spain, representing Jamaica Inn's application for a live entertainment use permit before City Council, said, "I'm sure it will be contested in court. Most likely because of competition from similar entertainment in Norfolk and surrounding military bases."

"The question arises," Spain added, "whether council has the right to pass such an ordinance. Most attorneys will take the position that council doesn't have this authority; it rests with the State."

Spain concluded, "I think you're going to find this in direct conflict with the U.S. Supreme Court decision regarding California." This recent decision gave the opinion such performances could not be prohibited, but gave the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Board authority to govern the method of presentation from the aspect of being lewd, obscene or disorderly.

The Virginia ABC Board is currently studying moves which would give it more control over topless go-go performances, through revisions of its own regulations as well as amendments to the Virginia State Code.

A member of the Board said the agency hopes to receive assistance from an amendment to the State Code definition of dance halls, proposed by Virginia Beach Delegates B.R. "Bev" Middleton and Owen B. Pickett.

The Board requested revision of the proposal to include public places "... where live entertainment is presented including specifically such as is commonly called strip-teasing, topless entertainers, and the like, or which has employees who are not clad both above and below the waist..."

This would permit such entertainment in establishments licensed for the sale of alcoholic beverages, and thus place them under control of the ABC Board. When questioned as to whether the Board wants this responsibility one member said, "We will be obliged to have the final say even though we are reluctant to do so because we are a liquor control agent, rather than a nudity control agent."

Following passage of the ordinance City Council approved a live entertainment permit for the Jamaica Inn, initially applied for last November. After the meeting

Vandalism:

'They don't care until you hit them in the pocketbook'

In six months of 1972, the Virginia Beach city schools paid $24,878.34 to repair glass breakage caused by vandalism.

In August, 1971, the school system paid $7,274.40 to repair damage caused by vandals to Kempsville Junior High School.

In February, 1972, the school paid $7,835.02 to refurbish Malibu Elementary School, which was damaged by fire. In that act of vandalism, $200 was recovered from parents of a child found guilty of vandalism.

The Virginia Beach city schools spend an average of $50,000 per year repairing damage caused by minor vandalism. When and if it can be proved that a child caused the vandalism, the schools can recover a maximum of $200 from his parents to pay for the damage. The $200 amount usually is negligible in defraying the cost of repairing the damage.

Now, Mrs. Cecily MacDonald of Virginia Beach is working to change the state law limiting the amount recoverable from vandalism. She wants to see the maximum raised from $200 to $1,000.

Mrs. MacDonald, who is chairman of the education committee of the Council of Civic Organizations of Virginia Beach, is helping Del. Warren Barry of Fairfax compile statistics for a new bill to amend the current state code. Barry's House Bill 1339 has been printed and is due to come up in committee within the next few weeks.

"The whole thing is shocking when you stop and think that this is going on all over the country or even just all over the state," Mrs. MacDonald said.

"This takes away from our own children. This limits what the state and cities can put into the educational system."

"If the limit is raised to $1,000 maybe it will make the parents sit up and take notice. I think the general public has absolutely no conception of what's going on with these acts of vandalism."

Mrs. MacDonald said that the Council of Civic Organizations has voted unanimously to support Del. Barry's bill. The Lake Shores Civic League and the Homestead Civic League, among others, have voted to support the bill. The school board is also in favor of the bill.

A similar bill was defeated last year because of lawyers' arguments that parents should not be held legally responsible for their children's actions.

Wells could relieve Beach home construction

By LES LEHIGH

The City Public Health Department has proposed the use of wells to revitalize the home building industry which has been at a virtual standstill for several months in Virginia Beach.

Residential construction halted when Norfolk, which supplies water to Virginia Beach, placed a moratorium on new water connections. The action came during failure of a new water contract.

Under the plan, single family and duplex dwellings would be permitted to use a single well as source of water while multi-family units, including apartments, townhouses, and developments such as Green Run, would be required to develop a public water supply system.

A public water supply system would be formed through a series of wells used in conjunction with each other to obtain the amount of water necessary to service multi-family developments. A water supply system becomes necessary when more than 15 single family or duplex dwellings, or 25 people, would be supplied with water from one well.

These water supply systems would remain the property of the developer, who would in turn sell water to consumers. However developers would have to agree, before they obtain approval for construction of any such system, the system's operation would cease when it became possible to connect dwellings to the central water system serving the rest of the city.

Single family and/or duplex dwellings using wells under this program would also be required to connect to a central water system when it became available.

Before any wells are installed in this program a permit would be required, to assure their operation would meet health standards. This will necessitate the submission of information completely outlining location, installation and operation of the wells. Permits for wells serving single family and/or duplex dwellings will be issued by M.J. Owens, City Health Department. He may be contacted concerning questions at 427-4261. Permits for wells system would require approval of both the State Health Department and the Virginia Beach Public Utilities Department. Further information concerning these 'People seem too busy to listen'

By HELEN CRIST

Randy Loveless, 19, and David Bartell, 20, hope people will listen to their message.

They're not ordinary young men; they're elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, more commonly known as the Mormon Church.

As elders, they are called by the Lord to serve in a missionary capacity for two years.

Sounds easy? Consider: For two years, they will leave their homes and families, not to see them again in that period. They will go wherever their church sends them, and try to spread the word of the Mormons and convert as many as possible to their religion.

In that period, they won't date, go to shows, the beach, or engage in anything that takes them away from close spiritual contact with the Lord. They will not watch television, read newspapers, or listen to the radio."

Furthermore, all Mormons neither smoke nor drink alcoholic beverages, tea or coffee, so of course the young elders will abstain from these.

It is tough for young men to accept this strict regime?

"Yes," David said, "but we volunteered for this—we had a direct calling and we'll see it through."

David, with one year of his missionary period completed, is the senior member of the two, so it was he who acted as spokesman. Randy has 23½ months yet to go.

Both are unmarried, but they have girls waiting for them back in their hometown in Utah.

Financially, the missionary period is difficult. The elders are on their own, with no monetary grant from the church. They must support themselves, or they may take aid from their parents if they wish.

They're assigned to the North Carolina-Virginia Mission, with headquarters in Roanoke. This means that they can be sent to various cities in the area.

Virginia Beach...it would seem a unique challenge for these two dedicated young men, subject as they are to rigid discipline, to be sent to a resort city such as this.

It hasn't been easy. "We're finding it's different here than it is in other cities. People seem much more busy here—not much time to listen. But they do seem friendly," David said.

He added that they haven't had very good reception to their message. "Some ministers have even told us we're going to Hell."

So it was a nice change last week when a friendly young married couple opened the door to them, and said they'd been waiting for their message for three months, and invited them into their home.

It's a door-to-door missionary, and the two elders have ready answers to all questions.

"We found out that people here don't know very much about the Mormons," David said.

At the Beach, church services are held weekly at Kempsville Meadows Elementary School. A chapel, said to be the largest on the East Coast, will be constructed at Edwin Drive and Princess Anne Road in Larkspur.

The elders are only two of 15,000 missionaries in 101 different missions. The church has a membership of 3½ million people, and is considered to be the fastest growing in the

Mrs. MacDonald said, "This lack of clamping down on people is getting ridiculous," she said. "Parents just let their kids run loose all over the place. They don't care until you start hitting them in the pocketbook. My feeling is also that many of these kids are just begging for someone to clamp down on them. I know, I have four children. And we have no problems with them whatsoever."

Mrs. MacDonald is concerned both as a citizen and as a parent. She said that she feels her children's education suffers because of the amount of money the schools are putting into repairing vandalism damage. And she feels, that as a taxpayer, her money could be put toward better things within the school system.

Mrs. MacDonald said she would like to have some feedback from the general public on how they feel about the pending bill. She is scheduled to go to Richmond soon to present the facts she has dug up to the committee hearing the bill.

"I was absolutely flabbergasted when I found out these figures," she said. "And I know many other people are absolutely unaware of what is going on with this problem." Mrs. MacDonald herself was unaware of the scope of the problem until she overheard the members of the School Board discussing it at a recent meeting. She decided then and there to look into it.

At the same time, Del. Barry was working on the same problem in Fairfax and introduced the House bill. It was strictly coincidence that they were both working on the same thing at the same time.

"I found out he had introduced the bill," Mrs. MacDonald said, "and it just happened to be a coincidence that he got disturbed up there and I got disturbed down here at the same time."

Mrs. MacDonald also said that the $1,000 figure was decided upon to make it equitable with the law regarding adults 18 and older. An adult found guilty of vandalism is automatically charged with a misdemeanor, which carries a $1,000 fine or one year in prison or both.

"My feeling is that every little bit helps," she said. "In many cases the $1,000 won't even begin to pay the costs. But if the parents are able to pay it, they should be made to pay it."

Topless . . .

R.B. Wilkinson, Jamaica Inn co-owner-manager said, "I can't figure this out. They gave me a use permit, but for what? I applied for a live entertainment permit for topless go-go. They passed an ordinance against topless go-go, then turned around and gave me a permit for live entertainment."

When asked if he was planning any court action against the ordinance Wilkinson said, "We anticipate this. If they're gonna stop it, he fair and have everybody stop it, not just in Virginia Beach. This will only run all the business to other cities."

Prior to discussion on the proposed ordinance Vice-Mayor F. Reid Ervin, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Robert B. Cromwell, Jr., told those filling Council chambers to capacity, "This is an issue that has aroused many people." He added, "The manner in which your elected leaders act on matters depends a lot on the pressure placed on us."

Nearly 100 persons, including ministers and members of several Baptist churches, appeared to voice approval of the ordinance. They made pleas such as "A vote for nudity is a vote for barnyard immorality and increase in social disease in Virginia Beach. . . the more nudity allowed the more lax laws become. . . nudity is a social perversion. . . and if nudity is allowed in taverns or restaurants it will not stay there. . ."

The ordinance was passed by a vote of 9 to 0 on a motion for approval from Councilman Charles W. Gardner. Gardner also motioned approval of the Jamaica Inn's live entertainment permit, also approved by a vote of 9 to 0. Mayor Robert B. Cromwell, Jr., and Councilman Robert H. Callis, Jr., were absent.

Construction . . .

permits can be obtained from Arthur Deal, 627-2921, representing the State, and Worth Petty, 427-4171, representing the City.

One of the main factors in this program would be the cost of providing water through this method. This was discussed with Robert R. Peters, of the Layne Atlantic Co., water supply contractors. Peters estimated single family costs at $600 to $800, and duplex costs at $1,500. He pointed out however this would provide only a very shallow type well operation. Peters estimated multi-family water supply system costs ranging upwards from $10,000, depending on the size of the system required. He also pointed out the $10,000 cost would provide only a small system capable of very limited production.

This cost factor concerned the Tidewater Association of Home Builders from the aspect of making the program beneficial. K. Frank Smith, TAHB president, pointed out this cost would be passed on to the purchaser of the living unit by being added to its construction cost. He said, "This additional amount could put the home price out of the reach of prospective buyers."

Smith also discussed another negative factor regarding this cost, in light of additional expense to the property owner when he is required to pay fees to connect the property to the city water system when it becomes available. At this point wells could only be used for such purposes as watering lawns. Smith concluded, "I just don't think it's right for a homeowner to have to add another $600 to the cost of his house just to water his lawn."

Water negotiations

"No substantial progress at this point," City Manager Roger M. Scott used those words to describe the status of negotiations between Virginia Beach and Norfolk on a new water contract between the cities.

Scott reiterated the words of Vice-Mayor F. Reid Ervin who at the close of Monday's City Council meeting said, "On the water situation, the only thing we can say is the two city managers are still negotiating."

The latest in a lengthy exchange of proposals came from Norfolk last week which would permit Virginia Beach to finance improvements of Norfolk's water system at a cost of $45 million over the next 20 years, and allow Virginia Beach to buy water at an annual rate of 44¢ cents per 1,000 gallons for the initial six billion gallons, with water above that amount being supplied annually at no cost.

Students to be shifted to relieve overcrowding

Three basic pupil shifts will take place next fall in Virginia Beach public schools to relieve overcrowding, E. E. Brickell, superintendent of schools, announced Thursday at a special School Board meeting. Brickell said that the three plans are temporary measures which will be in effect only one year.

To relieve overcrowding at Kellam High School, which had anticipated 2,800 students next school year, 300 rising 10th graders will remain at Plaza Junior High School instead of transferring to Kellam.

Plaza Junior High is currently operating well under capacity, according to Brickell. The school will have a capacity load of 2,172 students when the plan is put into effect.

Brickell said that the plan would bring Kellam's enrollment down to 2,500 students, which is 500 above capacity.

The second pupil shift announced by Brickell involves four elementary schools, the new College Park school which will open in the fall, Williams Elementary, Woodstock Elementary and Newtown Road Elementary.

The rising seventh graders from Newtown Road will be sent to Williams Elementary, leaving Newtown Road for grades one through six only.

College Park area students who now attend Williams Elementary will transfer to the new College Park Elementary school. Also, 50 students from Woodstock Elementary and 80 students from the Kempeville area will go to College Park. Brickell said that the new school could easily handle all the transferred students.

The third major student shift announced by Brickell affects First Colonial High School. That school, which has a capacity of 1,833, now has 2,291 students. The fall enrollment was predicted to be 2,905.

Four hundred students who would have transferred to First Colonial will instead attend Virginia Beach Junior High.

Virginia Beach Junior High will contain only eighth and ninth grades and affected rising seventh graders will remain in Alanton, Trantwood, King's Grant and Kingswood Elementary Schools.

The move will reduce First Colonial's anticipated fall enrollment to 200 over capacity.

Council approves drug study grant

City Council Monday appropriated $50,000 as an Initiation and Development Grant to look into the city's present and future needs for a comprehensive drug treatment program.

The grant was made subject to state participation in the cost. The state will be asked to reimburse the city $25,000, half of the cost.

The Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Board, a city department, asked for the grant through its director, Dr. Jean Dowling.

The grant will be used to hire a professional co-ordinator who will analyze the city's efforts in drug treatment and rehabilitation.

A spokesman for the local Drug Focus committee expressed the committee's hope that the grant will enable the city's various agencies to be collected into one effort aimed at rehabilitation and education of drug users and abusers.

The Drug Focus committee worked with the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Board in preparing in the request for the grant.

convert field, David said. The Mormon Tabernacle is known to all who pass through Salt Lake City. Its choir of 375 voices is famous. "We would have ten times that many in the choir if we had the room — there's such a long waiting list," David said.

The church was founded in 1830 by Joseph Smith, at Fayette, New York. Known to the Mormons as "the prophet," it was he, David said, who discovered buried gold plates on which were written the sacred records of ancient America. These inspired writings of 1,000 years of religious history, told how God led the first colonizers in America here from the Holy Land.

Mormons believe that the discovery of the gold plates and interpretation of Joseph Smith came through divine revelation, after a vision of the angel Moroni appeared to him. He translated the plates into the Book of Mormon.

David explained: "The Bible, to us, is the Lord's Holy Scriptures to the Eastern Hemisphere, and the Book of Mormon is the Lord's Holy Scriptures to the Western Hemisphere."

Mormons believe in a doctrine of continuous revelation. "We believe that when Christ was here on earth he set up a perfect organization for his church, and we believe that must be the same today as it was then," David said. "No man has a right to change it." Therefore, they follow the same structure: a prophet at the head of the church, 12 apostles, pastors, teachers, evangelists. There are no salaried ministers. All Mormons are required to tithe 10 percent of their income.

"We're here on earth to be tested," David said, "and to see if we can keep God's commandments, and to gain experience so we become more like our heavenly Father. When we die we go to a spirit world to await resurrection."

"Is Christ coming again?" we asked. "Yes, we believe that He will return, and we are living now in the last days before His coming."

Peggy Riley joins an elite group and makes Coast Guard history

By DONNA HENDRICK
Margaret Rose "Peggy" Riley, a 21-year-old woman from Virginia Beach, wanted to do something rewarding with her newly-earned degree from Old Dominion University.

She wanted to find a career that would be personally satisfying and would offer her an equal opportunity to reach her fullest capacity.

Peggy found exactly what she was looking for when she was chosen the first woman ever to attend Coast Guard Officer Candidate School for training in an active duty career.

When Peggy signed the papers that will send her to 17 weeks of training in Yorktown, she made history of sorts.

The Coast Guard had never previously accepted women as officers, except in the reserves. Now, Peggy and five other women will become the Coast Guard's first female active duty officers.

Officially, Peggy was the first woman to sign the papers joining the Coast Guard. She was followed by Sue Jennings, also from Virginia Beach, and four other women from various Coast Guard districts. They will attend OCS with 29 men.

"We're part of an elite group," Peggy said recently as she talked about her new career while relaxing in the den of her parents' home in Pembroke Meadows.

"I won't be stationed on a ship at all," she said. "They don't have women on ships yet, even though the Navy does. The Coast Guard uses many Navy facilities and whatever the Navy does, the Coast Guard will follow eventually."

Peggy said she wants to be a pilot, although the Coast Guard currently has no female pilots.

"I took the test for the Navy, too," Peggy said, "and qualified for NFO, which is a navigator bombardier, but they don't have women for that."

Peggy was accepted by the Coast Guard, Navy and Army for OCS. Her father, a career Navy man, wanted her to join the Navy, too, after he recovered from the initial shock. Her older brother is now in the Navy and her younger brother plans to join soon.

When Peggy completes her OCS training, she will outrank both of her brothers. Her father is a lieutenant commander.

"But my brothers said they would refuse to salute me," Peggy laughed.

Joining the Coast Guard was entirely Peggy's own idea. At first her father disapproved.

"I came home and dropped this bombshell, and my father couldn't believe it. But then he started checking into it and decided it wasn't such a bad idea after all," she said.

Peggy worked part-time in a bank for three years while she was attending ODU. When she received her degree, the bank offered her a full time position as a teller. Peggy declined the offer.

"I couldn't believe it," she said. "Here I'd been at the bottom for three years and I'd still be at the bottom."

"I had spent all this time going to college and I wanted to do something that paid off - not so much financially, but something that would use my college training."

Peggy has a history major and found that her degree did not offer her many opportunities for a career other than teaching.

"I didn't want to be a teacher at all," she said.

Peggy laughed when asked about her championing of the cause of Women's Liberation.

"I'm not a Women's Libber," she said. "In fact, my neighbor is always trying to get me to join."

NOW (National Organization of Women) and I won't do it."

"I just want an equal opportunity to do a good job. And I enjoy being a girl," she said.

Big Brothers opens office here

Pembroke 1, 281 Independence Blvd.

The office will be open during business hours. An answering service will also be available. Joseph M. Koury, executive director, said.

Big Brothers of America is an organization to help boys handicapped by behavioral and personality problems.

Congressman G. William Whitehurst is general chairman of the local chapter. It launched a campaign last month to raise $60,000 to enable it to be self sufficient for three years. After that, it becomes eligible to qualify as a Community Fund agency.

Contributions may be sent to Big Brothers of Virginia Beach, Treasurer, P.O. Box 537, Virginia Beach, 23451.

Kempsville Pony-Colt meeting

The Kempsville Pony-Colt Baseball League organization meeting for 1973 will be held at the Kempsville High School cafeteria on Sunday, February 11 at 3 p.m. Parents of boys between the ages of 13-16, residing in the Kempsville Borough, are encouraged to attend.

Peggy Riley signs the papers sending her to Coast Guard Officers Candidate School. Her father, Lt. Dr. Stephen G. Riley Jr., points out the pages of the contract she must sign. (Navy photo)

Fire claims man's life

Virgil Partin, who was rescued from his smoke filled apartment last Wednesday, died Thursday afternoon at General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Partin, 40, was trapped in his second floor apartment when fire broke out in the Murden Appliance building. He suffered a heart attack and was pulled from the building by firemen.

Several other occupants of the second floor apartment units managed to escape from the building with only minor injuries.

Despite severe damages the business complex, at Laskin Road and Baltic Avenue, may continue operating.

When asked about future plans for the structure E.W. Murden said, "My intentions, and remember I am only co-owner of the building, are to make a one story building, and retain the same business. We have such good clients on the base floor."

Murden indicated this could be done by removing the remains of the apartments, which were engulfed in flames. The ground floor of the building sustained heavy water damage, but was not damaged by fire.

While the full monetary damage from the fire has not been established Murden indicated damage to the contents of his appliance building was $18,000. Murden has temporarily opened his business in an unoccupied quick service store on Baltic.

Fire Investigator W.H. Cartwright said the fire began in the southwest corner apartment from accidental causes. He added, "As a result of the fire, the entire second floor was destroyed."

Business firms involved in the fire besides Murden Appliances included Nationwide Insurance, Nick's Soda Shop, and Scotch Laundromat.

The Virginia Beach SPCA is $100 richer, thanks to the efforts of the Ocean Park Women's Club. Jane Mullahy (left) and Lenora Welch presented the check, to humane officer Everett Bennett recently and visited some residents of the SPCA who will benefit from the club's gift.

THE BIBLE SAYS

Question:
WILL ONLY 144,000
BE SAVED IN HEAVEN?

Jehovah's Witnesses so teach, but the Bible does not. These people make a literal statement out of the most figurative book of the New Testament. Revelation. They cite Rev. 14:3, but ignore the context of that passage, as well as its figurative nature.

If the Witnesses wish to conclude that the number who will be saved in heaven will only be 144,000, then why don't they take Rev. 14:1 where it plainly says this number was made up of Jews, and the very next verse of the text, Rev. 14:4 says that the number was composed of MEN who were VIRGINS! Now, remember, THEY (Jehovah's Witnesses) are the ones who want to take the passage literally. If they are correct, the conclusion must be that only JEWISH MEN who are VIRGINS will be in heaven. However this doesn't fit their theory, so they only take the 144,000 and apply it to their twisting and wrenching of scriptures.

The teaching that only 144,000 will be saved in heaven is the result of a literal interpretation. Again, the very next verse says that this number was the FIRSTFRUITS - this in itself being clear indication that there would be others. Again, after John saw the 144,000 he said, "After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude, WHICH NO MAN COULD NUMBER, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb." - Rev. 7:9.

Don't be deceived by such false doctrine which would limit the number saved in heaven. THE BIBLE SAYS:

(1) ALL WHO OBEY GOD'S COMMANDMENTS will have a right to enter the city (Rev. 22:14)

(2) Eternal salvation is promised to ALL WHO OBEY CHRIST (Heb. 5:9) and said salvation is reserved in heaven (1 Pet. 1:4)

(3) BEWARE, if you blindly follow blind leaders, thinking they will have to answer for the souls of men if they're wrong, you BOTH will fall into the ditch. (MATT. 18:14)

INTEREST DOWN - COST UP

The house that you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now - even if the interest rate drops one percent.

For example, take a house that costs $25,000. With 20% down payment and financed with a 25 year, 7 1/2% mortgage, the monthly payments would be $147.80. But two years from now, if home prices keep rising at the average rate, the now $25,000 house would likely cost $28,000. If the interest rate decreased to 6 1/2%, not only would the down payment be $500 more, but the monthly payments would increase to

If the interest rate stayed at 7 1/2%, the payments would come to $165.54. So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home, not the interest rates, makes the biggest impact on monthly payments.

Thinking of selling your property? It makes sense to list it with Larasan where you can depend on complete professional service. Many qualified buyers are waiting to buy your property. Service does not stop when we list your property. Call today 340-3080.

They work, too

Unsung heroes are not uncommon among those who serve and protect the public. The spotlight will occasionally swing to a fireman, policeman, etc. and offer briefly an overdue tribute. But seldom does such tribute come to the women behind the men...the auxiliaries.

Last week some of these volunteers finally brought into focus what all of the ladies auxiliaries are doing. It took tragedy, of course, to make people aware of what had been going on a long time.

A family of ten was left homeless after a fire leveled their home. They escaped with nothing except the clothes they were wearing. The Plaza Fire Department's auxiliary immediately went into action. They collected clothing and food and household goods to help the family start over again. Before the week was out they had assembled several station wagons loaded with goods. Some misinformation directed the public to contribute to the Ocean Park Fire Department. But that didn't slow things down. The two groups merely joined forces to get the job done.

Another fire destroyed the second floor of a Beach Borough building housing four businesses and eight apartments. One man died, three were injured and all tenants lost most of their belongings. Volunteers are busy now helping reestablish these victims.

It was at this fire that one realized how the women really back their men. Ignoring flying glass and the heat and the stifling smoke, they stuck to their posts, helping the firemen in big ways, in little ways. When Champs, so close to the burning building it appeared in jeopardy, provided hamburgers and coffee for the firemen, it was the women who shuttled back and forth to serve the food.

These incidents are examples of the behind-the-scenes contributions made daily by the ladies auxiliaries, volunteers dedicated to the same ideals of protecting life and property as the men who staff the departments. A special tribute to these women...for once, the spotlight is theirs.

Goodies for people

After years of struggling to make the budget cover the increasing needs of a growing city, Virginia Beach now finds itself with an unexpected bankroll of nearly $4 million in revenue sharing funds.

It is an enviable position for a financially strapped city to be in. Now comes the big decision: where does the money go? For the necessary priorities like sewage lines and highways? Or the needed things like recreational facilities, cultural development, studies for future improvements? Consideration should be given to the people whose monetary and personal contributions to this city have made it what it is. They have longed for certain "luxuries" but have worked in silence to provide the necessities.

The City now has an opportunity to give the people some of the goodies in life without taking away from the necessities. Funding for sewer installation, road construction and other must-haves is included in a 5-year capital improvement program. But expanded libraries, more tennis courts, a municipal swimming pool, bike trails, mass transit...these things will be touch-and-go financially for some time to come.

The people deserve a few of the niceties once in a while. Now is the time for the city to provide them. It would do wonders for the spirit and morale of Virginia Beach.

Betting vote was cool

As the Sun wraps up the current question concerning local option as a requirement of the Pari-Mutuel Betting Issue, word arrives that the proposed legislation has advanced in the General Assembly...with the referendum provision.

Readers were rather cool to the question; it did not provoke the response expected. The vote was nearly 3 to 1 in favor of local option which did not mean, of course, a vote for legalized gambling. But, legislators would have a hard time determining the people's thinking if all they had to go on was the Sun survey response. It was pretty sketchy. And it was obvious that many people were voting for or against gambling.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sick of 'filth'

To the Editor:

I would appreciate so much if you could print this letter so everyone who reads the Virginia Beach Sun will know how SICK I am of this nudity, sex, pornography and right down filth which is shown on our movie screens, television and magazines, under the guise of freedom of expression.

I hope this letter will create a lot of interest throughout our community. It's a simple letter to man. I ask everyone to copy it to their friends. "OPEN LETTER TO MAN" is a simple, powerful message challenging today's materialistic, sex-oriented image of womanhood.

It's difficult for a girl or young woman to believe anyone really cares about morality, femininity and virtue in our society. But the challenge is simply stated for all to meet. I know you will find a way. "OPEN LETTER TO MAN" "I am Woman"

"I am your wife, your sweetheart, your mother, your daughter, your sister... your friend. I NEED YOUR HELP."

"I was created to give to the world. GENTLENESS, UNDERSTANDING, SERENITY, BEAUTY, LIFE AND LOVE."

"I am finding it increasingly difficult to fulfill my purpose."

"Many people in advertising, motion pictures, television and radio have ignored my inner qualities and have repeatedly used me ONLY as a symbol of SEX."

"This humiliates me; it destroys my dignity, it prevents me from being what you want me to be - an example of - BEAUTY, INSPIRATION AND LOVE."

"Love for my children, love for my husband, love of God and my country."

"I need your help to restore me to my true position... to ALLOW me to fulfill the PURPOSE FOR WHICH I WAS CREATED."

"I know you will find a way."

From our legislators

Delegate Beverly R. Alderton, a Virginia Beach member of the House since 1968, reports the volume of mail is unusually heavy at this session of the General Assembly. Here's a break down on what the people are saying...

Sunday Retail Sales - the greatest number of letters deal with this subject. More than 99 per cent favor closing retail establishments all day on Sunday.

Pari-mutuel betting - there is considerable interest in this matter. To date, nine out of ten are in opposition to betting.

Equal Rights Amendment - a sizeable number of letters about women's rights have been received. Initially those for and those against were about equal. Recently nine out of ten ask for a vote against the Amendment.

Theaters are lax

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Tidewater Motion Picture Club, I would like to ask why area motion picture theatres have become so lax in their service to the public.

Of prime concern is that fact relatively few new pictures are coming to this area. Nearly half the movies nominated by the New York critics have not come to this area. What few first-rate movies we have seem to linger for months. One theatre in particular has not changed its fare since Christmas.

At least two theatres do not print the times of their shows in the "newspaper. What has happened to the weekday afternoon movies? On several occasions I have called the theatres to ask what time the "feature" starts only to find that when I arrived at the given time I had to sit through the advertisements and cartoons which I had hoped to prevent by calling ahead.

How does a theatre explain showing paid advertisements before the feature presentation when the price of an adult ticket is already $2.00-$2.50?

Finally a particular theatre has a habit of bringing back movies that were runs only months ago. And these run an entire week. What about the late-night movies. Why can they not be advertised?

We realize there is a monopoly on motion pictures in the area...another reason this area is noted for its second-rate entertainment. Steve Lail, TMPC President

Mr. Wonderfuls

To the Editor:

Our fire was January 20, 1973. The time was 2:49 on a cold Saturday morning.

The Mr. Wonderfuls are Volunteer Fire-Fighters and members of the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad. The life of our beloved family pet "Tina" was spared and a good part of our home was saved due to their quick action. The London Bridge Fire Department arrived within three (3) minutes after our call for help. The Princess Anne Fire Department followed shortly thereafter. The Virginia Beach Rescue Squad was delayed due to another emergency, and apologized unnecessarily for being late. Keep in mind, that these men were fighting to save what they could of our home and personal belongings, while their loved ones awaited their safe return.

Our monetary assistance will be forthcoming via regular donations to these worthwhile organizations. All Virginia Beach residents who feel "this could never happen to me," should donate a minimum of 1 cent a day or $3.65 per year to insure that these Volunteers WILL be there when, and if, you do need them with their life-giving service.

Thank God for these Mr. Wonderfuls and a very personal THANK YOU to each and every member of the Princess Anne Fire Department. Alice and Dean Pulley Saturn Street

VIRGINIA BEACH. Where The Living Is Lovely

A New Way Of Living The Chesapeake House on the Bay

Lawrence A. Sancilio and Hans Schultz discuss the construction of The Chesapeake House on the Bay.

The Chesapeake House on the Bay introduces a new way of life to Virginia Beach. It's called condominium living and it means a new, carefree lifestyle with elegance.

Larasan Realty and Insurance Co. of Virginia Beach has combined its talents with the finest architects and builders of high-rise apartments in the Washington, D.C., Reston and Silver Springs areas to make the Chesapeake House a reality.

The condominium setting overlooks beach and Bay for a spectacular view. Combined with the carefree maintenance of an apartment and the privacy and security of a house, the Chesapeake House will offer many things to its new residents.

Owners find more time to enjoy the hours in relaxation outdoors or in the game room, saunas or pool area.

Each apartment will be equipped with a dishwasher, stove, exhaust hood, disposal, water heater, refrigerator, washer, dryer, carpeting, finished painted walls and full-width outdoor balconies. The apartment owner can individually control his heating and cooling. It will be totally electric.

Among the amenities offered to owners in The Chesapeake House on the Bay are: an outdoor swimming pool and deck, putting green, parking, both ramp and surface, men's and women's exercise rooms, complete with saunas and dressing rooms. There's also a game room, as well as a party room with wet bar, dance floor and kitchen facilities.

Lawrence A. Sancilio, President of The Chesapeake House, Inc., unveiled the rendering and model of The Chesapeake House on the Bay on Wednesday, Jan. 31st. It will be located on Shore Drive just west of The Lesner Bridge. This 120 unit beachfront condominium residence will overlook the Lynnhaven Inlet and The Chesapeake Bay.

Construction is scheduled to begin March 15th and is estimated to cost five million dollars and encompass over 2 acres. This building, constructed with all cast in place concrete (6" walls and floors), will feature executive suites, one, two and three bedroom residences.

Initial offering prices range from $19,990 to $60,500. Monthly Fee includes water, sewage, fire and extended coverage insurance on structure and all common areas, maintenance and MGT costs as well as repairs and rep

Charles C. (C.C.) Taylor

Richard E. Olivieri, President of Pembroke Realty & Insurance Agency, Inc. has announced the appointment of Charles C. (C.C.) Taylor as Vice President in charge of Property Management of the Virginia Beach based firm.

Taylor joined Pembroke Realty as a salesman in 1969 upon his retirement as a Captain of U.S. Marines. In 1970 Taylor became a licensed Real Estate Broker and was appointed Property Manager for Pembroke Realty, at which time he was responsible for the management of various residential, commercial and apartment complexes whose owners are represented by the firm. Taylor was chosen "Rental Manager of the Year" for 1972 over a host of nationwide nominees. This award was presented by the Sales & Marketing Council of the National Association of Home Builders.

Taylor resides at Pembroke Meadows, Virginia Beach, with his wife and four children where he helped organize the civic league in that area and became the group's first President.

REBOUNDING UNDER THE BOARDS CAN BE A HAIR-RAISING EXPERIENCE. 5'7" Mike Torreech of Kempsville proves this in Friday night's game with Bayside. Bayside's Donnie Dugger reached for the ball, but Torreech took it away.

THERE WAS JOY, JOY in the Cavalier field house Saturday night, joy for the Cox Falcons, that is. Cox's players erupted in jubilation at midcourt after their 64-62 upset win over Princess Anne.

Kellam wins its first game of the season; Cox scores upset over Princess Anne Kellam broke into the win column for the first time this season Friday night when they defeated First Colonial 84-55. Bayside downed neighboring Kempsville 73-57, and Princess Anne became the first Virginia Beach team to defeat a Norfolk five when they edged Norview 60-57 in overtime.

All-in-all, Friday night was another exciting chapter in area basketball. A report on each of the above games and the other games that involved Beach schools follows.

KELLAM 84, FIRST COLONIAL 55

The Knights of Kellam notched their first victory of the season with a convincing win over First Colonial. Kellam pulled in front 19-8 at the end of the first quarter and never trailed during the rest of the game, finally winning 84-55.

Kellam outscored the Patriots every quarter, but they amassed their big winning margin in the first half when they outscored First Colonial 42-18. The Patriots made a game of it in the second half, but they could not outscore the hot Knights. Kellam held a slim 42-37 scoring edge in the final two quarters.

Kellam's Tony Davis led all scorers in the contest with 26 tallies. Davis' 26 points was a season high for the 5'9" senior guard. His previous high this season was 18 points against Cox.

Sonny Blackmon also finished in double figures for Kellam. Blackmon had 19 points, also a season high for him.

Cleveland Spellman was the only Patriot to finish in the dual-figure scoring column. He had 18 points, his season high, and it looks as though he is attempting to take over the scoring role vacated by Bert Lewis.

LAKE TAYLOR 90, COX 63

The only undefeated team in Eastern District conference play, Lake Taylor, added Cox to its list of victims Friday night. The Titans outscored the Cox five every period as they raced to an easy 90-63 victory.

The brightest part of the game for Cox was the 29-point scoring display but on by Randy Robinson. Robinson hit eleven field goals and seven of eleven foul shots to lead all game scorers.

Mike Jewell also hit double-figures for the Falcons. He had 12 points for the game.

BAYSIDE 73, KEMPSSVILLE 57

After a nip-and-tuck first few minutes, the Bayside Marlins put it all together and evened their conference record to 3-3 by downing Kempsville 73-57. Numerous Kempsville turnovers, forced by the aggressive Marlin defense, proved the undoing of the Chiefs early in the game.

Bayside finished the first quarter ahead 21-13. The Chiefs proved to be a stubborn opponent as they gave Bayside all they could handle in the middle two quarters. Bayside barely outscored the Chiefs, 15-13, in the second period and were held to a 14-all tie in third quarter quarter point production. Bayside padded their winning margin somewhat in the final period as they outscored Kempsville 23-17.

Two players from each team finished the night in double figures. Elton Gross led all game scorers with 26 points. Teammate Jim Goffigan hit for 18 tallies.

PRINCESS ANNE 60, NORVIEW 57

In a game that was not decided until overtime, Princess Anne proved the victor by edging peppy Norview 60-57. The Cavaliers led at the end of the first period by two points (18-16), trailed at the end of the second quarter by four (29-35), trailed by one at the end of the third period (40-39), and were tied with the Pilots at the end of regulation play (51-51).

The slowly surging Cavaliers continued their momentum into the overtime period, outscored the Pilots 9-4, and returned to Virginia Beach victorious. The win insured the Cavaliers a spot in the Eastern District tourney just two weekend away.

Big Mike Ange continued to pace the Cavaliers with his 21 tallies, high man for the game. John Paden hit for 16 points, and George Purdin rounded out Princess Anne's double-figure scorers with his 15 points. It was Purdin's two clutch free throws in the closing seconds of the overtime period that put the Cavaliers in front for keeps.

COX 64, PRINCESS ANNE 62
Cox became the first Beach school to best Princess Anne this year. Cox downed Princess Anne 64-62 Saturday night on the Cavaliers' home court.

Princess Anne jumped to a 14-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Cavaliers outscored Cox 21-20 in the second period to pad their lead by one more point at the half. The Falcons began to whittle away at Princess Anne's 35-28 half-time lead in the third quarter.

Conference champ Plaza top-seeded in cage tournament

Plaza Junior High School won the Virginia Beach Junior High School Basketball Conference championship Friday afternoon by defeating the Virginia Beach Junior High School team. The conference title gives Plaza the top seed in the Fourth Annual City Junior High Basketball Tournament this weekend.

Plaza won five of their six games this season. They were led by the scoring of Junior Moore and the rebounding of Rick Callahan. Moore led all Plaza scorers with his 16 points per-game average, and Callahan's 10 rebounds-per-game average was tops for the team.

Other top Plaza scorers were Varel Wright and Rick Callahan. Wright averaged 15 points-per-game, and Callahan averaged 13.

Phil Steward earned runner-up rebounding honors with a 9 per-game average. Plaza's outstanding floor leader and defenseman was Randy Hassell.

Bayside Junior defeated Kempsville Junior Friday afternoon and won runner-up conference honors with a 4-2 record. Had Virginia Beach defeated Plaza, Bayside and Plaza would have been tied for the conference lead.

Harry Williams led the 47-40 Bayside win with 12 points. Craig Bram was the top scorer for the losing Braves and for the game with 19 points.

Harry Williams finished the season as top scorer for Bayside Junior with a 13 points-per-game average. Close behind was Butch Robinson, who averaged 11 points-per-game. Steve Shoemaker and Harry Williams shared rebounding honors for Bayside. David Weldon and Terry Daily distinguished themselves as outstanding defensemen and floor leaders for the Bayside five.

Averaging 17 points-per-game, Craig Bram led all Kempsville Junior scorers for the season. Mica Brooks was the leading rebounder for the Braves, and Paul Hinson was the team's defensive standout. Virginia Beach Junior was led in scoring by Danny Mason and Ed Barcliff. Terry Harris led the Seahawks in rebounding, and Greg Bowman and James Risper were the leading defensemen for the team.

The City Junior High Tournament will be held at Bayside Junior High School this weekend. Action will begin Friday night, February 9th, at 6:30 p.m. in a game featuring conference champion Plaza Junior and Kempsville Junior. The 8 p.m. game will match Bayside Junior and Virginia Beach Junior.

The Tournament championship will be determined in the 8 p.m. game Saturday night, February 10th. The 8 p.m. clash will feature Friday night's winners. The tournament consolation match, made up of Friday night's losers, will start at 6:30 p.m.

P.A. loss to Granby reversed

Princess Anne has been declared the winner of the January 30th Granby basketball game. Although Granby edged the Cavaliers in the final score, Princess Anne was awarded the game last Friday because Granby used an ineligible player. Granby notified the Cavaliers of the situation and forfeited the game.

RANDY ROBINSON GUARDS THE BALL he is about to pick up. He throws an elbow into Princess Anne's George Purdin to keep him away.

JAY PAYNE PICKS UP HIS NINTH WIN of the season. His defeat of Granby's Bill Moore was a key victory in Kellam's 29-21 victory over Granby.

Princess Anne, Cox, Kempsville and Kellam post mat victories

Cox swept to its 27th and 28th straight victories last week by defeating Lake Taylor 43-6 and Kellam 49-9. Six Cox matmen are still undefeated for the season.

Princess Anne downed Granby 40-10 and finished its season Wednesday night with its best record in the school's history. The Cavaliers won ten of their eleven matches, their only loss being to unbeaten Cox. Kempsville defeated First Colonial 26-16, and Beach schools handed Granby two more losses. Kellam edged Granby 29-21, and Princess Anne trounced the Comets 40-10.

PRINCESS ANNE 40, GRANBY 10

Princess Anne won nine of the twelve matches. The only losses were at 105, 145, and 155. Ken Nowlin (98) defeated Granby's Shiver to give him a 8-1-1 record for the year. Tim Rogers (112) defeated Nichols, and Ed Smith stopped Clark to give them both 10-1 records.

Carlos Benjumea (119) defeated Fuqua for a 7-2 season record. Burt Spry's (126) mark is now 7-2 with his win over Moore. Danny Allen (155) upped his record to 7-1-1 by defeating Tanner.

John Barnes (138) and Jimmy Benjumea (132) picked up forfeit wins. Barnes now has a 4-1 record, and Benjumea is 6-1. COX 33, LAKE TAYLOR 6
Cox lost the first two matches of the evening, at 98 and 105 pounds, and won the next ten straight for another impressive win.

Cox outscored Princess Anne 19-17 and trailed 52-47 as the final quarter began.

Princess Anne kept their lead until the game was just 1:15 from being over. At that point, Randy Robinson stole the ball during a midcourt freeze attempt by the Cavaliers and drove down court for a layup to put the Falcons in front 63-62.

With 55 seconds showing on the clock, Princess Anne took a shot and missed. Brooks Williams cleared the boards for Cox.

The fans were screaming like a car-full of roller coaster riders. With every dribble and pass, the crowd roared.

Randy Robinson was fouled with 25 seconds to go. Stepping to the line on a one-and-one situation, Robinson made only the first of his two shots to pull his team in front by two points, 64-62.

Princess Anne drove down and took another shot. It missed. Brooks Williams cleared the boards again, was fouled, missed his first one-and-one free throw attempt, and the Cavaliers got the ball.

Fans on both sides of the court had their fingers crossed as the Cavaliers brought the ball down court. At the three second mark, Princess Anne shot. It missed, the buzzer sounded, and the Falcons had notched their biggest victory of the season.

Randy Robinson led all game scorers with 25 points. Brooks Williams was the only other Cox player to hit double figures. He had 19 points for the night.

Two Cavaliers finished in the double-figure column. Mike Ange had 22 fouls, and John Padon hit for 14 points.

twelve matches. Bob Peverall (98) won by forfeit to even his record at 5-5.

Pete Scoppa (119) defeated Williams and evened his record at 3-3. Carl Saunders defeated Fisher in the 132 pound match. Saunders is now 3-3 for the season.

Jerry Pontes remained unbeaten by defeating Tugwell. The win made it ten in a row for Pontes. Scott Davidson, a heavyweight, defeated O'Brian to improve his record to 7-3. Freeman Gregg (138) was defeated by Waiah. It was only the second loss in ten matches for Gregg.

COX 49, KELLAM 9

Timmy Davidson (98) improved his season record to 8-2-1 with a win over Kellam's Fisher.

Kellam wrestlers won only the 105 pound and the heavyweight matches. At 105, John Verner upped his record to 7-2 by handing Chris Yerkes his fourth loss of the year. Yerkes is now 7-4. Isom Young now has a 4-4-2 record thanks to his win over Bill Summs. Summs is 6-4 for the season.

Cox won the other ten matches. Timmy Davidson (98) improved his record to 8-2-1 with a win over Fisher. Pete Drew (145) defeated Adolphus Haynes to give him a 7-4 mark. Steve Slough (155) picked up fourth third win in ten matches by defeating Carl Bruso. Bruso is now 4-6. Terry Roche (167) upped his record to 6-4 with a win over Lester.

Six Cox wrestlers are still undefeated. Glen Felthousen (112), Chris Conkwright (119), Mike Battalio (126), Scott Hancell (132), Mike Newbern (138), and James Gaudreau (138) have perfect records.

The match saw two Kellam matmen pick up their first losses of the year. Jay Payne (126) lost to Mike Battalio. Payne is 9-1-1 for the season. Tim Terry (185) lost by default to James Gaudreau. Terry is 7-1-1 for the year.

WASHINGTON 31, BAYSIDE 18

Bayside won only three matches in Friday night's 31-18 loss to Booker T. Washington. The biggest surprise of the night was the defeat of Bayside's Terry Haddox. Ben Jones outpointed Haddox in the 119 weight class. Haddox had been undefeated at 119, and his overall record now stands at 7-2 overall.

Dale Shao improved his record to 2-4 with a win at 132. John Safarino won his seventh match in eight attempts at 138. Clarence Billups notched his eighth win of the season in the 155 match. Billups is now 8-1-1 for the season.

KEMPVILLE 26, FIRST COLONIAL 16

Kempville posted wins in seven of the twelve weight classes in Friday afternoon's 26-16 win over First Colonial. The meet went pretty much as expected, with no upsets recorded.

Kempville wrestlers winning were Dana Jackson (98), Jeff Buchanan (105), Bob Wernick (119), Ken George (126), Mark Storey (132), Frank Welch (167), and Jim Everett (185).

Elvis Smith (112), Freeman Gregg (138), Jerry Pontes (145), John Themides (155), and Scott Davidson (heavyweight) posted wins for First Colonial. Pontes is undefeated in eleven starts.

Although the SUN had Scott Davidson ranked above Mark Rimarski, the heavyweight match was considered a virtual toss-up. In the end, the greater experience of Davidson prevailed as he posted a very close 6-5 decision over Rimarski.

NORVIEW 38, BAYSIDE 9

Norview managed only two wins in Saturday night's mat action with Norview. The Pilots won the meet 38-9.

Terry Haddox (110) and Clarence Billups (155) posted the wins for Bayside. Haddox's win makes him 8-2 on the season, and the Billups' pin ups his record to 9-1-1.

Bayside had hoped to win the 105 and 138 matches, but the Pilot wrestlers proved too strong for Bobby Dossett and John Safarino. Dossett is now 6-3, and Safarino has won seven of his nine matches.

KELLAM 29, GRANBY 21

Kellam closed out its season at home Saturday night with a 29-21 win over Granby. Granby has not fared well at all this season against Beach schools, losing to First Colonial, Cox, Princess Anne, Kempville, Bayside, and now Kellam makes it a complete sweep for the Beach. Kellam won six of its twelve matches this season.

Granby took the first three matches Saturday night, lost the next two, won the sixth, and then dropped the next six in their loss to Kellam. The biggest Granby win was at 105, when Abe Martinez pinned John Verner. Verner finished the season with a fine 7-3 record.

Bill Terry (119) improved his season mark to 16. Jay Payne (138) upped his record to 9-1-1. Adolphus Haynes (138) finished the season with a 2-7-1 mark. Tim Terry (185) upped his mark to 7-1-1, and Isom Young improved his record to 5-4-2.

Sandy Johnson, Debi Divilbiss, Christy Proctor, Darlene Booker, Sandy Karmer, Denise Hall, Sharon James, Wanda Cowan, and Irene Morris.

Kempsville's girl gymnasts are off to a perfect start

The Kempsville girls' gymnastics team has won their first two meets of the season and are tied with Bayside for the Beach lead. Both Kempsville and Bayside sport 2-0 records.

Christy Proctor and Debi Divilbiss have paced the two lady Chief wins. Christy has posted four firsts, three seconds, and a third place. Debi has two seconds and three thirds credited to her.

Kempsville opened the season with a 60.45-52.90 win over First Colonial. In the first week, Christy placed first in free exercise, vaulting and tumbling, and won the balance beam competition. Debi finished second in vaulting and tumbling, and she placed third on the uneven parallel bars.

Wanda Cowan placed third on the balance beam, and Denise Hall finished third in vaulting. Sharon James won the uneven parallel bars event.

The second meet was even closer. Kempsville edged Princess Anne 55.55-54.64 to pick up their second win.

Sharon James won another first on the uneven parallel bars, and she was the only lady Chief to win a first place. Kempsville won the meet on the strength of their second and third place victories.

Christy won seconds in vaulting and tumbling and on the balance beam. She also finished third in free exercise.

Debi finished third in tumbling and on the uneven parallel bars. Rounding out the Kempsville winners was Irene Morris.

Irene placed third on the balance beam.

Suns hand Knicks first loss

The Thoroughgood "Suns" rallied in the late minutes of their league game Friday night to turn back the challenge of the Aragona Fembroke Knickerbockers 24-23. The Suns are now undefeated at 3-0 and are tied for first place in the Bayside Community League.

Strong rebounding by center Mike Horn and clutch foul shooting by Ken DeRay made the difference. Mark Edson was the Suns' high scorer with eight points. The Knickerbockers are now 2-1 for the season.

Judith Whitehead weds Robert Rauch

Miss Judith Elaine Whitehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Colgate Whitehead of Virginia Beach, became the bride of Robert John Rauch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand C. Rauch of Rialto, Calif., on February 3 at 2 p.m. in formal ceremonies at Community United Methodist Church. The Rev. Herbert Abraham Moyer officiated.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a princess line gown of ivory silk organza, adorned with alencon lace and seed pearls, with long bishop sleeves. Her matching mantilla was edged with alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white ranunculus, baby chrysanthemums and blue baby's breath.

Mrs. Thomas Marshall Baker Jr. of Virginia Beach, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a long gown of blue chiffon, with empire waist accented with a dark blue velvet bodice and cuffs. She wore a dark blue velvet braided headpiece layered with matching tulle flowers and carried a nosegay of blue cornflowers and light blue carnations.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Don Burbage of Virginia Beach, sister of the bride; Miss Rebecca York of Virginia Beach and Miss Kathryn Roach of Alexandria. Their gowns matched the ensemble worn by the matron of honor.

Raymond Rauch of San Diego, Calif., served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Ronald Hugh Whitehead, brother of the bride; William Cotton and Robert Etheridge.

Mrs. Calvin Green served as mistress of ceremonies. The bride is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and Madison College, where she was a member of Sigma Kappa society. Prior to her marriage, she was a speech therapist with the Chesapeake School System.

The groom is a graduate of Eisenhower High School and San Bernardino Valley College. He is a professional baseball player with the Cleveland Indians.

After a reception at the White Heron Motel and Yacht Club, the couple left on a wedding trip to California. They will live in Tucson, Ariz.

Jacqueline Hoskins weds Charles Pitts

The marriage of Miss Jacqueline Ann Hoskins and Capt. Charles de Gastille Pitts took place February 3 at 3 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach with the Rev. John S. Lyles and the Rev. William C. Hedrick officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Cdr. and Mrs. Ralph Edward Hoskins (USN, Ret.) of Virginia Beach. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alfred Pitts of Wichita Falls, Texas. The bride was given away by her father. She wore an empire A-line gown of candlelight satin, trimmed with appliques of Alencon lace, seed pearls and crystals. The ensemble featured a high neckline and long, fitted sleeves tapering to points at the hands. She also wore a chapel length train and matching headpiece with chapel length silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Candace Nadine Hoskins, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a moss green velvet skirt, candlelight blouse and carried a bouquet of white and pink miniature carnations and baby's breath. Bridesmaid were Mrs. James Joseph Fox Jr. of Richmond, Miss Jane Upson of Chapel Hill and Miss Melinda Garrett of Arlington, Mass. Their costumes matched the gown worn by the maid of honor.

Mrs. Phillip Gastrell served as mistress of ceremonies. Capt. Deane Reis of Loring AFB, Maine, served as best man. Ushers were Joseph U. Lee III of Lancaster, Pa., uncle of the bride; W. Robert Funch of Winchester, J.E. Tindall Jr. of Virginia Beach and Lt. James A. Botz Jr. of Loring AFB, Maine.

After the ceremonies, a reception was held at the Little Creek Amphibious Base Officers Club. The bride is a graduate of the College of William and Mary and taught English at Frank W. Cox High School prior to her marriage.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Kansas at Lawrence and is a captain in the U.S. Air Force. The couple will reside at Loring AFB, Maine.

Mrs. Horace Thomas White

Jo-Hanna Kurtz weds Horace Thomas White

Jo-Hanna Barnes Kurtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Davis Barnes of Towson, Md., was wed to Horace Thomas White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eulion Thomas White of Virginia Beach, on January 6 in a candlelight ceremony at the home of the groom's parents.

The Rev. John W. Dozier officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of periwinkle crepe with empire bodice appliqued with embroidered organza and trimmed in ivory chrysanthemum. Her gown was fashioned with a Victorian neckline and mouton sleeves with matching lace trim. She wore a pearl Juliet cap with matching veil of illusion and carried a colonial bouquet of ivory carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Rebecca Edith Barnes of Towson, Md., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long blue crepe pantskirt topped with a long-sleeved ivory lace bodice with coordinated short-sleeved jacket. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Eulion Thomas White served as his son's best man. Michael Barnes, the bride's brother, was groomsmen and performed the lighting of the candles.

A dinner-reception followed the ceremony at the Sheraton Inn. The couple resides in Norfolk and is planning a spring wedding trip.

The bride attended high school in Towson, Md., and Beaver College in Glenside, Pa. She is currently a student at Old Dominion University.

The groom is a graduate of Kellam High School. He served with the U.S. Marines in Vietnam and is presently employed by United Parcel Service.

Lynn Tillman engaged to Leslie Dunn

Mrs. Arlene W. Tillman of Virginia Beach announces the engagement of her daughter, Lynn Frances Tillman, to Leslie Kenneth Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn of Virginia Beach.

Miss Tillman is a graduate of Kellam High School and is presently employed at Integrated Systems Support, Inc., Dam Neck.

Her fiancée is also a graduate of Kellam High School where he served in the Presidential Honor Guard. He is now employed by the Virginia Beach Police Department.

A May 5 wedding is planned.

groom; Raymond Hamlett of Norfolk; Ennis Johnson of Norfolk; Alvin Stallings of Selma, N.C., cousin of the bride; and junior usher was Barry Stallings of Selma, N.C., cousin of the bride.

After a reception at Princess Anne Country Club, the couple left on a wedding trip to Williamsburg. They will reside in Fayetteville, N.C.

The bride attended Norfolk Christian High School and Chesapeake College and is currently a student at North Carolina State University.

The groom graduated from Norview High School and attended Chesapeake College. He is assistant to the chaplain, 82nd Airborne, U.S. Army.

'Harvey' opens Friday at Little Theatre

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach will open its production of "Harvey," Mary Chase's classic comedy about a 6-foot white rabbit, on Friday for an eight-performance run.

Filling a dual role will be Horace McManus. He is directing the show and will also play the lead role of Elwood P. Dowd, Harvey's good friend. Anne Penington plays Veta

The play features two husband-and-wife teams in the cast. John Fox plays Dr. Chumley and his wife is the domestic Mrs. Johnson. John McArthur is Judge Gaffney while his wife Peg plays Dr. Chumley's wife.

The cast also includes Bob

Beard as Wilson, Bruce Leipold as Dr. Sanderson, Marny Marshall as the nurse, David Taylor as a cabdriver and Floss Lawson as Mrs. Chauvenet.

The play will be presented this Friday and Saturday nights, then will run on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights through Feb. 24.

Reservations may be made by calling 428-9523.

THE ACTION IN "HARVEY" is often fast, furious and funny, as shown in this scene from the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach production of the comedy. John McArthur as Judge Gaffney assists Anne Penington as Veta Louise while Becky McFarlane as Myrtle Mae is obviously in a state of excitement.

Medical Society united in private hospital opposition

Plan referred back to Planning Commission

The Virginia Beach Medical Society took a strong, perhaps unprecedented, unified stand in opposition Monday to a proposed health care facility saying it would "compromise the care and jeopardize the health" of people and threaten the development of General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Such a stand by the city's physicians prompted the developer's spokesman, Ed Brogan, to tell City Council, "It is difficult to oppose apple pie and motherhood; this is the first time I've ever seen the medical profession so active in zoning matters."

The application in question was that of United Medical Associates, Ltd. for a 100-bed convalescent and auxiliary hospital facility on a 2.5-acre site across First Colonial Road from the General Hospital. Council agreed to refer it back to the Planning Commission.

Opposition was voiced by the General Hospital, represented by attorney Grover Wright, and Dr. Sterling Dekker, who said he had polled nearly every physician in Virginia Beach.

Dr. Lawrence Smith, president-elect of the medical society, told council his group considered the proposal "adverse to the welfare of the citizens of Virginia Beach" because "(1) it offers limited services supplied by a full service hospital and (2) we feel that hospitalization in less than a full service hospital will compromise the care and jeopardize the health of citizens utilizing this facility."

The resolution presented by Dr. Smith was adopted unanimously at a February 6 meeting and was signed by the President, Dr. Robert T. Mosby Jr.

Wright presented his legal opinions regarding the proposed center, pointed out: (1) it doesn't comply with the previously approved Great Neck Land Use Plan, (2) it could not provide required parking on its "almost wall-to-wall building on the site," (3) the property has not been adequately recorded (4) it would increase an already overburdened traffic situation on First Colonial, (5) there is an apparent unmonitored need for such a facility in a location that would duplicate existing facilities and (6) it would need a 50-foot right-of-way for ingress and egress off First Colonial which would further limit the parking area.

Brogan, who introduced himself as co-owner of the property, reminded council that the application had been approved "in 1971" with a 25-foot right-of-way and he preferred that dedication instead of the 30 feet stipulated in the present application.

Council questioned why the earlier project had been dropped after its approval. Brogan said financing had been unavailable.

Wright requested that the earlier application be made a part of the new site plan and, at Mayor Robert Cromwell's reminder, agreed to pay any fee involved in providing the original plan.

Later in the presentation Planning Director Charles Carrington, referring to the first plan retrieved from the files, said the original application, approved in 1969, was "for a nursing home on the entire tract of land, about 4½ acres. It is now cut to about half that."

When the application came before the Planning Commission, it was presented by a Ray Draucker who said "As an auxiliary hospital, the facility will be fully equipped with specialized treatment rooms, operating rooms for minor surgery, x-ray labs, x-ray facilities, pharmacy, physical therapy, etc."

It was this modification to the nursing home plan that brought opposition from the medical profession, claiming that duplication of services already supplied by General Hospital would lead to under utilization of facilities available and increase patient costs.

Dr. Dekker, who appeared late last year in support of the Extended-care facility on Independence Blvd., which was approved by council, said that a poll of the physicians on that hospital showed 82 per cent either supported it or were not opposed. On the present application only one physician did not take a position, Dr. Dekker said, "and the 79 physicians polled voted uniformly to oppose this one."

Dekker said the turnaround in the medical profession was "not inconsistent because both votes were made in the best interest of our patients. The physicians believe the future plans for a full care hospital by Virginia Beach General would be jeopardized by this proposed facility." He asked council to heed the opinion of medical men "who daily see the needs of the people."

There was some concern from council on the qualification of the applying firm. Brogan explained that Dr. Ira Hancock, general practitioner in the Creeds area and jail physician, would be the facility's medical director and that the firm's president is one James Henderson, minister of a Church of God in Richmond.

There was also concern, especially from Councilman Charles Gardner, about why they applicants had not presented their plan to the Tidewater Regional Health Planning Council for approval. This council is supported by area cities as an advisory board on hospital needs. Brogan said, "I don't know why; I guess we thought it wasn't necessary."

Council apparently mindful of other zoning decisions that have recently been reversed by court suits, was reminded again of this by Brogan who said, "I have still not heard one reason why this shouldn't be approved. It would not affect the General Hospital and its internal would be discriminatory."

Vice Mayor Reid Ervin asked Brogan, "Would you be willing to modify the plans to have a well-run convalescent care facility?" Brogan, after conferring with a member of an architectural firm from Falls Church, agreed to eliminate the operating rooms.

Council voted to refer the application back to the Planning Commission, pending (1) modification of the plans, (2) completion of a study of First Colonial Road and (3) submission of the plans to the Regional Health Planning Council.

Decisions on other planning matters included:

- Denial of a retail motorcycle dealership and service by Wells Motorcycle Co. in the Eureka Park Area. The proposal was strongly opposed by the Eureka Park and Pinewood Gardens Civic Leagues whose spokesman, Mrs. Gwen Wood, told council that because of the noise and traffic and other commercial inconveniences to a residential area, "You are zoning us out of business."
- Approval of a recreational area and outdoor small bore rifle and pistol range by members of the Virginia Beach Rifle and Pistol Club 80193 in the Pungo Airfield area of Princess Anne Borough. Club president Talmadge Blackburn said use would be limited to the 25 members but public service projects, such as home safety courses, were planned. Pungo Councilman Floyd Waterfield commented: "I'm glad to see something like this go in. There's very little recreation in that area."
- Deferred for three weeks, pending a drainage study, Charter Bus Service, Inc.'s application for a zoning change and use permit for a bus repair center with gasoline dispensing tanks at the corner of Northampton Blvd. and Burton Rd. After hearing property owners voice concern over runoff through an inadequate culvert, council agreed to a study to determine the possibility of gas and oil draining into ditches that flow into Lake Taylor.
- Approved zoning changes and use permits for a building to house department, grocery and drug stores at a Wildchuck Rd. and Independence Blvd. and a Food Fair Store on Virginia Beach Blvd. just west of Independence.
- Approved a change of zoning for SLIP Investment Co.-Schell Supply Corp. to provide outdoor storage; and the relocation or closure of the old cutoff from Holland Rd. to Baxter Rd., provided the applicant prohibits construction of signboards on a remaining sliver of property and meets requirements for improvements to Baxter Rd.

April revenue check budgeted for tennis

According to City Manager Roger Scott, the 1973 Revenue Sharing funds, due in April, will be used in part to build the long-awaited tennis complex. Scott outlined the complex briefly to Council Monday, and he promised, at the urging of Council, to have a complete description ready for the next meeting.

Scott, Hanbury's letter stated that the tennis facilities will appear in the 1973 Revenue Sharing recommendations for the first quarter, which will be in April 1973.

The same plan had already outlined recreation facilities to be paid for out of the proposed 1973 Charter Bond issue of $7 million. If authorized by City Council, and when these bonds have been sold, Parks and

As outlined by Scott, the tennis complex will have twelve courts, one with bleachers that can be used for competitive matches, and a building for maintenance supplies and supervisory personnel. It will be located near the beach, perhaps in the Beach Borough.

This promise by Scott was confirmed in a February 6th letter from Assistant City Manager George L. Hanbury to

By LES LEHIGH

"I looked at it and thought, well that's it, he's not coming home." Cover said she felt last Friday when her POW bracelet broke in half on the same day, within hours of the announcement of the time American POWs would be released.

Miss Cover, 15, of Bartow Place, said the bracelet suddenly broke while she was attending class at First Colonial High School. She said she began to believe her classmates who told her, "This means he's dead," and, "That's the end of him, no one will ever see him again."

She explained how her feelings turned to joy on Monday, however, by saying, "The big surprise was seeing his name on the list of POWs released."

Until that moment she said

Storm claims man

The death of a 50-year-old man has been attributed to last Saturday's storm which blanketed the area with snow. Officials said the frozen body of Fred R. Stanley was found outside his house trailer at West Neck Marina, at the end of West Landing Road in the Creeds area of the city.

A medical examiners report said Stanley died of exposure. Investigators said Stanley's body was discovered Sunday afternoon by a neighbor, whom he reportedly had been visiting earlier that morning. Stanley was apparently walking back to his house trailer when he fell into snow drifts.

HOW IT WAS - Luther Whitehurst tells his wife, Goldie, there weren't any electric clippers back in the early days of haircutting.

By HELEN CRIST
"Shave and a haircut-two bits."
Those were the days, a long time ago now, but Luther W. Whitehurst, 86, remembers them.

Luther's been cutting hair since he was a 12-year-old on his daddy's Pungo farm.

"Always had a knack for it," he said in the modern brick duplex that he and his wife, Goldie occupy on Charity Neck Road, just a mile or so from the old Whitehurst farm.

Luther said that Saturday night at the old homestead was the occasion for haircutting.

"All I had to cut hair with was an old wide comb and a pair of scissors that my mother used to cut out dress material. Wasn't but one style of cut then - and that was off."

Sometimes, though, things didn't go so smoothly.

"I was cutting my oldest brother's hair and the scissors had a wire edge - real sharp. Well, do you know I cut a plug out the top of his ear? He yelled something awful."

Luther looked sharp in a wide-striped pink and white shirt, smoking cigarettes as we talked, while Goldie was quiet and let him tell it like it used to be.

He said he got tired of haircutting for free and working on the farm. When he was 19, he packed his bags and, much to the sorrow of his parents, Nancy and VanBuren Whitehurst, and his brothers and sisters, he went to Paducah, Kentucky to live with an uncle.

"Sold my horse for $80 and took $40 to get there. I worked as a machinist on the railroad. But I finished up what money I made. It was a beer-drinking, pumpkin pie-eating bunch down there all right."

So he came home, took to helping his daddy on the farm, married Nellie Pentress and settled down.

Four children followed: Levy Whitehurst's names were scarce then, "Luther said with a wink"; Gladys (Mrs. I.J. Allen); Hazel (Mrs. John Kellier) and Bernice (Mrs. James Day).

Then 45 years ago, Luther decided to build himself a barber shop. If you're sharp-eyed, you've seen the 12 ft. x 16 ft. white frame building with the whirling red and white barber pole on the porch, at Princess Anne Road and Indian River Road.

That establishment traveled several times before it ended up at its present location.

"I put it first on the North side of Charity Church. After I built it I found out I had to pay rent. Of course I couldn't do that."

Just across the road, Henry Moseley owned a farm. He said I could move it there - wouldn't cost me a cent. So I did."

Then when Ben and Elliott Williamson built a store by the church, I moved it closer to the store."

"Next I took a notion that I wanted it down at Pungo - don't know why - had all I could do as it was, but I jacked it up and put it down there."

Luther said he started out asking 25 cents for a haircut. After a while it went up to half a dollar, then 75 cents.

His shop was like a meeting place, a getting together for the community folks, without the cracker barrel.

"Sometimes it'd be so crowded they'd be sitting on the floor."

Then came the women customers - plenty of them. When the bold era of the boyish bob came in and women took the daring step of cutting their long hair, Luther was right there waiting with the scissors.

"Cut it just like the men's, only a little longer on the side."

There was just one chair, which was fortunate for Luther. Had there been two chairs, he would have needed a license.

Luther gave up the shop 14 years ago after 37 years of barbering there. Lloyd Niggs took it over. After Lloyd's death, William Page and Charles Smith became the owners.

Both have daytime jobs, so the shop hours are: Thur., Fri., 5 p.m. - 9 p.m.; Sat., 8:30 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Now Luther's settled down to taking life easy and enjoying it with his pretty wife, Goldie. They've been married 10 years now; were next door neighbors and life-long friends.

And the Pungo Barber Shop is just as busy as ever, and they still come in to swap jokes and tell tales and talk over the good old days.

Like the time the old shop nearly came to an untimely end. "There was a CCC (Civilian Conservation Corps) Camp at Seaside Neck during the Depression," Luther said. "Lot of boys used to come in for haircuts."

"One night I was cutting a boy's hair, and a noise like a locomotive started up, and a twister came through and took

What is property reassessment all about?

By DONNA HENDRICK

If you are a property owner in Virginia Beach and you have discovered that your property has been reassessed at much more than its former value, you are not alone.

The City of Virginia Beach has reassessed all property in the city (land and buildings) for 1973 and discovered that on the average, all property has increased in value by 50 per cent.

The city recently mailed notices of reassessment to all property owners in the city. The notices list the new fair market value of land and buildings and the former market value. These notices are not bills.

But many residents have expressed confusion, shock and even anger over the new notices. To help property owners understand what the new reassessment means, Clyde N. Merritt, real estate assessor for the city, recently explained to the press, and thereby the people, what the new assessment is all about.

The last land and building general assessment was made by the state in 1962 and 1963. Buildings have not been reassessed since 1963. The city reassessed land only in 1969. But no reassessments of any kind have been done since then. The State Constitution requires that property assessments be made every four years.

Homes in many areas of the city (North Virginia Beach, Thoroughgood, Sandbridge, waterfront areas) jumped in value a great deal since the last assessment was made.

Notices of reassessment which were mailed to homeowners show the new fair market value of the home. This is the price at which the homeowner could sell his home, according to the city.

On the back of the reassessment form is a formula for computing the tax which homeowners may be required to pay in 1973. The key word here is "may" since the City Council must still set the tax rate for 1973. Merritt said that all indications show that the Council will probably lower the tax rate for 1973.

Tax is paid using a 60 per cent tax ratio. This means that taxes are assessed on 60 per cent of the fair market value.

The actual tax to be paid (based on the 1972 tax rate) is computed by multiplying the appraised value by 60 per cent, then multiplying that figure by the tax rate, which is based on $100 of assessed value.

The tax rate for the various boroughs is:

- Bayside, $2.15.
- Lynnhaven, $2.15.
- Kempville, $2.15.
- Blackwater, $2.10.
- Princess Anne, $2.10.
- Pungo, $2.10.
- Virginia Beach Borough, $2.55.

The rate varies from borough to borough because some boroughs pay an extra five cents for mosquito control. The Beach Borough pays extra for its own fire department and prior bonded indebtedness.

The real estate assessor's office is currently holding hearings on the new tax assessments. Any property owner who does not understand his new assessment may call Clyde Merritt for an appointment to discuss the appraisal.

Tax notices will go out in May, to be paid by June 10, for the first half of the year's taxes. Notices for the second half will be sent in November to be paid in December.

Merritt pointed out that the city provides a tax relief program for the elderly which is handled through the city's Social Services department. Merritt said that his office feels not enough people are aware of the program to take advantage of it.

"This is not a welfare program," Merritt said, "and I think these elderly people feel there is some stigma attached to it. This is a legitimate tax relief program provided by the city for those living on a fixed income."

"We like to say that this is a program we provide in appreciation for these people living in the city and paying taxes for so long."

Senior citizens may apply for the tax relief program by calling Merritt's office.

Several trapped in storm-stranded cars

At least four police officers became stranded, in one instance for some eight hours, during last Saturday night's storm as they patrolled the city to assist others.

Officials said Officer Leroy B. Hall was stranded in his patrol car on Sunday on isolated West Neck Road. Hall spent the last two hours before help arrived without any heat after exhausting his supply of gasoline to keep the car engine running.

Lt. C.D. Hathaway and Sgt. D. Creelman, Jr., walked nearly a mile to safety in snow drifts and near blizzard conditions to safety after their patrol car became stranded on Mill Landing Road. Lt. Hathaway said they sought refuge in his son's home.

Officer Jose Perez became stranded in his patrol car when he realized the nearest house was about a mile away and he wasn't sure he could reach anyone in the storm.

Authorities said a bulldozer was used to reach three unidentified men who were stranded for nearly five hours on Great Neck Road. Two of the men were in a wrecker which became stranded after going to assist a motorist.

Despite being in sub-freezing temperatures for long periods of time officials said no one was seriously injured.

Some still wait men's return from Vietnam

Attack Squadron VA-75 returned to Oceana NAS from Vietnam Monday minus seven fliers including its former senior officer who was killed during the deployment.

The remaining missing men included three who were among the POW's released Monday, and three others who are classified as Missing in Action.

Official's said Cdr. Charles M. Ernest was killed in action last November 27, when his plane was shot down by enemy gunfire over the Gulf of Tonkin. Ernest was VA-75 C.O. at the time.

The POWs included Capt. Jeremiah Denton, Lt. Cdr. William A. Techuck, and Lt. Roger Lerseth. Denton and Techuck's A-1A "Intruder" jet fighter-bomber was shot down on July 18, 1965, about two months after the squadron arrived off Vietnam on board the USS Saratoga. Lt. Lerseth's plane was downed last September 6.

Capt. Denton was a POW to arrive at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines on the first leg of their return to the United States from enemy detention camps.

The status of three other VA-75 men remain unknown, and they have been classified as MIAs, Missing in Action. They are identified as Lt. Cdr. Donald F. Lindland, Lt. Cdr. Robert S. Graustein, and Lt. Cdr. Barton S. Wade. Authorities say the men failed to return from strikes which took them over enemy territory last year.

VA-75's "Sunday Punchers" returned home after Vietnam duty tours which spanned nearly seven years. They were the first A-6 squadron ever deployed to combat in 1965, and the first to return to combat from the East Coast since 1970 in April 1972.

Targets were struck throughout far reaches of North Vietnam including Hanoi and Haiphong repeatedly. The Sunday Punchers delivered 10 million pounds of ordnance and flew 1,700 strike sorties.

Air crews received 21 Silver Stars, 108 Distinguished Flying Crosses, 4 Bronze Stars, 118 single mission Air Medals, over 400 Strike-Flight Medals, 4 Purple Hearts, 56 Navy Commendation Medals with Combat "V", 18 sustained performance Navy Commendation Medals, 26 Navy Achievement Medals and 5 Republic of Vietnam sustained performance awards.

Monday also marked the return for fighter squadrons F-31 and VF-103 from ten-month Vietnam duty tours.

VF-31's "Tomcatters" had the distinction of dropping over 3 million pounds of ordnance on enemy supply routes and supply facilities during some 2,000 combat sorties over North Vietnam.

VF-103's "Sluggers" dropped 3 million pounds of ordnance on strategic targets during attack and support missions over North and South Vietnam.

Student honored

Hugh Garfield Parker III of Virginia Beach has been awarded a Trustee Scholarship at Campbell College (N.C.) for the school year of 1972-73.

A 1972 honor graduate of Bayside High School, he is the son of Cdr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Parker of Virginia Beach.

A natural question!

The Hilton Washington Club Inn and the Copper Kettle Restaurant received City Council's approval Monday for a use permit for dancing and entertainment.

The two properties are business interests of Councilman Charles Gardner who has led the city's controversial anti-nudity ordinance aimed at topless go-go dancers.

"This entertainment," attorney Grover Wright told council, "would be something like a piano player."

"No go-go?" a councilman quipped.

"No go-go," Wright answered. "I knew that question would come up!"

Laura Lambe wins award

Three local members of the Virginia Travel Council received recognition at the annual organizational meeting of the Virginia Travel Conference at the Lake Wright Motel in Norfolk recently.

Thomas H. Gibson, Council president, presented one of the most elite awards to Laura Lambe of Laura Lambe Advertising. The bronze plaque expressed the organization's gratitude for distinguished service to the Travel Council.

Mrs. Lambe was also elected to a new term on the Board of Directors of the Travel Council.

Robert Whitley, director of tourism for the city of Virginia Beach, was named regional vice president for the Tidewater area.

Scott Sterling, owner-manager of the Princess Anne Inn, was also elected to the Board of Directors.

Troop 532

Earns Badge

The scouts of Junior Troop 532 of the Plaza neighborhood, have earned their Indian Lore Badge at the belt of the dance and ceremonial team, PAVAB Chapter of the Blue Heron Lodge, Order of the Arrow.

Jim Mackie, team advisor, told the history and the culture of the American Indians.

Mike Chapman and Fred DeZouch taught Indian songs and dance steps. Other team members helping were Bruce Harp, Carl Fremd, and Kenneth Cochran.

The feather Dance was cleverly performed by the troop leaders, Mrs. Lynn Morgan and Barbara Chapman. The feather was won by Girl Scout Lindy Sullivan.

Recreation will receive $60,000 for a boat ramp at Long Creek, $50,000 for bicycle trails, and $75,000 for additional parking facilities and a building at Red Wing Lake Golf Course.

The same proposed Bond issue would appropriate $50,000 "to pay for the plans and specifications for the construction of a community center."

Hanbury's letter describes the center as being "40,000 square feet in size, with a swimming pool, and costing $2.5 million."

In addition to the swimming pool, the community center would have space for outside basketball courts, a wrestling area, judo instruction, table tennis, chess, and other recreational activities.

The name on the bracelet is that of Capt. Lynn Guenther, of Glasgow, Montana. It also bears the date he fell into enemy hands, June 24, 1972.

Miss Cover said she purchased the bracelet last May and had worn it constantly until it broke. She said she chose that particular bracelet because the day of Capt. Guenther's capture was closely related to her birthday, September 24.

When asked what she plans on doing with the bracelet now she said, "I think I'll just write a long letter telling how glad I am that he's safe, and send it along with the bracelet to his family."

'Virginia Beach is study poor'

Despite the "no" votes of Councilmen Floyd E. Waterfield and Donald H. Rhodes, City Council Monday approved on second reading a $50,000 appropriation for a drug study grant requested by the city's Mental Health Retardation Services Board.

The appropriation was made subject to the state's participation in the cost of the study. The state will be asked to appropriate $25,000, half of the cost.

Councilmen Waterfield and Rhodes voted in opposition on both readings.

"We're both pretty much agreed, although I can't speak for Councilman Rhodes," Waterfield said in explaining the reasons for his negative vote.

"We're definitely not against the program itself. But I feel that Virginia Beach is study poor. Every time we turn around, we're having a study made," Waterfield said.

"I feel there is too much overlapping of groups engaged in the same business. I don't feel they're pulling their resources together. We have about four or five programs doing somewhat the same thing," Waterfield said.

Planners approve topless go-go

The Planning Commission Tuesday approved a use permit application by Diamond Lounge, Inc. for live entertainment, including topless go-go.

The Commission's action comes after City Council last week enacted an ordinance banning public nudity, including topless dancing. An injunction has since been ordered barring enforcement of the new ordinance until it has been tested in the courts.

The Diamond Lounge, located west of Baker Road and south of Northampton Blvd. in Bayside Borough, has been operating for several years with various kinds of entertainment, including folk music and topless dancing, according to the manager.

APPROVED

The Commissioners also approved applications for:

- + Gerland, Inc. for a use permit to construct 456 apartments north of proposed False Cape Parkway and east of proposed Indian Lakes Blvd. in the Indian Lakes area of Kempsville Borough.
- + A use permit for dancing and live entertainment at Howard Johnson's Restaurant, corner of Atlantic Avenue and 37th Street.
- + An amendment to the Master Zoning Ordinance (Virginia Beach Borough). The amendment affects Motel-Hotel District, Section III, F of the ordinance.
- + A change of zoning for

George W. Barnes from Retail Business District to General Business District to comply with city law for property north of 29th Street and west of Atlantic Avenue in Virginia Beach Borough.

+ A change of zoning and use permit for Roger Caboon and Leslie Terry to build 28 townhouses south of Norfolk Avenue and east of Indian Avenue in the Shawdown area.

+ A change of zoning and use permit for H.I. Winter to construct an 84-bed geriatric care center in the area of General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

+ Calvin M. and Neil C. Davis for a change of zoning (residence suburban to residence duplex) on the corner of Pleasure House Road and Lake Bradford Drive in Bayside Borough.

+ A change of zoning (from multiple family to limited commercial) by E.M. Kuper-smid for property east of Eastwood Lane and south of Laskin Road in Lynnhaven Borough.

+ A use permit for Save-A-Ton Inc. for a self-serviced gasoline station on the corner of Diamond Springs and Haden Roads in Bayside Borough.

+ A change of zoning for Pizza Hut of Laskin, Inc. (from residence suburban to limited commercial) in the Laskin Road Shopping Center area.

+ Davis Corner Motors for a change of zoning (from limited go general commercial) and a use permit for used car sales and service west of Davis Street and north of Virginia Beach Blvd.

+ John Copeland for a change of zoning (from limited to general commercial) and a use permit for new car sales and service on the corner of Virginia Beach Blvd. and Greenfield Avenue.

+ Edwin S. Brock for a change of zoning on four parcels of land and a use permit for 90 townhouses west of Haygood Road and north of Newtown Road near Bayside Junior High School.

+ A use permit by Tee Corp. to build 200 apartments east of Thalia Road and south of Bonney Road near Thalia Village.

+ A street closure requested by Elizabeth T. Overcash (a portion of Greenfield Avenue north of Virginia Beach Blvd.).

+ A use permit for Shore Drive Assoc. to build 492 luxury condominium apartments north of Shore Drive and east of North Great Neck Road on Chesapeake Bay in Lynnhaven Borough.

+ A use permit for the city of Virginia Beach to build a new Public Safety Building in the Municipal Center.

+ Amendments to the adopted Master Transportation Plan of the city as requested by the city.

The commission also approved use permits for four sewage pumping stations in various parts of the city.

DENIED

The Commission denied applications for:

+ A change of zoning for Farm View Apartments and a use permit to build 12 apartments (six duplexes) east of Morris Neck Road and south of Stone Road in Pungo Borough.

+ A change of zoning and use permit for G.J. Gulbranson for 224 apartments on the corner of Providence and Indian River

STOHL REALTY 4920 Virginia Beach Blvd. at Aragona Blvd.

Work has begun at Potters Road to clear the right-of-way for the long-awaited relocation of S-Lynnhaven Road.

Motorist's prayer answered

The long awaited answer to a motorist's prayer, improvement of South Lynnhaven Road, should become a reality within the next 18 months.

This will be accomplished through construction of a new bridge over London Bridge Creek. When completed the new roadway will extend from Potters Road to the intersection of Magic Hollow and South Lynnhaven Roads, a distance of 2.17 miles, where it will rejoin the southern extremity of the existing road. The new segment will be located approximately one-half mile west of the existing road, and pass through land containing farms, woods and low lands. Estimated cost of the project is $1 million.

Initially the project cost was to be covered entirely by local funds. However, the proposed usage of the first appropriation of federal revenue sharing funds calls for covering $400,000 of this cost.

The new road will contain four lanes with two dual lanes separated by a median divider. However, present plans for that segment between Magic Hollow Road and London Bridge Creek call for construction of only the north bound dual lane to handle both north and south bound traffic. Construction of the south bound dual lane will depend on development of that area and the amount of traffic generated.

According to City Engineer Art Berger the only contract awarded thus far is for the clearing of the right-of-way from Potters Road to London Bridge Creek. This work is underway. Berger indicates the contract for construction of the new bridge is currently being processed in preparation for competitive bid advertising. It is anticipated bids for roadway construction will be advertised within six weeks.

Berger said that when the new roadway is completed that portion of the replaced South Lynnhaven Road will be improved for the benefit of property owners abutting it.

Community Services Director W. W. Fleming, Jr., said the land for the new roadway was acquired at no cost to the city. Fleming said the land was donated by property owners because of the enhancement of the property, through the new road providing an access to the property. Approximately 11 individuals and/or corporations are involved in private ownership of the land.

Algy Cohen named

It took planning, but the first citizen was surprised

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Attorney Nathaniel (Nick) Cohen's Pacific Avenue office was filled to overflowing last Friday afternoon. Outside the temperature was dipping and the wind was whipping, a prelude to the storm to come. All available chairs in the office were burdened with heavy coats and scarves, and cameras and tape recorders: the conference room was filled with members of the news media and officials of the Beach Jaycees.

It was not yet 3 p.m. But within moments the city's 1972 First Citizen, as determined by the Beach Jaycees from letters of nomination, would walk through the door. It was an anxious moment. Especially for Nick Cohen. He had coerced his father, (Algy Cohen, the "suspecting" recipient, into dropping by the office to see him on "a pressing financial problem."

"He had a full schedule for the afternoon," Nick said. "That's the only way I could get him here on the spur of the moment...he's going to drop by between committee appointments."

Nick was one of about four people who knew that Algy Cohen was the new First Citizen. He kept the secret well. But admitted he had called his mother, Mary, the night before in Florida where she was visiting friends.

Shortly after 3 p.m. the office door flew open and those in the conference room could hear a flurry of activity in the outer room. "I have some people in here I want you to meet, Dad," Nick was saying as he ushered his father into the room of press people.

Algy Cohen, young and active at 64, stood there in his overcoat, gasping because "I took the stairs" to the fifth floor, wondering what was going on.

Larry Waters, Jaycee chairman for the award, grabbed the recipient's hand and quickly explained what it was all about. Cameras whirled and clicked, recording forever the expression of complete dismay on the face of Virginia Beach's First Citizen for 1972.

Waters outlined briefly some of Cohen's contributions, efforts that encompassed every phase of community development: from work with youth, to the military, to the law and medical professions, to service groups and governmental appointments, to interdenominational religious activities. The list was lengthy and unlimited in community interests.

"Somebody's been feeding you a bunch of lies," Cohen laughed. "How do you know I even did all those things?" "Because we had too many letters of nomination stating the same things to doubt them," Waters answered.

One of the letters said "No matter where one looks in terms of aid and dedicated services to all people in Virginia Beach, Mr. Cohen's personality is found every place."

Wayside intervenes suit

Are topless go-go dancers endangering Virginia Beach?

The question of whether topless go-go dancers endanger Virginia Beach received strong consideration in the first court test of the new "anti-public nudity" ordinance passed last week by City Council.

Circuit Court Senior Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr., referred to any existing danger last Friday as he granted a 90-day temporary restraining order against enforcing the ordinance. Judge Wahab said, "I'm concerned with the intrinsic validity of this ordinance. It appears in my own mind there is no immediate danger to the people of Virginia Beach."

Attorney Lowell Clarke, representing the Wayside Restaurant, Military Highway, in a contesting of the ordinance in U.S. District Court, Saturday said, "It is my intention to intervene in the suit in Virginia Beach on behalf of the Wayside."

Shortly after Judge Wahab's action Federal Judge Richard B. Kellam declined action on the Wayside's suit. Clarke said Judge Kellam indicated to him he felt the State Court, Virginia Beach Circuit Court, has taken jurisdiction and therefore dismissed the suit.

Judge Wahab's restraining order was granted to the Jamaica Inn, which sought an injunction against the ordinance less than 24 hours after its enactment. The Diamond Springs Road establishment has been using topless go-go dancers for over a year. Judge Wahab said he was deferring final action on enforcement of the ordinance until this ordinance can be reviewed on all its merits.

In reviewing two hours of testimony on the matter Judge Wahab said, "Those who do not wish to seek this type entertainment do not have to go to these places."

Richard Wilkinson, Jamaica Inn's part-owner-manager, testified that during the past year he has experimented to determine if topless go-go dancers did indeed affect his business gross receipts. Wilkinson said that when dancers who were not topless entertained his business declined considerably. He also cited his proximity to a number of Norfolk places offering topless entertainment, and feared if he ceased the attraction his patrons would leave his location in favor of those.

Wilkinson cited 14 such locations in Norfolk and two others that he knew of in Portsmouth.

In considering this question Judge Wahab said he was of the opinion "...enforcement of the ordinance would result in loss of (the Jamaica Inn's) business to 15 or 16 competitors." He added, "This type of entertainment is not going to endanger the welfare or morals of the City anymore than in the past year."

Judge Wahab referred to the ordinance not pertaining to ballet presentations. He questioned, "Is there any difference in nudity on a ballet stage or a topless runway?" He added it appeared to him the ordinance could also extend to

THE IMPORTANCE OF LOCATION

Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are "Location, location, and location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice.

Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your house long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and immediate neighborhood.

Impact loss may prompt base schools

Councilman Donald H. Rhodes proposed Monday to City Council that consideration be given to encouraging the federal government to provide schools on military bases for dependents if federal impact funds are decreased or cut off. The federal funds currently help the city schools pay for the cost of educating children of military personnel who do not pay city taxes and who live on non-taxable property.

"We much prefer the existing system, of course," Rhodes said, "whereby we continue to receive the impact funds and continue to educate military dependents in the city schools.

"But we must be ready for the chance that the federal government may decrease or stop the impact funds. Then the federal government ought to have the responsibility of educating the military dependents themselves," Rhodes continued.

"I feel that the quality of education will unquestionably suffer if the impact funds are decreased

Give them peace

The long nightmare is fading. The POWs and MIAs are coming home. Now reality begins.

Plans for privacy have been voiced until there is little left to be said. But here, in Virginia Beach, where so many of these stricken families live among us, let us be even more aware of their needs as fellow human beings, as neighbors. These men and their loved ones have set unequalled examples of courage and dignity and determination for all to follow.

Those who now yearn to seek out these people of national prominence through personal tragedy, have not earned the honor of familiarity. Those who have suffered quietly and helpfully with them through the long years have earned the honor of their friendship.

The well-publicized excitement of the past few days has whipped the American public into a frenzy of good intentions. Sincere Americans will hold in reserve these good intentions until the day they are needed.

Let every citizen of Virginia Beach, of this country, remember the emotion in Captain Jeremiah Denton's voice when he, as the first prisoner to step into freedom, quiveringly said "God bless America." Remember the dignity of the man and of the men and women he represents.

Rejoice in their happiness and be proud of their presence. But give them peace.

First Citizen

The Beach Jaycees' selection of Algy Cohen as First Citizen of Virginia Beach for 1972 is one long deserved.

Few people have given of themselves to the extent Mr. Cohen has given to the people of Virginia Beach. His interests know no bounds, his energies are unlimited in furthering that in which he believes.

It would be futile to even attempt to recognize all that he has done, contributions he has made. Let it suffice to say that anyone in Virginia Beach who is involved in any worthwhile endeavor has somewhere along the way worked with Mr. Cohen. That's how widespread his activities are, how dedicated his life is to helping others and bettering his community.

The First Citizen for 1973, Algy Cohen, is a first citizen every day.

Oh, Pony Express

Having trouble with your mail service? Well, so are the congressmen. One found that the disappointing turnout at the open house of his Beach office was simply because the invitations, mailed from Washington didn't arrive. They didn't arrive late. They just didn't arrive. Another's aide has found it necessary to follow up mailed notices of his congressman's visits with a confirming telephone call, to make sure the press receives notification. Inside Washington itself there was a big explosion because a top official who could not attend a certain hearing sent his regrets by mail. The hearing was called to order but the main guy wasn't there; his letter didn't reach the proper authorities.

If there's this much trouble in the nation's Capitol, small wonder the average American city is suffering. John Doe would like to write his congressman about the check that went astray or the big business contract that took a week to travel 15 miles. But he doesn't write. He figures it wouldn't reach Washington anyway. Congressmen have the same problem here. What can John Doe do about something even the congressman can't correct? That "snow, sleet or hail" bit went out with the six cent stamp!

Misinterpretation

In last week's editorial tribute to the police and fire auxiliaries "They work, too," this statement was made: "When Champs, so close to the burning building it appeared in jeopardy, provided hamburgers and coffee for the firemen, it was the women who shuttled back and forth to serve the food."

It has been called to the Sun's attention that this statement has been construed by some to mean that the restaurant made the generous donation only because it was in danger. This was never the intent, of course; it was written as a tribute to a business that ignored its own concern to assist, in a way only it could, the men fighting the fire. It is regrettable that this meaning was not conveyed to all readers.

There's no water on Beautiful Street'

There's no water on Beautiful Street.

Now is there any water on any of the other streets in Beach? Or lights for the city-owned park. Or rest room facilities to serve the park.

It wasn't easy for Beach resident Floyd Allen to stand before City Council Monday and outline the needs, the very basic needs, of this black community. Especially when he was not listed on an already overburdened agenda and had to grab a few minutes at the end of a long meeting.

But council, ignoring the fatigue they must have felt, listened to a man sincerely concerned about the welfare of his community. The remaining spectators and members of the press stirred restlessly. Allen was tired from an afternoon of presentations, arguments, discussions and decisions. But council listened attentively. And did not hurry the speaker.

He had something to say, something he felt needed to be said. And he said it well. Not perfectly. But sincerely. And well.

Allen, obviously encouraged by the friendliness he saw in the faces of his elected leaders, told it the way it is. He explained that there are 3,700 residents in Beach, that area between Park Avenue nearly to Atlantic Park and from Bell's Corner to Larkin Road.

"We are very concerned about sewage and water, especially in the Owl Creek area," Allen said. He listed the streets that have no water. Practically no homes have adequate sewage provisions. These problems are not unique to many communities in the city. But Allen took it a step farther.

There are no lights for the park the city built for Beach. And no rest room facilities. Youngsters come from all over the city to play there, he said, and "they have to go behind the bushes; that's not right."

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor: It is obvious by the recent action of the Virginia Beach City Council that their new aim in life is to legislate the moral values of our citizenry, and not to insure organized growth, financial stability, and improved roads and services. The citizens of Virginia Beach did not elect the council to legislate its morals. Councilman Gardner is not the city's appointed conscience.

From the way that things have been going lately, I wonder if Mr. Gardner would be so violently opposed to Topless dancing if most of that "bare" money was being channeled into the Beach Borough. After all, is it any less moral to present live entertainment, in the form of topless dancing, than it is to serve a glass of whiskey in a restaurant? Whiskey will make you drunk, but nobody ever died from reading Playboy magazine, which shows a hell of a lot more of the female anatomy than any topless dancer that has ever performed in the city.

The public nudity ordinance will continue to allow "X" rated movies, live sex displays as long as they are a part of a stage show, and even pornography, so why should topless dancers, who by no stretch of the imagination are as explicit as the other items I have mentioned, be barred from the city of Virginia Beach?

There are many worse "bumps and grinds" in Virginia Beach than those being performed by topless dancers. When is city council going to take some action to fix the "bumps" that abound in the roadway system of Virginia Beach, a roadway system that I feel is undoubtedly the worst by far in the Tidewater area. When is city council going to take some action to eliminate some of the "grinds" that the average citizen of Virginia Beach must go through to get action on a complaint to the city?

It is very hard for me to understand how the members of city council could go to the law enforcement division, better served by closing and policing topless dance establishments than by that money were spent trying to curb violent crime in the city. Within the last week, a man has been murdered in the Baycliff section of the city, the crime has not been solved, and yet on the day

The lights at the park have been installed. But they have never been "turned on." Repeated calls to the Department of Parks and Recreation have brought no results. So Allen took it to council.

The Beach Clean-Up Project, one of the major community efforts that brought Virginia Beach into the group of finalists for the All-America City title in 1971, was apparently to no avail. Trash still plagues the residents of Beach. But Allen said the people have been unable to get city trucks and containers to collect the trash, most of which is attributed to pesting materials and other community clean-up projects. "They clean up the beach and dump it here," he said.

"The Jaycees, the Navy, the Army and our own Beach residents worked hard to clean it up but the city hasn't done anything for the black community since that time."

He called Community Services and asked for two containers in which to collect the trash. They never came. The residents try to keep the area clean, he explained, but persons outside Beach continue to litter and dump in the community. "You think the black people are dirty and trashy. Well, we are, but it's because people drive along in their cars and throw stuff in our yards and dump stuff in the ditches and we can't get the city to help us clean it up."

City Manager Roger Scott listened obviously with some concern, as Allen spoke. Scott explained that the proposal for the federal revenue sharing funds includes $150,000 for sewage lines in Beach.

But there were no imminent answers to the problems of water, lights, public rest rooms and trash collection for the trouble-plagued community.

Council learned much from Floyd Allen. They asked for a report on these conditions from the city manager. Meanwhile, There's no water on Beautiful Street.

Council legislating morals

Following the passage of the public nudity ordinance, I'll wager that there were more policemen out to enforce that ordinance than were actively working on solving the violent death encountered by that unknown man in our city.

Our taxes are going up, many violent crimes remain unsolved, the city council shows no signs of increasing the services provided to the citizens of Virginia Beach, but they want to legislate morals. Citizens of Virginia Beach, it's time to demand that city council take affirmative action to solve some of the real problems that plague Virginia Beach. It's time the city council started to serve the citizens of this city rather than just a very small segment of the population. Smokestacks are a device used to hide behind, and city council, by passing the public nudity law, has attempted to legislate morality. Smokestacks that would hide their inactivity on matters of utmost importance to the city from the citizens of the city.

Environmental agency Back to higher standards says thanks to Sun

To the Editor:

I was impressed with the column I read in the Sun this week and certainly appreciate the interest of the one who took the time to write the column. I am concerned to have the morals (of especially the young people) change back to the beautiful resort it always had been in Beach, the city we only Virginia Beach called the number on that Saturday. Within ten minutes of the call, EPA had dispatched an air monitoring emergency assistance team to the scene with special monitoring equipment.

The team was able to identify a very high level of carbon monoxide gas, which as you know is invisible and odorless, within the home, on the basis of this finding, local authorities carried out preventive evacuation of nearby homes. The team's findings also helped pinpoint the apparent source of the fumes, a nearby burning dump that had been covered over with dirt and had continued to smolder underground. The fumes apparently had seeped through the ground into the home. Although, tragically, the ten month old boy died and the other three family members remained in a coma as a result of the poisoning, the local authorities were able to prevent any added poisoning by evacuating the neighbors and by locating and extinguishing the source.

Again, we thank you for your past support and look forward to working with you during the coming years.

Birthing views do not belong in Virginia Beach public schools

To the Editor:

Your article of Feb. 1 (which does not list the writer's name) states that the anti-abortion Birthingright organization is preparing "educational material on fetal development and abortions for use in schools and by other organizations."

If children are going to be exposed to this sort of thing it should be part of an overall program developed by the public school system as part of a sex education course, and not to further the religious or moral beliefs on abortion of one segment of our society while others hold very different views.

As one New York legislator said when the Birthingright lobbyists were flooding the New York State Assembly with pictures of dead fetuses, "If I had known it was show-and-tell time I would have brought a picture of a dead mother."

Sincerely,

M.F. Vayt

LEGISLATORS CONSIDER PLANNING

By the proposed revision of the Virginia Area Development Act (House Bill 1000), the Virginia Area Development Act (House Bill 1000) will be revised.

Many local officials apparently feel they do. They are opposed to passing legislation recommending the Governor's Ad Hoc Committee to Review the Area Development Act and have sent the Committee, Cities and Towns Committee of the House of Delegates.

Alarmed by the encroachment of Federal and State regulations on what formerly were considered local matters, they view further legislation as a threat to their autonomy. They want no part of a "federal" with regional control. They want no part of a "federal" with regional control. They want no part of a "federal" with regional control. They want no part of a "federal" with regional control.

The specter of another layer of government dictating to localities has clouded the issue, however proponents of the measure hope that rational consideration of the ad hoc committee's recommendations will be possible at this session of the General Assembly.

Supporters, including Governor Helms and Dr. T. Marshall Hall, Jr., Chief of the Committee, state that the proposed legislation is not intended to usurp the power and control of the participating local governments in planning district affairs.

The original Virginia Area Development Act, adopted by the 1968 General Assembly, placed Virginia in a position of national leadership in regional planning and in providing options for local governments to get together to offer services on a regional basis.

If it divides the state into 22 locally defined geographical areas having similar economic, social and physical characteristics, the plan for local governments to create district planning commissions, the majority of the members of which must be elected local officials. Twenty-one of the 22 areas have already been designated.

Also under the act, governmental units making up a district commission may establish a service district to provide regional services to its local government, but the plan for offering regional services must be approved by the governing body of every participating governmental unit and by the citizens in a referendum in each one of the participating units.

Local services can be offered, the same approval process must be repeated.

No service district has yet been established, although there is a strong feeling that the plan for offering regional services may be offered much more economically on a regional basis.

Briefly, here are the planning district commission legislation revisions recommended by the ad hoc committee:

1. Increase the amount of state financial support for planning district commissions. Presently the amount of authorized state assistance is $100,000 per capita with a minimum of $10,000. This would be raised to 35 cents per capita with a minimum of $30,000, with the localities contributing to the commission a total amount of 65 cents per capita or $65,000.

2. Allow all, or any number above a majority of the planning district commission members to be elected local officials. The present law calls for "at least a majority, but not substantially more than a majority" of the members to be elected local officials. Supporters believe this change would make the commissions more responsive to participating local governments and improve commission effectiveness.

3. Enable two or more local government subdivisions to provide jointly through a planning district commission services locally requested by one or more subdivisions. Subdivisions not wishing to participate would not be required to do so. No long term borrowing would be possible. Projects would be financed by user fees or other local revenues.

4. This would provide one more option for local governments to meet the needs of citizens. It would be under total control of those governmental units.

5. The ad hoc committee's recommendation would eliminate the election of members of service district commissions, and instead require that they be appointed by the governing body of the local government.

Appointing rather than electing members of a service district commission and requiring that a majority be elected officials should make these bodies more responsive to the local government.

After hearing exhaustive testimony of the proposals at a Tuesday open hearing members of the House Committee, Cities and Towns Committee will decide whether to recommend the measure to the House floor.

The Virginia Area Development Act hearing is but one of a number which has occurred in the past week. At last week's hearing, supporters and opponents of women's rights legislation, particularly betting, bingo and blue laws have had their say.

Baby sitter, boy escape double murder and suicide

A 9-year-old boy and his 15-year-old baby sitter escaped injury Monday when the boy's mother was shot to death during a double murder and a suicide.

Investigators said Mrs. Gloria C. Nicholas and Kurt W. Swanson were apparently killed by James M. Geering moments before he shot himself in the head. The shooting occurred about noon in a Broad Bay Road home which, according to police, Mrs. Nicholas and Geering had leased just two months ago.

Authorities have established the young girl had spent the night in the home caring for Gary Nicholas, and had fallen asleep on a sofa. She apparently awakened when the shooting began and she and Gary fled to the safety of the exit door in the back of the home. They were located at a nearby neighbor's home shortly after police arrived.

Police surmised Geering, 30, attached to the Explosives Ordnance Disposal Unit at Fort Story, returned to the home unexpectedly and discovered Mrs. Nicholas, 27, and Swanson, 30, in a bedroom. After shooting the couple, police said, Geering went into the bathroom and shot himself with a .380 Browning automatic.

Police units and members of the Ocean Park Volunteer Rescue Squad were dispatched to the home to investigate a reported gun shot wound. Records show Virginia Beach police and fire-rescue dispatchers were alerted by a call from the Norfolk police department, reportedly received from a phone company operator. Debra H. J. Coffield, Jr., and W. L. Deane entered the home with Officer J. A. Carlton. Coffield said Mrs. Nicholas and Swanson were dead when discovered, and Geering was still alive but bleeding severely. At least six shots had been fired. Both Mrs. Nicholas and Swanson were shot twice, Geering once.

Geering was rushed to Virginia Beach General Hospital by the rescue squad and transferred to Norfolk

General Hospital. He reportedly died en route. Coffield recreated the shootings as follows. Geering had spent the morning having his leg examined, which was in a cast as the result of a recent motorcycle accident. Geering returned home, and discovered Mrs. Nicholas and Swanson together in the bedroom.

Swanson, who resided on 34th Street, operated the Bluebeard Football Parlor on 17th Street. Geering's home was listed as Billings, Montana.

The junior Daniel from Virginia

By SONJA HILLGREN

WASHINGTON — He's the junior Daniel in Virginia's 10-member delegation to the House of Representatives.

He's also the junior Daniel from Virginia on the House Armed Services Committee.

The senior Daniel is Rep. W.C. (Dan) Daniel, D-Denver, 56, first elected in 1968 to represent Virginia's Fifth Congressional District.

The junior Daniel is Rep. Robert W. Daniel Jr., R-Spring Grove, elected in 1972 to represent the Fourth Congressional District, including the Virginia Beach boroughs of Pungo, Blackwater and Princess Anne.

Partly because he's a Virginian, Daniel, 36, is the freshman congressman chosen by the House Republican leadership to read George Washington's famous "Farewell Address" before the House of Representatives on Monday. The reading is the long-standing tradition of Congress's celebration of Washington's birthday.

One of the first dozen bills Daniel has co-sponsored would make Washington's boyhood home in Fredericksburg, Va., a national monument.

Having served in Congress a month and a half, Daniel already has established himself as a fiscal conservative and an advocate of a strong national defense.

He said in an interview that he sought an Armed Services Committee slot because of the "big military presence in the district" and "my own interest in defense."

Daniel didn't ask to be placed on the House Agriculture Committee, despite his strong personal interest in farming. He is owner of Brandon Plantation, one of Southside Virginia's major agricultural enterprises.

"I am going to try to minimize areas of potential conflict of interest in my business and votes up here, so I didn't think it was appropriate for me to be on the committee where agriculture legislation originates," he said.

Discussing issues that have emerged in the opening weeks of Congress, Daniel said he voted to reinstate the $25 million Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) which the Administration eliminated. He voted with the majority on a 251-142 vote on REAP last week, a vote some people have called the first "battle" in a "war" between President Nixon and Congress over spending of federal funds.

Daniel voted for compromise amendment which would have funded REAP at $140 million. It was defeated, 217 against and 178 for.

Despite his desire to keep spending down, Daniel said he voted to reinstate REAP because the Department of Agriculture last fall told farmers $140 million would be available for the program.

"People had made plans based on it, and it certainly in no sense indicates any opposition on my part to the President's goals of some fiscal sanity," he said.

Daniel said his vote last week "is no guarantee of what I'm going to do if it translates into another issue such as presidential veto. If the lines are drawn more on the grounds of everything being constrained."

"We have to have this constraint the President talks about. The present programs unconstrained would have had a significant tax increase made necessary by 1975. Projects that people like and are of themselves good have to be constrained."

"I've been very gratified when back in the district talking to people, they realize that their favorite things are going to be pared down."

He added, however, that "it would be dangerous to cut the defense budget."

On other issues, Daniel said he opposed giving amnesty to Vietnam War draft resisters. "I think if Americans stood by their country, they were killed, wounded, captured, held prisoner, I don't favor any indulgences for those who bugged out," he said.

Daniel called the possibility of the U.S. giving reparations to North Vietnam "very unpalatable."

He said he supports the President's proposal to lump federal categorical grant programs into special revenue sharing packages patterned after general revenue sharing passed by Congress last year.

And on gun control, an issue which has resurfaced following the shooting of Mississippi Sen. John C. Stennis, Daniel said he favors "a 30-year nonparoleable sentence for any felony committed with a firearm" rather than more restrictions on gun ownership.

He added that he favors "consideration of the death penalty for any crime committed with a firearm that results in death."

Cub Pack 378 holds meeting

Cub Pack 378 held its first pack meeting of the new year recently at the Virginia Beach United Methodist Church.

Robert Coulthard, Pack 378 Institutional Representative for the past four years, is retiring.

Bud Parley, Pack 378 Committee Chairman, presented Coulthard with a plaque from the boys and leaders.

J.A. Richendollar, PAVB Commissioner, was on hand to talk to the parents of the pack.

He explained how a pack should function and how important adult leaders are to keep the pack going.

Gene Parrera, Pack 378 Unit Commissioner, was also on hand to make a surprise presentation to Mrs. Bettie G. Money, Publicity Chairman for the pack.

He presented Mrs. Money with the Boy Scouts of America Training Recognition Certificate and pin.

The pack congratulated three new members who are fully trained. They are Sheri Wilson, Alice Russell and Pat Irving.

Mrs. Helga Larimore was welcomed as new Den Mother for Den 6. Den Mother patches were presented to Pat Irving and Helga Larimore.

Donner Court was presented to John Larimore and Assistant Donner Court to Robert Horton.

Both boys are in Den 6. Wolf Cub Awards were presented to the following boys: Tommy Irving, 1 Silver Arrow; Robert McCallister, 1 Silver Arrow; David; David Klingensmith, 1 Gold and 3 Silver Points. Bear Cub Awards were presented to the following boys: Mike Farley, Bear Badge and 1 Gold and 2 Silver Arrow Points; Bryan Crowell, Bear Badge; John Larimore, Bear Badge and 1 Gold Arrow Point; Allen Cheek, Bear Badge; and Kenny Klingensmith, 1 Silver Arrow Point.

Webelos Award this month went to Mark Love; he received his Artist and Traveler.

Mike Farley and Bryan Crowell were inducted into the Webelos. The Cubby award went to Den 6. They were also the Honor Den for the month.

Pack 378 will be participating in SCOUT-A-RAMA. They will be in both seven with the theme "Cub Scout Follows Aiken." They invite the public to come and see them and have a wonderful time.

Rice appointed station manager

Raynor E. Rice Jr. of Virginia Beach has been appointed general manager of WGRM-FM, a new radio station on the 24-hour stereo rock format.

Senior citizens center open

A new senior citizen center has been opened in the Kempsville area at Westwood Hill Baptist Church, corner of Providence and Woodstock Roads.

The church was designated a senior citizen center through the efforts of the SEVAMP program of the city of Virginia Beach.

There are now two senior citizen centers in the city. The other is at Thalia Lynn Baptist Church on Virginia Beach Blvd.

The next program for senior citizens at the new center will be offered Thursday, February 15, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Additional information may be obtained by calling the church at 420-2186.

The new center plans to offer programs every Thursday from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Pack 411 given awards

Cub Scouts of Virginia Beach Pack 411 were entertained by their parents at their January meeting at Thalia Trinity Presbyterian Church. The parents put on an impressive musical performance using instruments made by the Scouts.

Bryan Harrell and Scott Harris were welcomed to the pack as Bobcats. Brady Flax and Mark Sneller earned the Bear rank. Mark Sneller also won a gold arrow under Bear.

VIRGINIA BEACH. Where The Living Is Lovely

NEW CAVALIER TO OPEN IN JUNE

Things are looking up in Virginia Beach! Eleven stories up to be precise. It's the new Cavalier Oceanfront, Virginia's largest convention resort complex, slated to open in June of this year.

"We feel we have the ideal complex here for both vacation pleasure and convention business," says Cavalier general manager J. Myron Renfrow.

"Vacationers will enjoy the resort atmosphere and luxurious surroundings, while businessmen can take advantage of our versatile meeting rooms which can accommodate from 10 to 800 persons for meetings, and up to 600 for banquets."

The contemporary red brick motor inn will contain 300 guest rooms, up to eight separate meeting rooms, a unique rooftop supper club, a cocktail lounge, a family-style restaurant, numerous shops and services, in addition to underground parking.

Of special interest is the supper club, Orion's Roof, which will encompass the complex's entire 11th floor and will feature gourmet dining, nightly dancing and entertainment. Guests enter the supper club by crossing a footpath over a shallow lagoon of water to an intimate waiting area before progressing into the club. Floor-to-ceiling sheets of glass envelop the sides of the 11th-story restaurant, affording guests an unsurpassed view of the Atlantic Ocean.

The main floor of the new high-rise will contain the entrance lobby; the Sun-brella, a family-style restaurant seating 200 to 300, and a lounge.

Hemisphere cocktail lounge whose unique decor has to be seen and experienced to be appreciated; and a central meeting room whose 5,000 square feet can be subdivided into as many as five smaller rooms, ranging in size from 740 to 1,450 square feet.

Additional meeting space is available during daylight hours when one section of the supper club overlooking the ocean is converted into a meeting room. The large rectangular room can seat 300 for meetings, 255 for banquets or can be subdivided into three smaller rooms each seating 100 for meetings—and $5—for banquets.

Ten of the 11 floors of the tower section of the complex will be devoted to guest rooms, including 240 deluxe earth colors, taken from 20 executive studio rooms and 20 suites.

Each of the 300 guest rooms will contain individually room-controlled air conditioners, color television, party tables and private balconies—each with its own view of the Atlantic Ocean. Rooms are done on alternating floors in shades of red, blue or green. Color-coordinated wallpaper, floral quilted bedspreads and shag carpeting accent the rich fruitwood campaign-style furniture, custom designed for the Cavalier Oceanfront by Drexel Furniture Company.

The exterior of the new motor inn is Virginia red brick trimmed with white cast stone and accented by bronze aluminum windows and balconies. The interior decor is muted autumn earth colors, taken from nature as in the Japanese style. Thick carpeting, redwood paneling and contemporary furnishings complement the look of luxurious, relaxed vacationing at the Cavalier Oceanfront.

Situated amid a 16-acre resort site which includes the existing Cavalier Motel, the new Cavalier Oceanfront offers guests the vacation pleasures of both indoor and outdoor pools, a putting green, several tennis courts, in addition to a 600-foot private beachfront. Nearby are golf, boating and fishing facilities, as well as tourist attractions and shopping areas. The new motor inn is within an hour's drive of historic Williamsburg, Yorktown and Jamestown.

Interior design for the Cavalier Oceanfront is by J.D. Henry of Memphis, Tennessee; architects are Shriver and Holland & Associates of Norfolk, Virginia; and general construction is by Fox-Sadler Co., Inc.

Mind Your Money By Peter Weaver

Buying a fire extinguisher is like buying insurance. You're paying for something you hope you'll never have to use. But buying the actual extinguisher is only half the battle. Knowing how to use it is equally important.

There are all kinds of fire extinguishers. Some use plain water, others use chemicals and still others use various gases. Most fire experts claim the best kind of extinguisher for the home is the "ABC all purpose" unit which uses ammonium phosphate to smother the flames.

The letters denote the kind of fires an extinguisher can handle. "A" fires are common combustibles such as wood, paper and cloth. "B" fires are those involving flammable liquids and grease. "C" fires are those caused by faulty electrical circuits. So, an ABC extinguisher will work on all three types of fires.

For home use, the fire experts recommend a five-pound ABC unit. This provides enough chemical to handle most small fires. You shouldn't attempt to fight big fires with an extinguisher. The best thing to do with a fast-spreading fire is to get out and call the fire department. If you have a large, fancy fire extinguisher, you might be tempted to stick around and play fireman. It could be lethal.

Extinguishers that use plain water are only good on type "A" fires (wood, paper, cloth). They won't work on grease fires in the kitchen (water makes grease splatter and spread). They won't work on electrical fires (you could end up with a new stiff hairdo). Water extinguishers are much heavier than comparable chemical units and are harder to lug around.

Prices for the ABC all-purpose extinguishers range around $18 for the five-pound, standard home model. These extinguishers empty fast—within 10 seconds. So you've got to be practiced in handling them. Otherwise you might be aiming in the wrong direction and waste half the spray before you even touch the fire.

Fire marshals advise homeowners and apartment renters to try out a new fire extinguisher a couple of times even if you have to waste some chemical charges. This way, when a real fire comes along, you'll know how to put the extinguisher to quick and effective use.

The extinguisher business is quite competitive and prices have been coming down. You can get a small extinguisher for your car or boat for around $9. But don't get the little aerosol-can extinguishers. They won't have sufficient capacity to do much good. If the extinguisher doesn't have an Underwriters Laboratory (U.L.) emblem, don't get it.

The best place to put an extinguisher is in or near the kitchen. This is where most daytime fires start. Grease is often the culprit in a kitchen fire and you have to be most careful in handling it. If the burning grease is in the oven, just slam the door and it will usually suffocate itself. If it's on the open range, put a pan cover or a wet towel over it to smother the flames.

Never try to pick up a kitchen utensil with burning grease. You might spill it and cause the fire to spread. Also, never stick burning grease under the faucet. Water will make it splatter all over the place. When you aim your ABC chemical extinguisher at a grease fire (or any burning liquid), stand back about six feet. Otherwise the pressure will tend to spread the fire around.

You can get an excellent booklet on how to buy, use and maintain fire extinguishers by sending 40 cents to: Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C. 20407. Ask for stock No. 2200-0088.

Wesleyan students form traveling drama troupes

Virginia Wesleyan College drama students will be taking their skills and equipment off the stage and into the streets of Norfolk this semester as part of a pilot program funded by a $4,200 grant from the Expansion Arts Division of the National Endowment for the Arts. Patterned after the sixteenth century traveling drama troupes, the program as envisioned by its director, H. Rick Hite, Virginia Wesleyan assistant professor of drama, will create a unique theater workshop with Hite's students becoming teachers and the audience members becoming actors and stage hands.

"Our goal is not to entertain," Hite says, "but to help community residents develop sufficient theater skills to create their own productions. We want to create groups which will continue to exist as active theater centers within the communities after we are gone."

The first act of Hite's program has been underway at Virginia Wesleyan since last fall. At that time, the small group of students who will serve as the core of the workshop began receiving training in improvisational acting, commedia dell'arte performance, mask and costume making, simple set construction and scene painting.

The curtain on the second act will go up at the end of February when Hite and his students open their workshop at the Huntersville Youth Center in Norfolk. Working closely with the Virginia Wesleyan troupe will be the Youth Center's director, Willie J. Ross.

At the Center, Wesleyan students will each work with small groups of interested young people, teaching them some of the basics of improvisational acting and helping each to create a mask and costume. The combined groups will create a portable stage and scenery.

What will be presented on the portable stage is something the young people participating in the workshop will determine themselves. "These young people all have something to say," explains Hite. "We want to give them a chance to say it in theatrical form. In this way it is not Virginia Wesleyan bringing in a show—the show comes out of them and they can relate it directly to their community."

The masks, essential elements of the commedia dell'arte, will play an important role in helping the young people develop their shows, Hite feels. "The mask frees people," he explains. "Behind the mask, they are less inhibited. They can say what they want to say." The masks were really the spark that gave Hite the idea for the theater workshop. "A couple of years ago, we produced a one-act play using the masks and took it out into the community," Hite recalls. "After one outdoor presentation, a large group of kids came up and wanted to play with the masks and costumes. They were very eager to participate. That was really the seed of the idea to give them not only masks and costumes, but also the skills and background to let them participate."

Virginia Wesleyan dean, Dr. William M. Wilson, sees the theater workshop as an "excellent opportunity to share the resources of the college with the community and involve our students in the living laboratory of the greater Tidewater Community." Dr. Wilson also noted that the theater workshop "shows a great deal of imagination on the part of Rick Hite. It speaks very well of him that the National Endowment for the Arts should accept this as a pilot program."

State grant announced

Second District Congressman G. William Whitehurst (R-Va.) has announced a grant to the State of Virginia for historic preservation. Whitehurst says the funds will be used to continue a statewide survey and inventory of Virginia's architectural, cultural and historic places.

The $33,373 grant will be matched with state funds, and will also finance the printing and distribution of a preservation brochure titled "Notes on Virginia."

Richendollar becomes Eagle Scout

Keith D. Richendollar (Doug) of Boy Scout Troop 363, was recently honored in an Eagle Court of Honor at the Haygood United Methodist Church.

Guests at the ceremony included Congressman G. William Whitehurst, Gomer E. Jones, Tidewater Council Scout Executive; and Lt. Col. O. Frank Kattwinkel, U.S.A.F. Council Commissioner. Doug received letters of congratulations from President Nixon, Senator Scott, and Governor Holton.

A junior at Bayside High School, Doug is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richendollar. He has been a Scout since 1964 and is now serving Troop 363 as Junior Assistant Scout Master.

Gentry promoted

Charles H. Gentry of Virginia Beach has been promoted to assistant manager of Occidental Life of California's Norfolk branch office. Gentry joined the company there in 1969 as an agent with six years' local insurance experience.

They said if we could find a waterfront location . . . build condominiums priced from $19,990 . . . the world would beat a path to our door. O.K. world, we're ready!

From morning till evening, the view of the Chesapeake Bay and the Lynnhaven Bay is magnificent. Nowhere else could a more perfect location have been chosen than the site just west of the Lynnhaven Inlet on the south shore of the Chesapeake Bay. If you like golden beaches, quick access to deep sea fishing and above all, a lovely condominium residence in a graciously appointed building, then you'll love The Chesapeake House on the Bay.

Take a dip in the spacious pool, practice putting or stretch out on the warm sand. After a workout in the exercise room, try the Swedish sauna.

Build a sandcastle on the beach or sail with the kids. Head over the Lesser Bridge to the fishing fleets, the fishing piers or beautiful State Park.

Play a game of billiards in the game room or, attend a party in The Chesapeake House luxurious party room.

There's everything you'll ever need.

Beat your path to our door for a lifetime of good living.

Seven Beach wrestlers win District titles

Cox outpointed the other ten Eastern District schools in last weekend's Eastern District Wrestling Tournament to win the District wrestling team championship. Cox amassed 142½ points while qualifying eleven matmen for this weekend's Eastern Regional Tournament.

Princess Anne finished third in the eleven team field with 88½ points. Kempville had 57½ points and finished fifth. Kellam's 33 points was good for seventh place. First Colonial finished with 26½ points and tenth place, and Bayside had 25½ points and finished eleventh.

District champion Cox and runner-up Norview each qualified eleven wrestlers for the regionals. Princess Anne qualified nine, Kempville seven, Kellam and First Colonial six, and Bayside four. In all, 43 Beach wrestlers will advance to the regionals.

Norfolk qualified 29 matmen. In addition to Norview's eleven, Granby qualified five, Booker T. Washington six, Maury four, and Lake Taylor three.

The top six finishers in each weight class won berths in this weekend's Eastern Regional Wrestling Tournament. The regionals will be held Friday, February 16th, and Saturday, February 17th, at Manor High School in Portsmouth.

Most of the Beach wrestlers won that were expected to do so. However, there were a few upsets along the way. One of the biggest upsets of the District tourney was the opening round elimination of Jerry Pontes, a 145 pounder. Pontes, who finished the dual meet season undefeated and top seeded at his weight for the tournament, lost an 8-3 decision to Kempville's Mark Barbee.

Clarence Billups (155) and Terry Haddox (119), two matmen who carried a lot of Bayside's hopes in the tourney were also eliminated in early rounds. Billups was upset by Granby's Mike Tanner in a close 10-8 in the opening round. Terry Haddox lost to Chris Conkwright of Cox in the quarterfinals. Haddox, who could have possibly defeated everyone in his weight class except Conkwright, was a victim of the seeding.

Cox's Mike Newbern, who finished the season undefeated at 138 pounds, was upset by Norview's David Walsh in the championship round. Newbern was figured to win the District title.

Virginia Beach schools accounted for seven of the twelve District champions. Cox had six of the champions: Glen Felthousen (112), Chris Conkwright (119), Mike Battalio (126), Scott Harrel (132), Pete Drew (145), and James Gaudreau (185). Princess Anne's Danny Allen won the 155 pound District title.

Kempville, Bayside win cage openers in junior high tourney

EVERYBODY IS LOOKING at something near the end of the 145 pound match. Pete Drew is looking at the clock, Dave Cash is looking at his coach for a few pointers, and the official is looking to see if Drew has a pin.

The last dual meet.....

Cox ended the season on a winning note. In fact, the song was the same throughout the season. In this last dual meet, Cox won its twelfth straight match and finished undefeated by eating Bayside 53-8.

Bayside's Clarence Billups (155) pinned Steve Slough for the only Marlin victory. Bayside's Bobby Dossett battled Chris Yerkes to a draw in the 105 pound match.

Five of the Cox match wins were by pins. Timmy Davidson (98) pinned Chris Hutchinson, Glen Felthousen (112) pinned Mike Rhodes, Chris Conkwright (119) pinned Terry Haddox, Mike Newbern (138) pinned John Safarino, and Bill Summs (heavyweight) pinned Bert Carpenter.

IT IS AN UNCOMFORTABLE POSITION that Dale Shao is in. Scott Harrel has the upper hand at this point of the 132 pound match.

Snow caused the postponement of the final night of the Virginia Beach Junior High School Basketball Tournament, but the opening round Friday night treated fans to a stunning upset and to a dramatic come-from-behind win in which one team scored 17 points in the three minute overtime period.

Kempville, the fourth seeded team in the four-school tournament, knocked off favored and number one seeded Plaza 49-41 in the Friday night opener. Kempville took a 14-9 first quarter lead, stretched it to 23-16 at the half, and finished the third quarter with what appeared to be a comfortable 40-25 lead.

A determined Plaza team looked as though they were going to live up to their number one seeding in the fourth quarter. The Plaza five outscored the Kempville Braves 16-15 in the catch-up attempt, but the rally fell short, and the game ended with the Braves upsetting Plaza 49-41.

Kempville unveiled a zone defense against the shorter Plaza squad, and the move appeared to take Plaza by surprise. The zone defense by the taller Braves was very effective, and it forced Plaza to shoot from the outside.

Plaza switched to a full-court press in the final period in their comeback attempt. The press was effective, since it held the Braves to nine points while Plaza was hitting for sixteen. The come-from-behind attempt came too late.

In the nighttime, Bayside defeated Virginia Beach Junior High in overtime 68-54. Few fans had ever seen a team score 17 points in a three-minute overtime period, but that is just what Bayside did.

The first quarter of the game ended in a ball deadlock. Virginia Beach swished the net for 21 second-quarter points to pull ahead 29-16 at the half.

The large Virginia Beach margin was caused by a very stiff pressure defensive effort. The Seahawks pressured Bayside the entire first half, causing Bayside to make nineteen turnovers.

Bayside rallied in the third quarter and pulled within eight points of Virginia Beach by the end of the period, 40-32. The aggressive Seahawk pressure defense caused many of them to be charged with three and four fouls, and in the final period Virginia Beach switched to a zone defense in order to protect the players that were in foul trouble.

Bayside took advantage of the cautious Virginia Beach play and tied the game at 51-41 at the end of regulation time. In the overtime period, Bayside dumped in 17 points while holding Virginia Beach to three to win the game 68-54.

Bayside's David Weldon led the fourth quarter Bayside catch-up rally and then led his team to the overtime win. Weldon scored all sixteen of his game points in the fourth quarter and in the overtime period. He put the game away for his team when he hit eight straight free throws during the overtime period.

Harry Williams also played a large role in the Bayside win. In addition to his 16 points, Williams cleared 24 rebounds off the boards.

The final round of action in the junior high tourney has been set for this Friday night. Play will again be in the Bayside Junior High School field house. The consolation tilt between Plaza and Virginia Beach will start at 6:30 p.m., and the championship game between Kempville and Bayside will start at 8 p.m.

Cox gymnasts: Young team hopes to be ready by regionals

Three meets into their five-meet season, the Cox girls gymnasts sport a 1-2 record. The team's win was over Kellam, 60.9-55.1. The losses were to Bayside, 52.25-49.55, and to Princess Anne, 64.15-49.8.

The Cox varsity girls' gymnastics team is made up of one senior, team captain Sandy Conkwright, four juniors, and three sophomores. The junior girls are Gella Lember, Kathy Rineker, Susan Bannerman, and Cynde Knight. Ann Winttingham, Amy Fisher, and Annette Owens are sophomores.

Sandy Conkwright and Kathy Rineker have been the team point leaders through the first three meets. Sandy has taken five firsts and a second place. Kathy has finished first once, second twice, and third five times.

Annette Owens has posted two seconds, Melody Haynes is credited with two firsts and a second, Kelli Weller has a second and a third place win. Cynde Knight and Ann Winttingham each have finished third once, and Gella Lember has posted a second.

The lady Falcons looked very strong in their opening win over Kellam. They finished first, second, and third in every event except the uneven parallel bars, where they finished first. Sandy Conkwright won the balance beam, vaulting, and uneven parallel bars. Melody Haynes finished first in tumbling, and Kathy Rineker took first place in free exercise.

Kempsville girls are still undefeated in gymnastics

The Kempsville girls are still on top of the Beach Girls' Gymnastics League with a perfect 3-0 record, the only unbeaten team in the Beach. A week ago, Kempsville and Bayside were tied for the league lead with identical 2-0 records.

Last Thursday night, Kempsville and Bayside met in the showdown for undisputed first place in the standings. The Kempsville girls swept four first places in the five events to win the meet 61.15-54.97.

TUMBLING: 1. Nan Dick, Princess Anne; 2. Melody Haynes, Cox; 3. Cathy Rineker, Cox.

The second time out they lost to Bayside. Cox won three events, finished second in one, and captured third in two events. First place winners were Melody Haynes in tumbling, and Sandy Conkwright on the balance beam and on the uneven parallel bars.

The Cox junior varsity is made up of eighth and ninth graders. The freshmen are allowed to compete in the varsity matches. Freshmen members of the team are Melody Haynes, Kelli Weller, Cathy Crutinger, Lisa Kuper, and Robyn Larson. Eighth graders are Suzanne Kelly, Barbara Grant, Dorie Hume, and Hazel Conkwright.

"We have a young team. Sandy Conkwright is the only senior," coach Carole Shelton said last week. "We are concentrating on form and composition in addition to difficulty. Although we have not won every meet so far, we should be ready by the regional meet. I feel that we should even be able to compete with the girls from the Northern District by state meet time."

PRINCESS ANNE'S NANCY ROBERTS performs on the balance beam. She finished third in the event as her Cavaliers defeated Cox 64.15-49.8.

Conkwright and Martin get top grades at Okla.

Bill Martin and Scott Conkwright are making outstanding grades at Oklahoma State University. The two Virginia Beach wrestlers were on the list of honor student-athletes at the end of the first semester.

Bill Martin completed his fifteen semester hours with a 3.571 average. An "A" student, he is nineteenth in grade standing among all Oklahoma State athletes.

Scott Conkwright finished the semester with a 3.3 average. This makes him a strong "B+" scholar, just 2 points short of a "A" rating.

BILL MATHER, FIRST BASEBALL COACH AT VIRGINIA WESLEYAN, is readying a team and a schedule for this spring.

Bill Mather named first Wesleyan baseball coach

William W. Mather, who spends most of his time amidst the pots and pans of the Virginia Wesleyan College kitchen as manager of the College's dining service, has been named to coach Virginia Wesleyan's first baseball team, according to Donald M. Forsyth, athletic director.

The addition of baseball to the College's athletic program was approved at a special December meeting of the Board of Trustees. Virginia Wesleyan also fields soccer, golf, tennis, and basketball teams.

"We are fortunate to have someone like Coach Mather already on the College staff," Forsyth notes.

Cox posts third straight Eastern District victory

In cage action last Tuesday night, Cox narrowly defeated Kempville 67-60. Bayside downed Kellam 89-70, and First Colonial fell to Granby 77-59. Only one game was played Thursday night, and First Colonial was the winner. The Patriots upset Norview 49-43 with Speedy Gainer back in action.

Kempville almost pulled the upset of the year Friday night, but Maury finally won the game in the game in double overtime 73-71. In other Friday night action, Maury sank Princess Anne 74-53. Granby downed Bayside 95-78, and Cox defeated Kellam 84-70.

COX 67, KEMPSVILLE 60
Led by the shooting of Randy Robinson, Cox ran up a 34-22 halftime lead over Kempville and held on for a 67-60 win. Kempville fought back in the second half, outscoring the Falcons 36-33, but the early Cox lead was just too much for them to overcome.

Robinson was the game's top scorer with 23 tallies. Other Cox cagers in double figures were Mike Jewell, with 14 points, and Brooks Williams, with 12. Jimmy Roberts edged Britt Glisson by one point to take scoring honors for Kempville. Roberts had 19 points for the game, and Glisson had 18. They were the only Chiefs in the dual-figure column.

BAYSIDE 89, KELLAM 70
Bayside outscored Kellam by lopsided margins in the first and third quarters as they rolled to an 89-70 victory over Kellam. Bayside outscored Kellam 27-14 in the first quarter and 33-17 in the third. Kellam held the Marlins even, 13-13, in the second period and ran up a lopsided margin of their own, 26-16, in the final period, but Bayside's lead was too great for them to overcome in the final minutes.

Sonny Blackmon's 19 tallies. Three other Knights finished in double figures. Tony Davis had 13 points. Terry Tyler had 11, and Jim Perkins added 11.

GRANBY 77, FIRST COLONIAL 59
Granby got off to a 16-10 first quarter lead and never trailed for the rest of the game, out-pointing First Colonial in every quarter and winning 77-59. The Comets led 37-25 at the halfway mark.

Speedy Gainer was back in action for the Patriots. He scored 15 points, tying with teammate Cleveland Spellman for First Colonial scoring honors. Sterling Johnson also finished in double figures for First Colonial. He had 10 points.

FIRST COLONIAL 49, NORVIEW 43
First Colonial pulled off probably their greatest win of the season Thursday night, defeating favored Norview 49-43. The Patriots led 10-6 after one period of play. 21-20 at the half, and 34-27 after three quarters of the game had elapsed.

Speedy Gainer led all scorers with his 23 points. Back-in action after a two week layoff, Gainer scored 40 points in First Colonial's two games during the week.

WASHINGTON 73, KEMPSVILLE 71
Booker T. Washington had their toughest game of the season against a Virginia Beach school Friday night when they visited Kempville. Heavily favored Washington was lucky to escape with the game, as they finally won on the free-throw line in double overtime 73-71. The Bookers had a slim 18-16 lead after the first quarter of play. Kempville tied the game, 36-36 at the half. The Chiefs then went in front of the Bookers 49-46 after three quarters of play. Booker T. tied the game at 65-65, sending it into overtime. Both teams scored four points in the first overtime period, but the Bookers outscored Kempville 4-2 in the second overtime for the win.

COX 84, KELLAM 70
Cox picked up their third win Friday night by defeating Kellam 84-70. The game was close until the third quarter.

Cox and Kellam battled to a 14-14 tie at the end of the first period. Cox then took a 40-38 halftime lead. A one-sided scoring bulge by Cox in the third quarter (17-8) put them in front 57-47 after three quarters of play. Cox edged Kellam 77-59 in the final period to add to their victory margin.

Brooks Williams led all game scorers with his 19 points. Also in double figures for the Falcons were Mike Jewell and Randy Robinson. Jewell had 16 points, and Robinson had 12.

Three Knights finished in the dual-figure column. Terry Tyler led Kellam point-makers with his 17 tallies. Jim Perkins finished the night with 14 points, and Ken Bazemore had 13.

Mrs. James William Pennington

Kathleen Brinkley weds James W. Pennington

Miss Kathleen Brinkley became the bride of James William Pennington on February 10 at 2 p.m. in a double ring ceremony at Grace Brethren Church with the Rev. George Jeffrey officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stuart Brinkley of Virginia Beach. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vinton Pennington of Prince George, Va.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a formal gown of white satin with empire lace bodice, bishop sleeves, lace applied skirt and cathedral length veil with lace trimmed border and Juliet headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. R. Wayne Pennington served as matron of honor. She wore a costume of blue, with a crepe skirt and velvet bodice plus a blue velvet bow headpiece. She carried baby blue carnations.

Miss Stacy Meinhardt served as flower girl and Scott Vinton Reivins was ring bearer. Robert Wayne Pennington served as his brother's best man. Fishers were Keith Spencer of Hopewell, the groom's brother-in-law; James Justin Plevins of Blackstone, brother-in-law of the groom; William Albert Shumadine of Virginia Beach, cousin of the bride; and Bruce Edward Brinkley of Virginia Beach, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and Smithdeal-Massey Business College. She is employed by Leigh Memorial Division, Medical Center Hospitals.

The groom is a graduate of Marlton High School and is in the U.S. Navy.

After a reception at the Grace Brethren Church social hall, the couple left on a Southern wedding trip. They will live in Chesapeake.

Band Parents To Sponsor Contest

An Amateur Talent Show, sponsored by the Kellam Band Parents Association, will be presented February 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Kellam High School.

Prizes of $50, $25 and $10 will be awarded. Bobby Becker will serve as mistress of ceremonies. Judges are Marcia Bartusiak of WVEC, Don Beckstrom of WVAB, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmes of WRAP, Vicky Randall of John Robert Powers Modeling School, Dr. James Hester of Norfolk State and Tom Davis of Tom Davis' Dance Studio.

Haddock promoted

Ira F. Haddock of Virginia Beach, assistant director of administration at Old Dominion University, has been promoted to associate director of administration.

The promotion, announced by Director of Administration Hugh H. Sisson, was effective Feb. 1.

Barbara Seed

Barbara Seed named Tidewater Marine Wife of the Year 1973

Barbara H. Seed of Virginia Beach has been chosen the Tidewater Marine nominee for the title of Military Wife of the Year 1973.

Mrs. Seed is the wife of Marine Maj. R.J. Seed III.

In choosing Mrs. Seed as the local Wife of the Year, the selection committee cited her long history of volunteer service and church work, in addition to her current contributions in aiding the visually handicapped, participating in Navy Relief as a volunteer counselor, and teaching Sunday School and public school.

Besides caring for their three children, Mrs. Seed also finds time for her hobbies: Gourmet cooking, playing the piano, creative sewing and reading. Mrs. Seed was nominated with four others by the Tidewater Marine Officers Wives Club. She will now compete with nominees submitted by other major Marine commands throughout the U.S. and overseas for the title of Marine Wife of the Year.

The top representative of each branch of the service then vies for the honor of being named Military Wife of the Year 1973.

Miss Gloria Jean Edwards to wed Steven Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Edwards of Virginia Beach announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Jean Edwards, to Steven Edward Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson of Virginia Beach.

Miss Edwards is a graduate of Kellam High School and Leigh Memorial School of Practical Nursing. She is currently employed by the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Her fiancée is a graduate of Kellam High School and is presently serving with the 82nd Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg, N.C.

A March 2 wedding is planned.

Public Health nurse retires after 18 years

Mrs. Mary C. Ackis of Back Bay, retired recently after 18 years service as a Public Health Nurse in Virginia Beach and the former Princess Anne County.

Mrs. Ackis, the widow of the late Henry Clay Ackis of Princess Anne County, was born and grew up in Rural Retreat, Wythe County, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.T. Copenhaver. She attended Marion College, Marion, and received her Registered Nurse training at University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville.

During her years of work as a nurse here, Mrs. Ackis has seen many improvements in health care provided to the public. Since her nursing career began, she has seen the introduction of the Salk polio vaccine and the near eradication of that dread disease. She has seen the development of the birth control pill and observed its quick acceptance and its profound effect on the birth rate. She feels that people in general are more health-conscious now than they were when she took her training, and in that regard, feels nurses are much better prepared for their duties now than a generation ago.

Mrs. Ackis plans to remain in Back Bay and continue her hobbies or collecting antiques and working in her garden. Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Monahan live next door with their two children. Her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Ackis, live in Springfield, near Washington.

Libraries switch to computers

The friendly neighborhood public library is now going the way of big business - to computers. But rather than becoming more impersonal, the libraries hope that the computer will help them know their patrons even better.

The big switch to computers, which is now in progress at all Virginia Beach branch libraries, will help the library staffs keep better track of their patrons, build up their book collections, keep their files current and find out who reads what.

"The benefits of the new system are mainly internal, but we feel our patrons will benefit, too," said Mrs. Michele Leber, Virginia Beach branch librarian who is acting as publicity director for the project.

Marcy Sims, the Bayside branch librarian, is directing the changeover to computers with the help of the data processing system at the Courthouse.

Essentially, all library patrons will be asked to visit any branch library within the next six to eight months to fill out a new, more detailed registration card. The card is simple, and will contain the patron's name, address, telephone number and social security number, if applicable.

"We're not asking our patrons to rush right down this week and re-register," Mrs. Leber said. "We just want them to come in at their convenience to fill out the new card."

Mrs. Leber said that patrons will not be issued new library cards. Instead, existing cards will be marked with a sticker when patrons re-register.

The idea behind the shift to computers is to help the libraries keep their patron lists current.

Previously, library cards were issued at branch libraries and by the Bookmobile. Patron information for the cards was kept on file at each branch library and at the Processing Center at the Courthouse Complex.

The process worked fine until a librarian at one branch needed to check on patron information at another branch. And it didn't work at all if the information was needed after the Processing Center closed at 5 p.m. (branch libraries are open until 9 p.m. on most evenings.)

Now, information will be taken from the new cards and recorded on the computer at the Processing Center. Each two weeks, each branch library and the Bookmobile will receive a printout listing all new patrons at all branches. The patron list will be updated every two months.

After a patron re-registers, his card is valid for one year from the month of issue. He can renew his card each year. If the card is not renewed for two years, that patron's name is automatically erased from the computer list.

"We know that we have issued over 100,000 library cards," Mrs. Leber said. "We ask our patrons to notify us of any change of address, but we know many of them don't. Until now, we had no idea how many active and inactive patrons we had."

The computer will also help tell the library staffs what kinds of books their patrons are reading. The new cards will contain statistical information which will help the libraries build up their book collections in accordance with patron reading preferences.

Library staffs should also be able to keep better track of overdue book charges Mrs. Leber said.

Also, Mrs. Leber said that the libraries had received complaints from married women who were asked to put their library cards in their husbands' names.

With the new system, married women will be asked to put their cards in either their own or their husbands' names.

Libraries show films

This week's event at the Virginia Beach Public Libraries include the 10th presentation in the special film series, Thursday, February 15, at 7 p.m. "Zoo of the World," featuring zoos providing natural habitats for animals, will be shown at the Kempsville branch.

In the regular Saturday film series (February 17), films for all ages at the Virginia Beach branch are "George to the Rescue" and "Nature Next Door," at 11 a.m. Films at the Windsor Woods Branch are "12 Dancing Princesses," "Wind in the Willows" and "Teddy Bear's Balloon Trip," starting at 2 p.m.

Little Theatre holds tryouts

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach will hold tryouts for "Booby," a comic suspense story, on Sunday, February 18, and Monday, February 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the theatre, 24th Street and Barbours Drive.

Chichi Lively will direct. A cast of four men and four women is needed, with emphasis on one middle-aged woman for the "little" role.

Dance auditions rescheduled

The Virginia Beach Civic Ballet has rescheduled auditions for apprentice, junior and senior level dancers on Saturday, February 17, at 3 p.m. at 1120 First Colonial Road.

Auditions originally scheduled for February 10 were postponed because of the snow. All area ballet students are eligible to participate. Additional information may be obtained by calling 425-5316.

Mrs. Penington achieves so easily.

The set construction crew, under the direction of Josh Sherman, did a fantastic job on the reversible sets for the two-scene play.

They obviously labored long and hard and their efforts were rewarded when the scenes were changed with minor effort and only a few seconds' time during stage blackouts.

Mary Chase's comedy is just as enjoyable now as when Jimmy Stewart did it years ago. Its observations on human behavior will never be outdated. The Virginia Beach Little Theatre's production of "Harvey" is good fun for audiences of any day or age. It will be performed on weekends, through February 24.

Donna Hendrick

'Harvey's' still a howl, despite an almost 'invisible' audience

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach presented "Harvey," that ageless comedy about a giant invisible rabbit, to an almost invisible opening night audience last Friday.

Despite the very small turnout, the cast members forged ahead and hardly seemed to notice the empty seats facing the stage. "Harvey" is still a howl, with or without a large audience.

Horace "Mac" McManus directed the play and starred in it as Elwood P. Dowd, the soft-spoken crackpot with the invisible furry friend. McManus performed well in both capacities and was especially believable when he helped Harvey into a chair, helped Harvey with his coat or held a door open for him. One could almost swear that giant white rabbit was standing on the stage with the other players.

Anne Penington was marvelous as Veta Louise, Elwood's long-suffering sister. Mrs. Penington has a flair for comedy that assures laughs, and her various expressions—especially the bug-eyed, astounded look—kept the small audience howling.

Bob Beard, a local theatre regular, was just fine as the over-eager cigar-smoking medical assistant who was fond of manhandling the patients. Harry Marshall is very decorative as Nurse Kelly. Unfortunately, she and Bruce Leibold as Dr. Sanderson both have the same problem: They are stiff and unbelievable and don't seem quite at ease on the stage.

John W. Fox is perfect as Dr. Chumley, the head of the rest home who tries to commit Elwood P. Fox doesn't even have to open his mouth to be funny, he just IS funny.

Rebecca MacFarlane as Elwood's niece, Myrtle Mae, is a newcomer to Little Theatre and it shows, especially in her many scenes with Mrs. Penington. Perhaps more on-stage experience will give her the polish and professionalism

Dance films to be shown

Two films about dance will be presented by the Academy of the Virginia Beach Ballet, 1120 First Colonial Road, Saturday, at 12:30 p.m.

The movies are "Choreographer at Work," in which John Butler discusses rhythm design and dramatic scenes which the choreographer must control, and "Language of Dance," with Jose Limon explaining the importance of emotion to the dance.

The films are offered free of charge to all area dance students. Additional information may be obtained by calling 425-5316.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PROPOSED HAMPTON ROADS CROSSING INTERSTATE ROUTE 664

A Local Public Hearing will be held by representatives of the Virginia Department of Highways on consecutive nights, beginning at 7:00 p.m. on March 13, 1973, in the "Churchland High School Auditorium" located at 5611 High Street West in Portsmouth, and continuing on March 14, 1973, at 7:00 p.m. in the Hampton High School located at 1491 West Queen Street in Hampton, for the purpose of considering the proposed location in Interstate Route 664 from the Proposed Western Freeway in Portsmouth of the proposed location in Interstate Route 664 in Hampton (near the Hampton Roads Coliseum). This project is located in the Cities of Chesapeake, Nansemond, Portsmouth, Newport News and Hampton.

The same information will be presented at each of the above mentioned locations. The reason for the selection of two hearing sites is to afford all interested parties an opportunity to attend the most convenient location and present to the Department their comments and suggestions relative to the proposed highway improvement.

Plans, drawings, a draft environmental impact statement and other information are available for public review and copying in the Department of Highways Central Office located at 1221 East Broad Street in Richmond, in its District and Resident Offices located on Route 461 just north of Suffolk, and in other Resident Offices which are located at the intersection of Routes 13 and 146 in the City of Chesapeake and on Route 415 (Lambert Road) just west of Williamsburg. This material is also available in the offices of the Southeastern Virginia and Peninsula Planning District Commissions, the City Manager for Nansemond, the City Engineer for Portsmouth and the Directors of Public Works for the Cities of Norfolk, Chesapeake, Newport News and Hampton.

In addition to the availability of information at the above mentioned locations, there will be a public information booth in the lobby of the Newport News City Hall located at Washington Avenue and 25th Street in Newport News, and an office trailer will be placed in the Churchland Shopping Center located on Churchland Boulevard in Portsmouth. These facilities will be operational from March 8th thru March 14th. A representative of the Department will be available with layouts and other supporting data between the hours of 12:00 noon and 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday. They will be closed on Sunday, March 11, 1973.

Written statements and other exhibits relative to the proposed project may be presented in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the hearing. Such written statements and exhibits may also be submitted to the Department of Highways at any time within ten days after the public hearing.

At this location public hearing, relocation assistance programs will also be discussed.

Whitehurst co-sponsors veterans pension bill

A bill to offset losses in Veterans pensions caused by the 1972 Social Security increase has been co-sponsored in the House of Representatives by Second District Congressman G. William Whitehurst. The bill, H.R. 2687, increases the pension base for all veterans by $600.

The bill allows Veterans who were either forced off the end of the earnings scale, or were placed in a lower benefit category, to continue receiving the level of pension benefits received prior to the 1972 Social Security increase.

Rotary to present educational awards

The Rotary Club of Princess Anne is seeking young men and women as candidates for Rotary Foundation educational awards for study abroad in 1974-75.

Four types of educational awards are offered by the Foundation: Graduate Fellowships, for those between the ages of 20 and 28, with a Bachelor's degree or equivalent; Undergraduate Scholarships, for those 18 to 24 with a minimum of two years of university level work but without a Bachelor's degree; Technical Training Awards, for those 21 to 35 with a secondary education and at least two years' working experience; and Teachers Awards for those 25 to 50 who have been engaged as fulltime teachers of the mentally, physically or educationally handicapped for at least two years at the time of application.

Each award covers round-trip transportation, educational and living expenses for one academic year, and, if necessary, funds for intensive language training. The Rotary Foundation is a non-profit organization supported by contributions from Rotarians and Rotary Clubs in

Moore's honors top '72 salesmen

Robert Dunphy, of Virginia Beach, has been named Outstanding Salesman for 1972 by Moore's Supermarkets of Lumber and Building Materials. He was honored recently at a banquet held in Roanoke and received a special gold Palm Beach blazer. He has been with the Moore's chain since April, 1970.

Also named were N.T. Flemming of Chesapeake and Kenneth Smith of Norfolk.

Body buried for decades

The body of a man found last week in the Baycliff residential area apparently had been in the ground 30 to 50 years, according to the State Medical Examiner's Office.

Dr. C.S. Springate, assistant examiner, said this assumption was based on a label inside a coat the body was clothed in. Springate said the label was used by a chain store which went out of business in the early 1900's. He added it appears the man died of natural causes and was given a routine burial.

Except for most of the skull missing, Springate added, the body was relatively well preserved. He attributed this some of the chemicals, or perhaps mild acids, which the ground contains.

149 different countries. Since 1947, the Foundation has awarded more than $14 million for its various programs, and more than 5,000 young men and women have gone to countries other than their own for a year of study.

Further information about these awards is available from Andrew M. McRone, P.O. Box 3127, Norfolk, Virginia 13514. The application deadline is 15 March, 1973.

Beach company ordered to comply with safety laws

The U.S. District Court of Norfolk has ordered the A.G. Pinkston Co., of 5003 Holland Road, Virginia Beach, to comply with U.S. Department of Labor safety regulations governing ditching.

The court issued a restraining order at the request of the department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) requiring the Pinkston Co. to observe the federal ditching safety regulations on its storm sewer installation project in the Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk and Virginia Beach areas.

The restraining order is in effect pending an appeal by the Pinkston Co. to the Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

The Protector is small and compact.

Beach men organize new, business of saving lives

Marketex International of Tidewater is a new aggressive group of local young men in the unusual business of saving lives.

Since organizing in October, Marketex has grown from a nucleus of two well-known Virginia Beach residents, dentist Donald Kern and insurance agent Jack Jennings, to 10 highly motivated young men whose primary mission is informing Tidewater families of the many dangers of home fires, explaining how to minimize the chances of having such a fire, and demonstrating an economical fire detection system called the Protector that will insure the family's being alerted in ample time to leave the dwelling safely should fire strike.

"We know for a fact that the Protector is the finest self-contained fire detection system available anywhere at any price," said Jennings.

THE BIBLE SAYS

Question: What Are The Bible Qualifications For The Office Of Arch Bishop?

ANSWER: NONE! The office of "arch bishop" isn't found in the Bible. While the Bible has everything pertaining to life and godliness (1 Pet. 1:3), it doesn't have anything that pertains to the office of "arch bishop". The Bible does speak of the office of "bishop" and the qualifications are given in 1 Tim. 3:1-7. This office is the same as "elder" and "pastor" (Titus 1:5-9). The function of this office is to "shepherd the flock" (Acts 20:28) and is limited to the local congregation where the bishop is a member (1 Pet. 5:1-4). NEVER do we read of a "bishop" bishop over any congregation in the New Testament. We do however read of a plurality of qualified men being set over each church (Acts 14:23). Those who "oversee the flock" (bishops) are sometimes called "pastors" (1 Tim. 3:1-4), but "pastors" should never be confused with "evangelists" as they are two separate offices (Eph. 4:11). Yes, the office of "bishop" pertains to life and godliness. It is recorded in God's word.

The offices of church "president," "pastor," "cardinal," "arch bishop," "minister," "educational director," "Sunday School Superintendent," "youth minister," "associate minister," and any of the other offices that the fertile minds of worldly men have been able to devise are entirely and purely of man's invention. Since these offices are not included in the book that has everything that pertains to life and godliness, it follows that the function of and qualifications for these offices must likewise pertain to something other than life and godliness. If men invented these offices (and they did) then men have set the qualifications for those who aspire to hold them. Frankly, I'd rather be an elder (1 Tim. 3:1-7) of a church of 25 souls in keeping with Bible teachings, than to be an "arch bishop" over 2,000 congregations in an organization teaching for commandments the doctrine of man (Mark 16:7). I believe my status with the Lord is measured by his word, not by all the praise cheaped on me by those who invent offices unto themselves in the name of the Lord (1 Cor. 4:6).

Citizens to have voice in development of city

By DONNA HENDRICK

The City of Virginia Beach wants to find out from the citizens exactly what kind of city they would like to have, according to Charles Carrington, the city's director of planning.

Carrington told the members of the Virginia Beach Development Council Tuesday that the city will start a major goals program soon to determine what the people want in Virginia Beach.

After ascertaining what the people want, the city government will start an intensive long-range program of implementing the goals indicated by the public.

"I'm a professional planner," Carrington said, "but I can't plan a city until I know what kind of city we want. If I were an architect and you told me to build a house, I couldn't build it until you told me how many bedrooms you wanted, whether it would be one story or two, and other guidelines.

"Planning is what we don't have now. This is what we're

He said that an orderly progression plan would first set reasonable goals which could be accomplished in 10 to 20 years. The goals would be defined through a statement of objectives or development plan which could be implemented in 10 to 15 years. A comprehensive plan of strategies, which could be put into effect in three to five years, would ascertain priorities. These priorities would be defined in an annual development plan.

"Of course, all of these plans, both long-term and short-range, must be flexible," Carrington said. "This project will be launched at mid or early summer as the city manager's plan."

Carrington emphasized that the major endeavor at this time will be to determine what kind of city the citizens want.

To find out, Carrington proposed using either a citizens committee or a questionnaire or both to define citizen goals to city officials.

The first step in establishing a long-range planning guide would be the preparation of a State of the City report. Carrington said that the report would be compiled in the near future and would indicate the current status of all elements in the community goals program.

Carrington also said that Virginia Beach has been in contact with other cities around the country which already have long-range goals programs.

"We are not stealing goals or plans from these other cities, but rather looking at how they approached the problem," he said. "We want to learn from their mistakes."

Carrington pointed out that the most important element of the new goal plan is personal contact between the people and their city government. He also said that all (aspects) of the city—recreation, transportation, employment, education, industrial development—would be considered in planning long-range goals.

Water: another contract offered Norfolk

Virginia Beach City Manager Roger M. Scott said Wednesday he has offered Norfolk City Manager G. Robert House, Jr., a new water contract proposal which should warrant that city's approval.

In outlining the contract Wednesday Scott said it "...meets all three of Norfolk's previous stipulations. One, to allow them to maintain their present level of income; two, provides a 20-year contract; and three, places no additional burden on Norfolk taxpayers or water users for the system to meet Beach needs."

Scott added, "Specifically we would pay Norfolk 42-cents per thousand gallons for the first six billion gallons of water annually, 36-cents per thousand gallons for the next eight billion gallons annually, and 25-cents per thousand gallons for all over 14 billion gallons annually."

"This would guarantee Norfolk," Scott continued, "sufficient money to make the desired $30 million improvements to their system, and interest costs which would include another $15 million. This rate structure over the 20-year period will supply Norfolk enough money to cover all these costs."

Scott said, "This contract, we believe, also meets the goals set up by Virginia Beach for these negotiations. To acquire an adequate water supply, to retain the charges now made by Norfolk to Virginia Beach citizens as a maximum charge to our customers, to create no major financial deficit for Virginia Beach, and to acquire our own distribution system."

"We think this is a contract offer that is both good for Norfolk and Virginia Beach."

Scott summarized the proposal with, "We think this is a contract offer that is both good for Norfolk and Virginia Beach, and we certainly hope Norfolk will find it acceptable."

The proposal was delivered to House Wednesday following a two-hour closed-door executive session on the water contract negotiations by Virginia Beach City Council Tuesday night.

Army renews

Rudee Inlet interest

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has again indicated plans to assume responsibility for creation, and maintenance, of a navigable channel at Rudee Inlet. The indication is contained in the release of a preliminary environmental impact statement for construction of a breakwater at the inlet.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Ayres, Norfolk District Engineer, said, "The navigation improvement still in the study stage will consist of a 600-foot-long rubble mound breakwater, and a channel 90-feet-wide, 3-700-feet-long and 10-feet-deep at the Virginia Beach Inlet."

Ayres also indicated, "Environmental impact of the project as spelled out in the preliminary statement includes covering 2.6 acres of the inlet's sandy bottom with breakwater, excavation of 150,000 cubic yards of sandy material from

Beach teams eliminated

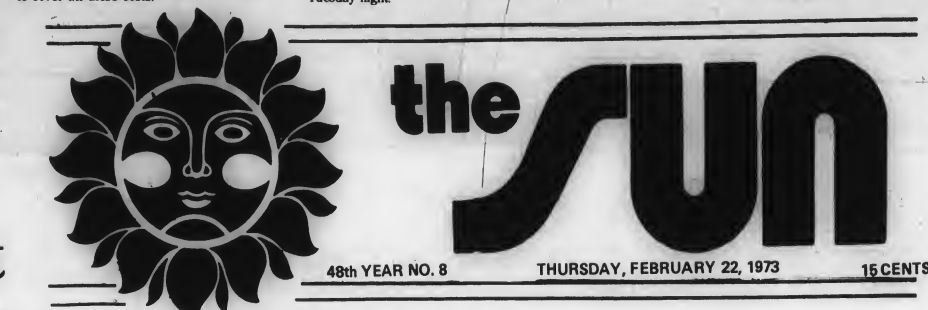

Bayside, Cox, and Princess Anne were eliminated in the opening round of the Eastern District Basketball Tournament Tuesday night, thus eliminating Virginia Beach in future tournament play this season.

Bayside did not let Booker T. Washington win easily. The Marlins led through most of the first quarter, and then tried a comeback attempt in the final quarter and fell nine points short, the Bookers winning 76-65. Jim Goffigan tied Booker T.'s Wilson Washington for game scoring honors with 27 points. Also in double figures for Bayside were Don Harold, 13 points, and Elton Gross, with 14.

Maury outscored Cox every period and won 91-61, although their big margin was not opened up until the final quarter. Three Falcons finished in double figures, led by Randy Robinson's 25 tallies. Mike Jewell scored 15 points, and Brooks Williams had 10.

Granby stopped Princess Anne's title hopes 65-62. The Comets led Princess Anne 22-8 at the end of the first quarter but the determined Cavaliers took over the lead in the third period. The rest of the game was close, and Granby finally won it on the four line in the closing minutes as the Cavaliers had to foul to get the ball away from a Granby stall. Mike Ange led all game scorers with 23 points. George Purdin and John Paden also finished in the double-figure column with 10 points each.

New industry comes to Beach

A new industry is coming to Virginia Beach. Richard Hadden, president of Cooper Split Roller Bearing Corp., U.S.A., announced that his company will locate in the Airport Industrial Park.

People's Bank of Virginia Beach and the Department of Economic Development, Industrial Development Division of the City of Virginia Beach, were instrumental in getting the corporation to consider Virginia Beach as the site for the relocation of its United States operation. The company will be moved here from Pittsburgh.

Cooper Split Roller Bearing Corp. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Cooper Roller Bearing Company, Ltd. of Kings Lynn, England. The company also has another subsidiary in Canada.

People's Bank of Virginia Beach arranged the financing for the construction of the company's plant and facilities in the Airport Industrial Park. People's Bank will also handle the firm's international banking requirements.

"The sales and employment generated by this operation will make a significant contribution to our city's economic growth," said K. James Crouch, Jr., executive vice president of People's Bank.

The Department of Economic Development, through Walter N. Alford, coordinator of the Industrial Development Division, worked with the new company to provide plant and site location data. The Development Authority realized the potential of having the company locate here and provided a site of the company's choice.

"We are pleased with Mr. Hadden's decision to locate here," said Jim DeBellis, director of the Department of Economic Development. "Our Industrial Development has worked for the past eight months on this project following an inquiry through our advertising program."

"Mr. Ernest Turnbull, executive vice president of Lomas & Nettleton Company, whose interest in this project invited them to our city, is an example of how private citizens can help our economic development."

Cooper Split Roller Bearing Corp. chose Virginia as the site of its new plant because of the advantages offered in taxes, transportation, labor and port facilities. Tidewater ports will offer a medium for international production and sales.

Several significant historic connotations come from the locating of the company in Virginia Beach. The parent company is located in the County of Norfolk, England, while the location of its Virginia Beach company will be adjacent to the Norfolk Regional Airport.

Hadden also pointed out that Adam Thoroughgood, builder of the historic Thoroughgood House in Virginia Beach, was born and raised in Kings Lynn, England, home of the parent company.

Components of the roller bearing are manufactured in Kings Lynn and will be assembled at the Virginia Beach plant for distribution and installation. The split feature of the anti-friction roller bearing is its main advantage. It is used primarily by marine and heavy industry. The corporation distributes and services bearing sizes ranging from 3-16" to 48" bore, with a capability up to 108" bore.

The company's territory covers the United States, Canada and areas of Mexico, Central and South America and the Caribbean.

Top management officials with the U.S.A. company include William O. Bertell, treasurer; Loyal H. Gregg, secretary; Joseph H. Edmunds, sales manager, and Kenneth O. Fraser, manager of technical sales and services.

Area welcomes home four POWs

--- emotional reunions for first arrivals

By LES LEHIGH

As the clock inside Building LP-1 at Norfolk NAS showed midnight last Tuesday night a steady rain, which had fallen nearly all night, ended in a prelude to the return of enemy held American Prisoners of War.

Captains Jeremiah A. Denton, Jr., and James A. Mulligan, Jr., both of Virginia Beach, along with Lt. Cmdr. Paul E. Galanti, of Richmond, were returning to their loved ones after years of confinement.

About 12:30 a.m. Wednesday a crowd of well wishers began gathering to take up a two hour vigil in the damp, wind-chilled night air to witness the men's reunion with their families.

As the group grew larger they began chatting quietly with each other, and displaying handmade banners of greetings for the returning men and flags to demonstrate their patriotism.

The first significant sign that the long years of anxiety-filled waiting were ending was the appearance of a fleet of chaffeur-driven cars which would transport the returning POWs and their families to quarters especially prepared for them at Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

This was shortly followed by sealing off LP-1's main entrance as a security area, a signal that next of kin were secretly being hosted nearby to await the reunion.

Moments before the arrival of the plane carrying Denton, Mulligan, and Galanti—the swarming crowd began singing their feelings of patriotism and joy. Their offerings included selections such as "God Bless America," "America: The Beautiful," "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The giant Military Airlift Command C-9 jet, appropriately named "The Nightingale", first appeared as a bright star slowly descending from the heavily overcast sky. Well wishers burst forth with cheers and applause as the plane began taking shape as landing lights were turned on. The sounds of joy grew louder as "The Nightingale" landed at 2:35 a.m.

As the plane taxied into position POW loved ones emerged from LP-1 and were met by a salute of cheers and applause as they took their --- wives discuss husbands' reaction to social change

The wives of three former POWs who returned home last Wednesday morning say their husbands are most concerned with reestablishing personal relationships with their families, changes in attitudes of the Catholic Church, staggering increases in drug use, and growing dissension among the American people.

This opinion was expressed last Friday by Jane Denton, Louise Mulligan and Phyllis Galanti only two days after being reunited with their husbands following separations of some seven years.

Captains Jeremiah A. Denton, Jr., and James A. Mulligan, Jr., both of Virginia Beach, as well as Lt. Cmdr. Paul E. Galanti of Richmond were reunited with their families after being confined in Vietnamese prison camps.

When asked what changes in the American way of life during the past seven years captured the attention of their husbands Mrs. Mulligan replied, "The Catholic Church has been a big shock." She apparently was referring to the Church's change in attitude towards acceptance of practicing birth control, as well as inter-faith marriages, and that Heaven is open to all religious faiths. "I guess," she added, "he's ready to accept it now."

Mrs. Denton said, "There are so many changes it would be hard to distinguish one. He is very concerned about the drug problems here. He was disappointed when he learned of it."

Mrs. Galanti described her husband's reactions by saying, "The overwhelming thing for Paul is just the fact to be free. He was quite taken back with women's liberation. I've become more aggressive. I'm pleased to say he goes along with it now."

Concerning Mulligan's feelings his wife Louise said, "He would like to see this country unite again. If it is united through the return of these prisoners then so be it. Now is the time for everyone to come together again, we live in a great country."

On the point of reestablishing family relationships Mrs. Denton said this was the most important topic of discussion. She added, "I don't think we will have any problems. What amazes me so much is how sensitive he is to the children. He goes right down the line and seems to say exactly what they want to hear."

This personal relationship perhaps was of most concern to Phyllis Galanti. While she and Galanti have been married nine years, he spent the last seven of these in a POW camp. When asked how she viewed her marriage she said, "It's so much better now than if we had been together those nine years. I'm not even going to regret the time we have missed together."

As far as making plans for the future Louise Mulligan said, "We've just been too preoccupied establishing our family relationship again. We both feel it's important he reestablish his role."

Saturday was Tschudy

"Remember why we were away so long, and then we'll have a better America."

This statement from Lt. Cmdr. William M. Tschudy illustrates his hope that the time former American Prisoners of War spent in prison camps would be the meaningful.

Tschudy issued the remark as he arrived last Saturday night at Norfolk NAS to be reunited with his family, after spending the last seven-and-a-half years in confinement in North Vietnam.

As he caught his first homecoming glimpse of his wife, Jane, and their son, Michael, Tschudy said, "Tonight as I see my wife over here and my son, whom I've never seen practically, my heart is filled with joy."

"But at the same time it's a little heavy, because there are some men who will never come back. They sacrificed themselves that other people could be free."

As he spoke briefly to several hundred people who gathered in windy, subfreezing weather to welcome him Tschudy expressed his joy of the moment. He said, "It's a real pleasure to be here tonight, you don't know what a pleasure it is."

Referring briefly to the time he and the others spent in captivity Tschudy said, "I guess it was our faith in God, our trust in our president, and probably most of all it was our faith in you, the American people, that brought us through

Variable Beach climate creates soil problems

By HELEN CRIST
Have you noticed the leaves of your boxwoods turning a yellowish-orange lately? We did, so a call to Randy Jackson, the new VPI Extension horticulturist, was in order.

"Be down this afternoon to take a look," said Randy, 26. He did just that - came down, snipped a leaf or two to take back for further analysis.

That's the kind of interested service the public receives from the VPI personnel.

And while Randy has a very tight schedule, and can't always respond so quickly to phone calls for help and information, he does take a personal interest in all horticulture problems.

An affinity for things of the soil would come naturally to the former farm boy, raised on 250 acres back in Pleasantville, Indiana.

"It's a small community," Randy said, "maybe 75 to 100 people. There were 17 in our graduating class and we had the same teachers that our parents did."

Randy earned a B.S. degree from Purdue University, majoring in horticulture. He was in the US Navy four years, aboard the USS Barney, with a home port in Norfolk.

"I was lucky - I love to travel, and we had three cruises to the Mediterranean."

He remained in the area to accept the position with VPI Extension in a field that he knows and loves - horticulture.

He compares the climate of his native Indiana with that of Tidewater. "You have many more problems here with the soil because of the variable climate."

days of warm weather, the plants will bud, the bulbs start to grow. Then along comes a frost, and it may not kill the plants, but you'll get leaf burn, bud drop."

In fact, at Aragona Village, where Randy spoke last week to a garden club, he said he noticed that narcissus bulbs were in bloom, and this in spite of the freezing weather.

"The heat builds up at the foundation of a house, where most homes have a great deal of mulch in the flower beds. The house reflects the heat and the plants begin to grow."

This is unfortunate, but a result of the variable climate. He recommended removing dead debris from plants and trees, and clearing areas where there's a heavy accumulation of leaves.

"They can be a great source of spreading fungus. Of course, it's best to clean up the leaves in the Fall and not let them accumulate," he said.

Senior Citizens Club on the "Care of House Plants."

"I advise everyone to learn all they can about their plants. Get a book from the library. The greatest fault is underwatering and overwatering."

For instance, the zebra plant requires a high degree of humidity, he said. There should be about 2 inches of gravel in the bottom of the container and the water placed over the gravel.

Randy also talked to some 250 students at Friends School, advising them to plant trees as a combatant to pollution.

"The trees absorb the carbon dioxide and give off oxygen," he said. This talk to the students was in connection with Arbor Day. "By the way," we asked Randy, "when is Arbor Day? Everyone seems to have a different opinion."

Truck haul reconsidered for beach replenishment

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission Tuesday decided to launch a program of truck hauling sand to build up resort strip beaches for the fast approaching tourist season.

Commissioners decided to attempt to haul sand from the Rudee Inlet sandtrap to replenish the northern end of the beach between 40th and 50th Streets. The sand would be removed from the sandtrap through a drag line operation.

It was decided to renegotiate competitive bids of nearly 11 months ago on such a project, to determine if the work could now be done at the same price offered in bids at that time. The low bid received then quoted a price of $2.09 per cubic yards of material. It has been estimated that some 10,000 cubic yards of material could be obtained through this type operation.

The Commission also decided to meet this morning with developer F. Wayne McLeskey in an attempt to obtain his permission to truck haul additional sand from a Lynnhaven site owned by him.

Asst. City Manager George Hanbury told the Commission McLeskey is reluctant to release any sand placed on his property through dredging operations by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

According to Hanbury McLeskey's reluctance results from the recent placement of some 30,000 cubic yards of material on his property above the 35,000 cubic yards agreed to in his offering the spoil area.

McLeskey reportedly now claims the sand belongs to him, and he will not release any sand unless agreed is made to replace the same amount removed.

Hanbury also told the Commission of the dedication of some 20 to 30 acres of land adjacent to the Eureka Brick site as an additional source of material for beach material.

It has been estimated that these combined sources would yield approximately 1 million cubic yards of material for beach replenishment.

Best showrooms

Best Products Company, Inc., which operates a showroom in Virginia Beach in addition to 14 other showrooms, has announced plans to open two new showrooms in Cleveland, one in Galveston, Texas, and another in Amarillo, Texas.

Kindergarten may start in fall

The Virginia Beach city schools will start offering kindergarten classes in the fall of this year if the school system can get the proper funding. E.E. Brickell, superintendent of schools, told School Board members at the board's Tuesday meeting.

In a report on the status of pending legislation affecting the schools, Brickell said that a budget bill now in the House provides for equitable funding of kindergarten to the same degree that other grade levels are funded.

"We had planned to get kindergarten going in 1974," Brickell said. "And we even had a crash program in which we could begin kindergarten in 1973."

"But if we are able to get full funding, we should proceed immediately with 1973," Brickell continued. "If we have to do it to take advantage of funding, we will for 1973," he said. Brickell also told the board that it might cost as much as $2.5 million to start kindergarten classes this year.

EXAMINATION EXEMPTION
In other business, the board received a report from Brickell on a survey the schools conducted regarding senior honor students' exemption from final exams. The practice has been in effect for two years. The "informal and unscientific survey" indicated that most senior teachers and counselors were in favor of continuing the practice.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT
Brickell also reported on several bills currently in the state legislature. They included legislation on school bus safety, health requirements for bus drivers, retaining legal counsel and school funding.

APPEALS COMMITTEE
The board approved the appointment of a Special Education Local Appeals Committee as an appellate body to the Special Education Advisory Committee. Brickell said that the new committee would review decisions to include or exempt certain children in the schools' special education program.

KELLAM HIGH DRAINAGE
The city engineering staff presented a proposal to correct a drainage problem on the grounds behind Kellam High School. The engineer's office said that 3,000 feet of ditches needed to be redug and regraded to correct a flooding problem which has existed for some time. Also, additional parking spaces would be provided for students. The board approved the proposal for the project, which was not to exceed $15,000.

SERVICE AWARDS
Former school board members Spencer L. Lott and Dr. Charles P. Fletcher were awarded Distinguished Service Certificates for their years on the board. City Council resolutions honoring the two former members were also read. Lott served on the board for nine years and Fletcher for six.

SPECIAL LEAVE
The board granted special leave of absence to Thomas E. Pinelli, chairman of the Industrial Arts Department at Bayside Junior High School, to accept a one-year position with NASA as an education advisor with the Langley Research Center in Hampton. Pinelli will be assigned to the office of public affairs and educational programs at the center. He has been a teacher in Virginia Beach for three years.

What's in a new logo?

When it's for Virginia Beach Federal there's a whole lot. That's why we're wearing a bright new design (a logo in advertising jargon.)

Whenever you see our new VBF emblem displayed, think of it as a greeting from your Very Best Friends in the savings and loan industry.

Wetlands Board OK's Lake Rudee dredging

The City's plan to dredge an access channel through Lake Rudee to the Eureka Brick Site apparently cleared its last hurdle Tuesday. The Virginia Beach Wetlands Board approved the plan, on grounds of exemption from the federal Wetlands Act under the "grandfather clause" of the law.

The plan calls for the dredging of approximately 147,000 cubic yards of material for replenishment of the resort strip beach between 8th and 17th Streets. It is anticipated the project will be completed by July 1st. Cost is estimated at $60,000.

Board Chairman Rev. Robert B. Newland pointed out the deciding factor in considering the application's exemption was whether detailed plans of the project had been filed prior to the July 1, 1972 enactment of the Wetlands Act.

This fact was clarified by Asst. City Engineer Art Berger who presented the Board with an engineering copy of the plan as outlined by the City in July 1971.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science declined to endorse the proposed method of beach nourishment. VIMS representative Mark Luttrell said they were of the opinion there is "...little likelihood of this material remaining on the beach, but probably would be washed away."

Beach choir sings for Baptist rally

Guest speaker will be Owen Cooper, president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Luttrell also said tests showed the material in the Lake Rudee channel and the Eureka Site is smaller in size. He anticipated a problem of retaining this finer sand after being placed on larger sand on the beach.

Berger strengthened urgency to approve the plan by saying this channel and the Eureka Site "...are the only sand sources available to us. Storms of the past 18 months have severely damaged the beach. We have exhausted the Owl's Creek source, and by 1 July we will need an additional source of material."

Berger also explored the possibility of finding suitable sources elsewhere by saying, "It appears it would be three years to acquire and develop other sources. During this period there would be no beach left."

Boardmember Wesley D. Payne motioned approval of the plan on grounds "...that city engineering plans of July 7, 1971, and City Council's resolution of June 26, 1972 (which listed 12 projects in the City's Master Dredging Plan) qualifies the application for exemption under the grandfather clause of the Wetlands Act."

The plan was approved by a vote of 4 to 0. Boardmember Mrs. Barbara Racine abstained from voting.

Squadron wins award

Fighter Squadron 33 was presented a Meritorious Unit Commendation award by the Secretary of the Navy recently in ceremonies held in Hangar 200 at the Naval Air Station, Oceana.

The award was presented to VF-33's squadron commander, Cmdr. F.G. Staudenmayer, by Cmdr. W.F. Meyer, commander of Attack Carrier Air Wing Seven.

The squadron was cited for meritorious performance in establishing a sustained fighter squadron accident free aviation record and for contributing greatly to the naval aviation readiness posture.

Fighter Squadron 33 is a part of Carrier Air Wing Seven and is due to deploy on the USS Independence later this year.

Quiet thoughts

Overwhelmed by feelings of gratitude and relief, the American people last week joined in a celebration of life.

Some cried, some screamed some laughed hysterically, as the first released prisoners stepped off the aircraft. At least one, stunned by the momentous significance and dazed by the depth of awareness was frozen into quiet thought.

Amazed that some had survived such conditions for so long; proud that they could salute and believe; grateful that there would be no more like them; relieved that the fear could be forgotten.

Angry that such a war could be possible; bitter that so many suffered; frustrated that my power was so limited; frightened that like could be so tenuous.

A celebration of life for some; a commemoration of death for some.

And for others, another moment added to the continuum of uncertainty.

Some 50,000 Americans have died in the last decade of the Vietnam War; 143 have been released from prisoner of war camps. But over 1300 are missing in action.

The fate of over 1300 men is unknown. Do we grieve their death? Do we pray for their life? Do we hope for their return? Do we celebrate or commemorate—or do we just wait?

I want to be able to rejoice in this current celebration of life. I want to mourn the deaths of so many. But stunned by the momentous significance and dazed by the depth of awareness, I am frozen into quiet thought.

My mind and my feelings cannot comprehend the existence of the families and friends of those young men listed by the government as missing in action. Those whose emotions must soar into the heights of the clouds at one moment, only to crash and be drowned in wells of despair the next.

So I sit. I try not to be bitter. Quietly, I too, am overwhelmed by the enormity of a war.

Find its place

After two city appropriations had been approved recently for cultural groups—$3,200 to the City Chorus (in lieu of prior loan) and $3,000 to the Civic Orchestra—Mayor Robert Cromwell asked City Manager Roger Scott what had become of the Arts and Humanities Commission proposed by the Virginia Beach Development Council. One of the functions of this commission would be to handle such requests, and determine the needs, for recommendations to council.

Mr. Scott explained that some of the larger cultural groups seemed hesitant to support the commission following the initial public forum last February. He said it was possible the commission's responsibilities might be absorbed by the Chamber of Commerce.

The Arts and Humanities Commission was and is a sound proposal. But it hasn't had a fighting chance. Loud voices apparently blocked it from coming before council, shifted it under the auspices of the Chamber; a way of getting a good idea off the books.

Congratulations to Mayor Robert Cromwell for asking that the Arts and Humanities Commission proposal be placed on next week's City Council agenda. The cultural development of this city is not the responsibility of the chamber; placing it there is not an acceptable compromise.

There may be loud voices in the large groups. But the many voices of the thousands who participate in the numerous smaller groups can be equally loud. Let them now be heard. This city desperately needs a commission to bring together its cultural efforts.

But when?

"Everybody loves somebody sometime!" moans Dean Martin almost weekly during his television show. Now, it seems that his theme has found a few singers in the governmental confines of Virginia Beach.

Something for everybody. Such is the most recent proposal coming from the City Manager's Office regarding the usage of money from the 1972 Bond Issue, the 1972 Revenue Sharing windfall, and the 1973 Bond Issue.

A cursory reading of the most recent report concerning recreational use for part of the millions would lead one to believe that the tennis complex and the community center will soon be under construction.

Eventually they may be. Later this year, 1974, 1975, or maybe even later. In Assistant City Manager George Hanbury's latest recommendations, on February 6th, there is a "provision for tennis facilities" and a budgeted $50,000 item "to pay for the plans and specifications for the construction of a community center." The cost of the tennis facilities were not budgeted.

The tennis facilities "will appear in the 1973 Revenue Sharing recommendations for the first quarter, which will be in April 1973." The community center is contingent upon the approval of the 1973 Charter Bond Issue, a $7 million issue which has not been authorized by City Council.

It looks like eventually the citizens of Virginia Beach will have the recreational facilities they need. When they will have them operable may be another matter.

SPEAKS UP ON REASSESSMENT:

The Washington's Birthday holiday Monday played havoc with the mailed response to the current question. But enough conversation is going around about the city's property reassessment that we feel sure readers want to be heard. Now's the time.

Fr our legislators

REPORT FROM SENATOR JOE CANADA

Before summarizing legislative action taken last week by the General Assembly, I would like to express my sincere admiration and gratitude to the returning prisoners of War and their families in Virginia Beach for their insatiable courage in the face of such difficult circumstances which they have endured over the past years. My colleagues in the House and Senate agree that the statements made by Captain Jeremiah Clarke, Jr. and Captain James Mulligan upon their arrival at Detention Air Force Base were the most moving that I have ever heard. We continue to hope for the safe return of all of our Prisoners of War and men missing in action.

The Senate last week approved a revised Sunday Blue Law which legalizes the unrestricted sale of food on Sunday. The bill, passed last Wednesday, does not include the profits to charity clause, whereby operators donate a percentage of their Sunday income to charity. An amendment attached to the bill provides for the protection of those who do not wish to work on Sunday by making it a misdemeanor for any food store operator to fire employees who refuse to work on Sunday.

The Bingo Bill was passed in the House last week by a 44-24 vote. The bill makes it possible for churches and certain other non-profit organizations to sponsor bingo and raffles, with an annual permit from their Boards of Supervisors. The bill is now in the General Laws Committee of the Senate.

Also passed in the House of Delegates last week was the huge 320 page bill which reorganizes Virginia's environmental agencies under a new section called the Department of Conservation, Development and Natural Resources. The bill, originally 404 pages, was introduced by Delegate Lewis McMurran, Jr. of Newport News.

The 4 environmental divisions that would be consolidated under the one "umbrella" department include:

The Division of Environmental Quality, composed of the present Air and Water Control Boards;

The Division of Natural Resources, composed of the present Department of Conservation and Economic Development;

The Division of Game and Inland Fisheries; and

The Division of Marine Resources Commission.

The overall department would be headed by a Commissioner to be appointed by the Governor and approved by the General Assembly. I think that the outcome of this bill is of great consequence to us in Virginia Beach because of the present concerns that we have with controlling beach erosion and water pollution.

In other legislative action last week at the Capitol: Governor Holton signed into law a bill restoring the 15 years 8 months age at which a young person is eligible to get a learner's permit for driving.

Two bills authorizing loans to college students must undergo court tests for constitutionality. One offers loans to Virginians enrolling in private colleges, and the other, based on need, would provide loans for students attending either private or public institutions. Both include payback features requiring recipients to work or live in the State for stipulated periods.

The House of Delegates last week passed House Bill 1848 adding teeth to current laws regarding welfare abuses. In the past year, there was a case where an individual had violated welfare regulations by not reporting extra sources of income to the Welfare Department. When tried in court, the person could not be found guilty because of the inadequacies in the existing laws dealing with declaration of other income sources. House Bill 1848 provides penalties for welfare recipients in these circumstances, and I feel that the bill will do much to decrease the number of welfare abuses reported in the Commonwealth.

Although some responses are still coming in to our office, I would like to report the results to date of our citizen questionnaire published two weeks ago.

- 1) Stronger Closing Laws favored by 54.4 percent
- 2) No Fault Insurance favored by 92.1 percent
- 3) Non Returnable Containers favored by 82.5 percent
- 4) Pari-Mutuel Betting favored by 69.2 percent
- 5) Equal Rights Amendment favored by 70.2 percent
- 6) Bingo Bill favored by 82 percent
- 7) Child Abuse Bill favored by 97 percent
- 8) Death Penalty favored by 80 percent
- 9) Sales Tax favored by 80 percent
- 10) Employee Bargaining favored by 57.5 percent

I want to thank everyone who has taken the time to respond to this questionnaire to date. I would appreciate hearing from anyone else who is interested in voicing their feelings on these most important issues so that I may include yours in the next report.

From Del. Glenn McClanahan

The Virginia General Assembly headed into its final week (February 19-24) of the extended "short session" with its starting load of 1,200 bills reduced to just over 400.

Wednesday's (Feb. 15) cut off deadline for bills to be acted on by the House in which they originated showed the House of Delegates having passed just over 200 and the Senate 198. (In the final week the House will be acting on the Senate passed bills and the Senate on the House passed bills.)

Among the controversial bills to pass the House in the final days before the February 15th cut off were proposals legalizing bingo for non-profit and charitable organizations, setting up the state's first no-fault insurance plan and setting up a state department of ecology which would administer all agencies involved in environmental control work.

Some bills, however, did not survive on the House floor. Among those killed was a proposal seeking "meet and confer" legislation for public employees. Another such bill introduced by Virginia Beach Delegate Glenn B. McClanahan would establish a study commission to look into ways of insuring that municipalities selling water and other utility services to non-residents provide good quality service at fair rates. This bill, introduced by Delegate McClanahan, seeking the study commission was the last to come before the House of Delegates before the February 15 cut off and was backed by a voice vote after Norfolk Virginia Beach Delegates, Joseph A. Leafe and Robert Washington spoke against it, as Delegate Thomas Moss had earlier done on the committee.

McClanahan said Virginia Beach citizens like those in some 20 or so other localities in the state which use utilities from neighboring cities and counties.

HOUSE APPROVES ALLOCATIONS

Reducing Governor's proposed budget by $24.6 million, the House of Delegates has approved allocations totaling $70.1 million to supplement the 1972-74 biennial budget.

Largest single item, $24.7 million, was earmarked for quality education and will be distributed under new State local school aid formula to 105 of Virginia's 135 school divisions. Fifty-four school divisions will be expected to boost their own contributions by varying amounts from local sources. The formula requires cities and counties to spend on public education a minimum of 80 cents for $100 true tax value.

Another $13.6 million will provide one-step raises for all State employees and larger increases for some employees in low salary positions.

The committee reduced several items in the budget recommended by the Governor, including some public welfare categories. It also served notice to localities that the State will not finance payments to persons who should not receive aid nor will it back overpayments to welfare recipients. Capital outlay requests were also trimmed.

Cuts were made because of the uncertainty of federal assistance in categorical grants and in revenue sharing funds and because House Appropriations members have reservations about adopting budgets at the end of year sessions.

VOTERS MAY DECIDE ON BETTING

The fate of race tracks and pari-mutuel betting in Virginia is up to the House of Delegates first, and then perhaps to the people of Virginia.

This past week the Senate passed by a vote of 27 to 13 a substantially amended bill which would legalize pari-mutuel betting in the Commonwealth. As it emerged from the Senate, the proposal provides two opportunities for citizens to express themselves.

First, a statewide referendum would have to be held at this year's General Election to determine the wishes of the entire electorate on the question. Then, before any locality could open a race track under the strict regulations of the Commission set up by the bill, voters of that locality and the majority of all others in the surrounding cities and counties would have to approve the venture in further referendums.

The amended version went to the House General Laws Committee. Opinion was divided on the sort of reception the committee may give the measure and on its chances should it go to the House floor.

Senators generally agreed that on an issue as far reaching as pari-mutuel betting the voters should make the ultimate decisions, but reserved the right to oppose the measure in the referendum.

City starts centralized data bank

The City of Virginia Beach, under the direction of William Smith's management services office, has developed a new centralized data bank called the MAIN Automated Information Network (MAIN).

MAIN was designed to consolidate all general information about property and citizens of the city. The system contains only information already on file with the city.

The network will contain two principal indexes upon completion. One is a land inventory index and the other is a citizen information index.

The impetus for the start of MAIN was provided by the new property reassessment recently completed by the city real estate assessor's office. Property information is the only information being put into the system at this time.

The land inventory index, when completed, will include the following information:

- + Each piece of land will have its own number. This number will be coordinated with the new Community Services mapping system.
- + There will be a legal description of the property.
- + Property owners, past and present, will be listed.
- + A history of taxes, assessments and improvements on the property.
- + A history of the property's past selling prices.
- + How the property is zoned.
- + Utilities available on the property.

According to the city, the purpose of the land inventory index is to obtain any information on a specific piece of property by going to one source. MAIN will eventually contain a street file index locating each piece of property by streets. Ultimately, the property will also be identified with traffic information and location of street lights and stop signs.

Upon completion, MAIN should be able to provide a list of every piece of property in the city which matches a certain description fed into the computer.

The citizen information index will include census-type data, such as:

- + Voter registration.
- + Accounts receivable-tax file.
- + Personal property tax.
- + City sticker.
- + School census information.
- + Income tax data.
- + Welfare.
- + Library patrons.

Much of the information in the citizen information index will be expanded as MAIN nears completion. The information about citizens is provided by the city themselves to the city. MAIN will not be used in any way to collect information about citizens; it will be used strictly to compile information already available.

The centralized data bank became necessary because of the city's rapid growth. Virginia Beach has grown by almost 50,000 residents since the 1970 census.

The information system will be expanded and extended as the city continues to grow and further classifications and indexes will be added to MAIN as the need arises.

Degeneration in Maryland

To The Editor:

People in other states should get an idea of the extent to which degeneration is taking place in Montgomery County, where I live, which is adjacent to D.C.

In 1970, during the pre-election campaign, Republican James Gleason and his Democratic opponent were engaged in a hot contest to win the office of County Executive.

Many topics were discussed and, at a certain meeting, some one in the audience rose and asked each candidate to make his position clear on abortion. The Democratic candidate approached the microphone first, and gave a vague answer. Then Republican Gleason leaned forward and said "I think it's murder." The audience was electrified! Eventually Gleason was elected.

A suburban paper nearby, the Bethesda Tribune, informs us that the parents in this area are beginning to protest a program in the schools where junior and senior high school girls, if found pregnant, arrangements were made to go to Baltimore for abortions without their parents' knowledge or consent. It reveals that an average of ten teenage girls a week are involved, and that this has been going on for several months.

The paper further states that pregnancy tests at the schools are being made with the help of the Montgomery County Health Department in opposition to the wishes of the parents who believe such conduct is, not only murder, but an infringement of their right to raise and instill upon their children acceptable moral values.

Man is his own enemy

To The Editor:

It is a shame that man is his own worst enemy.

He spends a major part of his work and money on instruments of death (the military): 42 percent and 70 billion dollars a year in our case. And we think hate, fear, greed and violence. One bomb crater for every person in Vietnam, for example. (Your brother's keeper?) You can't make friends by shooting at them or fearing or hating them. We need friends. Why have enemies? We need a world federation of humanity with hope, confidence and malice toward none.

We need a Declaration of Dependence and a Department of Peace.

A world divided against itself cannot stand. Ernie Sheffield

Mind Your Money

By Peter Weaver

Beware of the dog snapper.

Millions of dollars' worth of dogs are stolen every year by thieves who sell them in the booming pet market. Some stolen dogs eventually wind up in laboratories through semiclandestine "dog auctions."

A thief can get as much as $100 for a well-bred German shepherd. It's not difficult for dog snappers, sometimes called "bunchers" (because they sell dogs in bunches), to be able to round up, say, 20 German shepherds in one week's time.

That can bring in as much as $2,000 which isn't had for one week's work. Dogs sold for eventual laboratory use don't bring as much money. The original thief may get up to $10 for one dog (only $200 for 20) and a dealer may be able to mark the dog up to $35 for resale to a laboratory. So the pet market is the major dumping ground for stolen dogs.

But, you say, how can a person run up and grab a dog such as a German shepherd without risking a severely chewed hand? Easy. Dog snappers simply get a female in heat and lead her around the area to attract males. The males will follow her blindly right into the dog snapper's truck.

Females are more difficult but, if necessary, they can be captured by using a tranquilizer gun.

To avoid having your dog end up in a dog snapper's truck or car, there is one thing you can do which is relatively simple and inexpensive. Have the dog tattooed with a registered identification mark.

An investigator who works for various dog breeder associations claims dog snappers shy away from tattooed dogs. They know that dealers usually won't take them because pet shops, smart individual buyers and laboratories do not want to get caught with a tattooed dog.

If your dog qualifies for membership in a local breed club, you might be able to get the tattooing done for as little as $3. Individual tattooers charge around $6 for the job and some veterinarians charge up to $12 or so. Local breed clubs and veterinarians usually know the tattooers.

What identifying number is best? Opinions vary. Some antidog snappers feel an owner's Social Security number registered through The National Dog Registry is a good idea. It costs $15 for lifetime membership and any number of dogs can be registered. For more information, write: National Dog Registry, 227 Stebbins Rd., Carmel, N.Y. 10512.

Others feel that a recognized kennel club registry number may be better. If your dog is registered with the American Kennel Club (AKC), you can tattoo the number (usually two letters and six numbers) inside the right hind leg near the body. You can do the same thing with a dog that's registered with the United Kennel Club (uses letters H or C plus six numbers).

Anyone finding a dog with these markings can phone the kennel clubs or the National Dog Registry for identification of the owner.

If you have a tattooed dog that's stolen or lost, you should immediately notify U.S. Department of Agriculture Veterinary Services located in your state's capital. District of Columbia residents should use the USDA station in College Park, Md., and Florida residents should use the Jacksonville station. The USDA licenses and regulates dog dealers who sell to laboratories or to pet shops and all inspectors are notified of your lost dog's description and tattoo marking.

After notifying your USDA-veterinary representative, make a check of all the county or municipal dog pounds within a 25-mile area. Keep checking every day.

D.C. Current

By Cyrene Dear

WASHINGTON, D.C.—"Let each of us ask not just what will government do for me, but what can I do for myself." Richard M. Nixon, second inaugural address.

The President, in the first of his series of State of the Union messages to Congress, has emphasized a basic change in social philosophy. No one will deny that individual responsibility is a worthy goal to strive to achieve, but the country has many citizens who are incapable of such responsibility and they must be taken care of. The President's plan is to get the loafers off welfare and working, but will there be jobs enough?

The Nixon budget has been presented and defended by Secretary George Shultz and other administrative advisers. We commend them for cutting waste and red tape in government. We agree that there is overlapping, unnecessary expenditure and profligacy in some of the federal programs. Justifications for some of the budget cutting are philosophically sound, but they are also controversial because they affect the lives of the nation's 25 million poor.

The fight in Congress for the social legislation projects of previous years is already being waged. Because education, health and conservation in various forms are difficult results to measure, it will take time for the President's budget cuts to be evaluated and voted upon.

The war is considered over... Yet the Defense budget calls for an increase in order to offset inflation and pay the salaries to a volunteer army. The President promises that in his future messages to the Congress he will offer "social compassion and national excellence" as opposed to "good intentions and fuzzy follow-through" which he thinks has been the rule.

It was Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson who administered the mock-serious swearing-in of Donald R. Larrabee at his inauguration as President of the National Press Club. Don is a newspaperman's president, who heads the Griffin-Larrabee News Service for 32 newspapers with Washington news.

Don comes from Maine so the party was a typical New England buffet with clams, oyster dip and lobster supplemented with turkey, roast beef and other goodies. Senator Muskie (D-Me.) in paying tribute to President Larrabee said, "This is the first inauguration I have enjoyed this year." He read a letter of tribute from Lyndon Johnson to Don Larrabee written January 20th, just two days before President Johnson died.

February is Valentine and birthday month. "Love does make the world go round," which is fine for Valentines and the Heart Fund, but what about our heroes? School children now do not have special programs to commemorate Washington and Lincoln. It just happens this year the martyred president's birthday falls on the right day, February 12th, because it is on Monday, but poor old George Washington has to be "born" on the 19th. It doesn't really matter because there always has been some doubt as to the actual date of his birth. What is important is that the nation remember what they did for our country, and if children are not taught to reverence such men, the memory of them will not endure.

places on a red carpet. Each of their faces were filled with smiles of joy and expressions of relief that at long last their loved ones were really home.

As each of the men left the plane walking toward the families they paused at the microphone to speak to those greeting them. They spoke of their appreciation for the opportunity to serve their country, the support given them by the American people, and the reception in their honor.

Capt. Mulligan told those on hand, "Hi everyone, we're so glad to be home. It's great to be home in the great land of the Free. I hope you'll remember this is the greatest country in the world, and we're so proud to have served you."

Capt. Denton expressed his feelings by simply saying, "There have been many words and this isn't the time for them. We're glad to be home and thank all of you for coming out in this weather and at this hour."

Lt. Cmdr. Galanti, who preceded Captains Mulligan and Denton from the plane, greeted everyone by saying, "Good evening. We want to thank all of you for the work you've done for us while we were in Vietnam. I'd especially like to thank my bride of nine years chronologically, but only two years in actuality. I'd like to greet her with a poem that I wrote for her during my first Midshipman's cruise in 1961: "Lonely days and nights my love, that we have been apart, it seems almost forever, since I held you to my heart. The moments are as restless, as the waves that move the sea, and every second means, a step nearer my love to thee."

About 25 minutes after their arrival the men were joined by their families in the waiting cars and rushed to Portsmouth Naval Hospital to begin sharing much-deserved and long-awaited privacy, and attempt to ease the long years of loneliness, fear, and anxiety which before long hopefully will become forgotten memories.

Capt. Denton, senior officer of the returnees, had spent the last nearly seven-and-a-half years in an enemy prison camp. Denton was shot down on July 18, 1965, while flying his A-6 Intruder jet on a combat mission over North Vietnam. He is 48 years of age, and veteran of 26 years service as a Navy pilot.

Capt. Mulligan was confined by the enemy for nearly the last seven years, after being downed March 20, 1966 while operating his A-4 Skyhawk in a combat mission over North Vietnam. He has a service record of 25 years as a Navy pilot, and is 46 years of age. Lt. Cmdr. Galanti has spent not only the majority of years of his marriage as a POW, but likewise that of his military career. His A-4 Skyhawk jet was

When asked how the children have reacted after being without their father for some seven years Mrs. Mulligan replied, "You can look into their faces and tell they are very proud of him, and glad to have him home again."

For the future Mrs. Galanti said, "The life and the marriage we have now is going to be better than before."

Among questions uppermost in everyone's mind is the condition of the men after many years of confinement, and how they occupied themselves during captivity.

Mrs. Galanti said, "Paul seemed to spend a lot of his time learning languages, and their exercise program seemed to help a lot. He hopped right up yesterday and started doing push-ups. He says he feels better now than when he was Concerning Capt. Mulligan his wife Louise said, "Jim Mulligan is the same person now as when he went over. As to occupying his time Mrs. Mulligan said, "They obviously picked each others brain in exchanging their knowledge about different things."

In describing her husband's general condition Mrs. Denton said, "I can only judge by the way he looks now, he is 20 pounds lighter." To occupy his mind during captivity she said Capt. Denton, "...built a house in his mind. He wants a place on the water, he wants the children to have a base to come home to whenever they want to."

If any one statement could summarize the attitude of these men after being returned home it perhaps is that from Mrs. Galanti, who said, "They feel like they've actually been welcomed home."

the inlet and channel during construction, and dredging of 150,000 cubic yards of material yearly for maintenance."

Ayres emphasized that the Rudee Inlet navigation project was in a study phase only and pointed out that no authorization had been received from Congress to begin construction.

He added, "This project is part of an overall study of Virginia Beach streams authorized by the Committee of Public Works in 1965. Study of the Rudee Inlet project has been expedited at the request of Virginia Beach city officials, and will be submitted before the overall study."

According to Ayres, the preliminary environmental statement was prepared by the Norfolk District in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. The statement will be reviewed by state, federal and local government agencies. After comments from these agencies are received, appropriate changes will be made and a revised draft environmental impact statement will be filed with the Council on Environmental Quality.

A final statement will be prepared and filed with the Council following the initial reviews.

Copies of the preliminary environmental statement may be reviewed in the Corps district office, 803 Front Street, Norfolk. Public comment on the statement should be received at the district office by April 1.

Harmful gypsy moths moving into Virginia

Gypsy moth caterpillars defoliated an estimated 1,300,500 acres of woodland in 9 northeastern states last summer, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has reported. And the harmful gypsy moth is moving into Virginia, warns John Weidhaas, associate professor and entomologist at Virginia Tech.

Control of gypsy moths has become a severe problem since the abolishment of DDT. Oaks, hemlock and white pine are especially susceptible. Moths were first discovered in Virginia in 1969 when a moth was found in Albemarle County. In 1972, moths were caught in 23 counties and cities.

World Book calls the female gypsy moth the enemy of all shade and fruit trees. It is white or snuff-colored and has wingspread of 2-3 inches. It seldom flies. The caterpillars hatch in the spring and reach their full size of 3 inches by midsummer. They are brown with tufts of hairs. Five pairs of blue spots and 6 pairs of red spots are located on their backs.

If you find any insect defoliating your trees or suspect gypsy moths, call Tom Nugent at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station at Diamond Springs, 464-3528.

Prior to his arrival Tschudy's family and friends gathered in the cold night air looking into the moon lit star filled sky for any sign of the approaching plane. They were joined by a crowd of well wishers, including a large group of young people from Eastern Shore Chapel on Laskin Road in Virginia Beach.

As the plane began its descent the Capt. delegation began singing softly, "Amen, Amen, Amen, Hallelujah." When his plane touched down they began cheering and waving signs reading, "God bless you, We owe you so much, and 'Welcome home, We're proud to be a part of the Navy.'"

When he approached a microphone in front of the reception area the crowd of well wishers broke through cords cordoning off their area, and rushed into the press section pushing reporters and photographers aside for a closer look at him.

Moments after his arrival Tschudy was joined by his wife and son in a waiting auto and were rushed to Portsmouth Naval Hospital and quarters especially prepared for them. While he undergoes further medical tests.

Tschudy's plane landed at 7:35 p.m., and ten minutes later he and his family were leaving the air station.

Tschudy left the hospital briefly Monday afternoon with his wife and son for a short visit to the family's new home in Virginia Beach.

He was taken on combat mission over North Vietnam. He was the bombardier-navigator in an A-6 Intruder jet piloted by Capt. Jeremiah A. Denton, Jr., also of Virginia Beach. He is 37 years old and had spent nearly seven-and-a-half years of his ten-and-a-half year military career in captivity.

Salt pollution a winter threat to trees, shrubs

Salt pollution of soil around roots of trees and shrubs occurs during winter, especially after the two heavy snows we recently had in Virginia Beach.

The salt is used to melt ice on highways, walks, drives, patios, bus stops, shopping centers, landscaped restaurants. It is then washed into soil where it causes extensive injury to nearby plantings.

Such shallow rooted trees as dogwood, beech and sugar maple show effects first; deeper-rooted trees later. Concentrated quantities of salt wash down from inclines and are most dangerous. Shrubs and other fine plantings around homes are unsuspected targets of salt used to make sidewalks and patios winter-safe.

In spring, injury shows up. Growth is retarded. Leaves, often turn brown. Damage is mistaken for cold and winter-killing.

For home owners it is advisable to make drives and walks winter-safe by using sand, ash or fertilizer. Where salt injury is suspected, soil around shrubs and trees should be flushed with water early in the spring. Better still, use inversion-injecting liquid nutrients around the roots. This both flushes away salt and stimulates new growth, and restores lost vigor.

Va. Masons honor Kellam

Frank W. Kellam Sr. of Virginia Beach was honored during the Grand Masonic Lodge Session last week in Richmond by being installed the Grand Senior Steward.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Grand Master of the Masons of the Commonwealth of Virginia, Most Worshipful William C. Vaughn.

Kellam has been a civic leader in Tidewater for many years. He is Past Master of Princess Anne Lodge No. 25; Past Deputy District Grand Master; and served Khedive Temple as the Potentate during the year 1963. He was the President of the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Association during the years 1969-70.

Alexander Calder Jr., board chairman of Union Camp Corporation, today signed the land transfer documents in the office of Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton.

Sheriff candidate speaks on reforms

The Rev. John P. Weinbach, Independent Candidate for Sheriff, addressed the local N.A.A.C.P. Chapter Monday night on the new role for jails and prisons in Virginia.

Referring to the serious problems at the State Penitentiary in Richmond, Mr. Weinbach pointed to some positive steps that are taking place in corrections on the state level. "There is a need now for local jails throughout the state to recognize their important role in corrections," he said.

"For too long we have excused thoughtless and, at times, even inhuman treatment of jailed persons by saying the jail is only a temporary holding facility."

In fact, the "temporary" often stretches out into months of unhealthy idleness for the man in jail. There are opportunities to break down some of these men's anger and hostility if we care enough to try. We have a moral responsibility to treat all people as human beings who are valuable in the eyes of God. That responsibility does not end on the other side of the steel door leading to the jail cells."

Weinbach's involvement in jails and other institutions goes back to 1960, when he worked as a Chaplain's assistant for the Lutheran service society in Buffalo, New York. While in college, he worked with the retarded at the state school for mentally retarded in Fort Wayne, Indiana. As a seminary student in Saint Louis, Mo. He worked in the Barnes Medical and Psychiatric Hospital.

Since coming to the beach in 1968, Weinbach has served on the J.A.I.L. committee in Virginia Beach, seeking to improve the situation at the city jail. Last year he served as chaplain and counselor to inmates at the Norfolk City Jail. He is presently pastor of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.

Libraries show children's films

The Saturday children's film series at the Virginia Beach Public Libraries continues on February 24 with showings at the Windsor Woods and Virginia Beach branches.

Films scheduled at the Beach branch, at 11 a.m., are "Run Tin" and "Rain."

Church to have special musical

The Chapel of Green Run, a Southern Baptist Mission sponsored by the Norfolk Baptist Association, will have a special program of music Saturday, February 24, at 7:30 p.m., in the Green Run Club House, 1248 Green Garden Circle.

The adult choir of the Westwood Hill Baptist Church will present "The Good Life," a pulpit musical. The public is invited to attend. A nursery will be provided.

ODU offices in new home

The major offices of the Old Dominion University administration will be moved to its new home February 17. ODU's new Administration Building is ready for occupancy.

Began in August, 1971, the $916,000 structure was designed by the Norfolk architectural firm of Williams & Tazewell and built by the J.L. Smith Corporation of Portsmouth. The 30,000 sq. ft. building is located between Hampton Boulevard and Foreman Field.

Virgina Wesleyan receives grant

Virginia Wesleyan College has received a matching grant of $250 as part of a grant from the Science Foundation sponsored program to develop undergraduate physics instruction.

The grant is the second received by the college through the program which is a joint effort of the National Laboratory for Higher Education and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

...to return home after the long years in Vietnam

Virginia Beach joined hands with the world last week in welcoming home the first released POW's.

Cmdr. William A. Tschudy (1), in below zero temperatures, stood before a crowd of 600 well-wishers Saturday evening at NAS Norfolk before greeting his wife Janie and son Michael (2) after a 7½-year absence.

Cmdr. James A. Mulligan (3) arrived home at 2:35 a.m. Thursday, one of the first three to return to Tidewater from the Philippines. Another of that first group and one of the men held longest in captivity, Capt. Jeremiah Denton (4) embraces the joy and thankfulness felt by all Americans, as he waves and smiles upon returning home Thursday.

Lt. Cmdr. Paul Galanti, of Richmond, waited proudly off the airstrip with his wife Phillis after nearly a 7-year separation (5).

And typical of welcoming hearts across the country, members of the Eastern Shore Chapel (6) stood at the gate of the runway Saturday evening with signs, shouts, smiles, and songs of gladness for returning Cmdr. Tschudy.

Bayside Junior High School defeated Kempsville Junior High 56-47 Saturday afternoon to win the Virginia Beach Junior High Basketball Tournament. Virginia Beach downed Plaza 76-49 in the consolation preliminary.

Bayside's sticky man-to-man defense and ball control was largely responsible for the win over Kempsville. Bayside also controlled the boards and made very few turnovers. Harry Williams pulled in 11 rebounds, and David Weldon was credited with 10.

Bayside led Kempville 10-7 at the end of the first quarter and stretched their margin to 23-17 at the half. A 19-0 rout of the Braves in the third period clinched the game for Bayside. Kempville tried to catch-up in the final period, and although they outscored Bayside 21-17 in that quarter, the Bayside lead was too much for them to overcome.

Bayside's man-to-man defense caused a lot of Plaza turnovers, and coupled with the Seahawk's control of the boards, Plaza just had too much to handle in the consolation tilt. Virginia Beach outscored Plaza 17-12 in the first period and 15-12 in the second to take a 32-24 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

The Seahawks returned to the floor ready to play basketball in the third quarter and swished in 30 points while holding Plaza to just eight. Plaza had a one point advantage in the fourth quarter, 17-16, but the Seahawk lead was too great for them to get back into the game.

Harry Williams of Bayside was selected as the tournament's most valuable player. In the two tournament games, Williams scored 31 points and grabbed 35 rebounds. Runner-up in the MVP balloting was teammate David Weldon. Weldon scored 34 points and was credited with 15 rebounds.

In addition to the MVP award, the junior high coaches also selected an all-conference and an all-tournament team. Named to the all-conference team were Craig Bram and Craig Bernick of Kempville, Harry Williams of Bayside, and Junior Moore and Varel Wright of Plaza.

Two all-conference team members also made the all-tournament team. They were Bayside's Harry Williams and Kempville's Craig Bram. Joining Williams and Bram were Edward Barcliff and Terry Harris of Virginia Beach and David Weldon of Bayside.

Twelve Beach wrestlers earn berths in State Tournament

A dozen Virginia Beach wrestlers will be in the State Wrestling Tournament at Old Dominion University this weekend. Six will be from Cox, three from Kellam, and one from Princess Anne.

Berths in the State tourney were decided in the regional meet last weekend at Manor High School in Portsmouth. Eastern District champion Cox, also the defending State champion, finished second in the regional tourney, behind Narver.

There was little doubt that Cox would have won the regionals had Glen Felthousen and Bill Summa been able to compete. Felthousen, the 112-pound Eastern District champion, was sidelined by a virus infection, and Summa was out with an injury. Regional coaches awarded Felthousen a fourth-place spot, thus making him eligible for the State meet. Ken Nowlin of Princess Anne started things off right for the Beach matmen with an overtime win over Lake Taylor's unbeaten Gary Friedman in the 90-pound opener. The win was by the referee's decision, and Nowlin became the first of three regional champions from Virginia Beach.

Cox's James Gaudreau won the 185 championship by defeating Baxter Brown of Granby. Gaudreau outpointed Brown 4-0 for the decision.

Mike Battalio of Cox and Kellam's Jay Payne met for the 126 pound title. For the third time this season, Battalio defeated Payne for the title. The decision was 4-2 in Battalio's favor.

In one of the weekend's major upsets, Chris Conkright, who had been undefeated through the regionals, was beaten in the 119 pound division. Conkright came back with a 5-1 decision over Indian River's Bob Johnson to finish third and earn a spot in the State tourney. Conkright must still be considered a threat for the State title.

Great Bridge's Arthur Jones defeated Scott Harrell of Cox for the 133 pound title. Jones won the match by a 12-3 decision.

In a match considered by many to be a toss-up, Menomville's Harry Webb barely edged Cox's Mike Newbern. This 136-pound match was won by a 1-0 decision.

In the 145 pound division, Gene Burn of Kellam won third place with a 5-4 decision over Kempville's Mark Barbee. Kellam's Tim Terry finished fourth with a 3-2 loss to the 145-pounder who though he was defeated by Narver's Larry Lamb in the third-place match.

The Regionals again showed the Eastern District to be the strongest district in the region.

Borough Little League sign-ups

Although most of the management positions were filled at the Virginia Beach Borough Little League's organizational meeting two weeks ago, a few key positions are still vacant. A league secretary is still needed, as are a concession manager, a head scorer, and a player agent for the senior league.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, February 22nd, at 8 p.m. in Tucker Hall of Galilee Episcopal Church. All persons, male or female, interested in filling one of the key management positions or in helping the Little League get started are urged to attend.

Registration for the 1973 season is now open. The season will start on April 1st and run through September 30th. The season will be held on Thursdays and Saturdays.

Kellam, Cox and Princess Anne end cage seasons with victories

Basketball's "regular" season is over for all of Virginia Beach's scholastic teams. For three of the six Beach high schools, the season is over-period. The other three earned spots in the Eastern District playoffs this week, and with luck, their season could be extended two more weeks.

Eight of the eleven Eastern District teams made the annual playoffs for a spot in the regionals. Princess Anne, Bayside, and Cox joined Norfolk's Booker T. Washington, Maury, Lake Taylor, Granby, and Norview in the District tourney which began Tuesday night. Kempville, First Colonial, and Kellam did not win playoff berths.

Stories on each of last week's games follow.

Two Falcons finished the game in double figures. Randy Robinson led all scorers in the quarter with 25 points. David Swingle had 12 points for the game.

PRINCESS ANNE 88, CRADOCK 50

After the first quarter, the game was not even close. Princess Anne closed out its season with a runaway 88-50 win over visiting Cradock.

The first quarter ended with the Cavaliers in front 19-16. Princess Anne then got down to business and racked up lopsided scores for the other three quarters. The Cavaliers outscored Cradock 16-4 in the second period, 21-11 in the third, and 33-17 in the fourth.

Mike Ange again led Princess Anne and all game scorers with 32 points, including 12 field goals and eight of eleven foul shots. Curtis Strange won runner-up honors for both Princess Anne and the game with 20 tallies, his season high. Strange's scoring spree more than doubled his previous best single-game effort of the season, which was nine points.

third period and took the lead briefly midway through the quarter. Elton Cross was the big gun in the third quarter Bayside comeback that saw the Marlins go ahead 51-48 with three minutes to play in the quarter. The Commodores went back in front to lead 59-57 after three periods of play. Then came the big Maury 30-point binge in the final quarter to sew up the contest.

Two Marlins finished the game high in the double-figure column. Elton Cross had 27 points, his season high, and Jim Goffigan dumped in 24 points. Princess Anne 76, FIRST COLONIAL 64.

Princess Anne was the only Beach team to win last Tuesday night. The Cavaliers downed cross-town rival First Colonial 76-64.

Princess Anne outscored the Patriots 18-16 in the first quarter and never trailed during the rest of the game. The Cavaliers increased their lead every quarter until the last, when the Patriots managed a 19-16 scoring advantage.

Mike Ange led all game scorers with his 29 tallies. Rounding out dual-figure scorers for Princess Anne were George Purdin, who had 13 points, and Richard Tucker and Bobby Zimo, who had 10 points each. The ten points for Tucker and Zimo represented season highs.

KELLAM 76, OSCAR SMITH 71

Kellam pulled somewhat of a mild upset Saturday night by edging Oscar Smith 76-71. Tony Davis led the victorious Knights with his 21 point performance.

Kellam battled the Tigers to an 18-all tie at the end of the first quarter. In the second period, Kellam's scorers went to work, rolling up a 22-15 scoring edge to put the Knights ahead 40-33 at halftime.

The Tigers managed to close the gap by two points in the third quarter, outscoring Kellam 18-16. The determined Kellam forces tasted victory and matched Oscar Smith point-for-point in the final quarter, 20 points each, and won the game.

Three other Knights joined Davis in the dual-figure column. Terry Tyler scored 13 points, Jim Perkins dumped in 16, and Doug Benham finished the night with 12 tallies.

COX 56, GREAT BRIDGE 54

Cox outscored Great Bridge 10-4 in the third quarter, and that was the margin that won the game. The score was deadlocked at 12-all at the end of the first quarter. It was 11-all at the half.

Cox pulled ahead by two in the third quarter, but that period ended with Cox in front 41-39.

PRINCESS ANNE 88, CRADOCK 50

After Churchland had run up a 43-32 halftime lead, Bayside started to play. The Marlins effort came too late. Even though Bayside outpointed Churchland 44-35 in the second half, their rally was too late and two points short. Churchland won 76-75.

Four Bayside players finished in double figures. Elton Cross led all game scorers with his 19 points. Jim Goffigan finished with 12 points, Vernon Hyman had 12, and Donnie Dugger had 13.

MAURY 89, BAYSIDE 75

Bayside gave Maury one of its toughest games of the season for three quarters Wednesday night. The Maury scoring punch asserted itself in the final quarter, outscoring Bayside 30-16, to win the game 89-75.

Maury jumped to a 17-13 first period lead and padded it lightly by one point in the second to take a 30-33 halftime lead. Bayside showed its form in the

Bayside lady gymnasts are tied for second

The Bayside High School girls' gymnastics team is currently tied for second place in Beach standings. Coach Pat Wolff and assistant coach King have led this year's team to a 3-1 record, quite a turnaround from last year's 1-4 team.

The lady Marlins have beaten First Colonial (56.85-51.75), Cox (53.35-49.55), and Kallam (56.31-41.20). Their only loss has been to league-leading and undefeated Kempville (61.25-54.30), only one game remains in the league. Tonight, Tuesday, February 22nd, when they travel to Princess Anne High School for a 7:30 p.m. match.

Although the team is well balanced in all areas of competition, Anne Weatherly, a junior, and senior Alma Kelly have been particular standouts. Anne has registered five firsts, two seconds, and two third place finishes in the four meets. She has won the floor exercise competition in all four meets and has a single win on the beam and in vaulting. The well-rounded performer also has a pair of seconds and a third on the beam and a third in tumbling.

Alma has posted three firsts, three seconds, and three thirds. Her three wins were in vaulting. She earned two thirds and a second in floor exercise, a second and a third in tumbling, and a second on the balance beam.

The lady Marlins are led by senior co-captains Beth Owens and Vicki Barr. Alma Kelly, Donna Jordan, and Sherree Pond are the other three seniors on the team.

Bayside also has three juniors, four sophomores, and four freshmen on their varsity squad. The juniors are Brenda Coles, Gretchen Greenwood, and Anne Weatherly.

Nancy Fallor, Dana Weber, Patty McJunkin, and Debbie Garner are the sophomores. The freshman team members are Karen Patillo, Diane Copeland, Sharon Snow, and Debbie Cox.

Ten of the team's fifteen members have placed in the top three finishers in the four meets this season. In addition to the wins of Anne Weatherly and Alma Kelly, Vicki Barr has done an outstanding job on the uneven parallel bars. She has won two firsts, a second, and a third.

Beth Owens has placed first on the beam, and Betty McJunkin, Sherree Pond, and Donna Jordan have all posted thirds in various categories. Brenda Coles has finished second and third once, Debbie Cox has registered three second-place finishes and one third, and Nancy Fallor has a pair of seconds and thirds to her credit.

Kempville girls still unbeaten in gymnastics

Kempville is still unbeaten in girls' gymnastics. The lady Chiefs ran their record to four straight wins with no losses when they downed Cox 61.44-54.85.

Debbie Divilbiss was simply outstanding in leading her team to the win. Debbie finished third in vaulting and in floor exercise, third on the uneven parallel bars, and won the tumbling competition.

UNEVEN PARALLEL BARS: 1. Sandy Conkright, Cox; 2. Sharon James, Kempville; 3. Debbie Divilbiss, Kempville.

VAULTING: 1. Christy Conkright, Kempville; 2. Denise Hill, Kempville; 3. Debbie Divilbiss, Kempville.

TUMBLING: 1. Debbie Divilbiss, Kempville; 2. Melody Haynes, Cox; 3. Christy Proctor, Kempville.

FLOOR EXERCISE: 1. Cathy Banks, Cox; 2. Sandy Conkright, Cox; 3. Debbie Divilbiss, Kempville.

BALANCE BEAM: 1. Wanda Cowan, Kempville; 2. Sandy

Conkright, Cox; 3. Melody Haynes, Cox.

The Bayside girls maintained their hold on third place with a convincing 56.30-41.20 win over Kallam. The win was paced by junior Anne Weatherly, who won three of the five events, and Alma Kelly, who finished second in three events and won another.

TUMBLING: 1. Anne Weatherly, Bayside; 2. Alma Kelly, Bayside; 3. Brenda Coles, Bayside.

Bill Melton is W & L mat winner

Bill Melton of Virginia Beach has been instrumental in Washington and Lee University's wrestling season winning record. The Generals currently sport a 7-4 record with important wins over the University of North Carolina, Furman, Duke, and Davidson. Melton, a junior, has a 5-2-1 record. His coach, John Piper, says that Melton has played a key role in "his goal of revitalizing the Generals' wrestling program."

Virginia Beach NOW fights for human liberation

By MARGARET DeBOLT

"We have only lost a battle, we have not lost the war," Mrs. Betsy Bretz, the president of the Virginia Beach Chapter of the National Organization for Women, said last week at the news that the Equal Rights Amendment had not been voted out of committee in Richmond.

"Regardless of how the committee members felt about the amendment, they owed it to the women of this state to vote it to the floor and let all the delegates decide," said Mrs. Bretz. "We understand that there was terrific pressure on the committee members not to vote it out, and put individual members on the spot. This to me is very undemocratic."

Mrs. Bretz had made the trip to Richmond February 1 with approximately 30 other Virginia Beach women to testify before the House committee in favor of the ERA. The group traveled in a bus chartered by NOW for the purpose, and Mrs. Bretz said that they are ready to do the same thing next year if the amendment is re-introduced.

Mrs. Bretz carried with her a statement from Congressman G. William Whitehurst endorsing the amendment.

"We have seven years in which to get 38 states to ratify the ERA," Mrs. Bretz continued in an interview at her Pembroke Meadows home this week. "If it is not ratified by 38 states before next year, we'll try again in Richmond."

"All over Richmond last week you could hear the comment, 'Nobody wants to stick their neck out because it's an election year,'" she added. "That's a pretty bad way to run the state, that you can't discuss anything controversial in an election year."

The Virginia Beach Chapter of NOW averages about 30 to 35 women at a meeting, which are held every second Tuesday, and occasionally more often, at Bayside Presbyterian Church at the corner of Ewell Road and Independence Blvd.

Although all age groups and professions are represented, Mrs. Bretz said, from homemakers to service women, many of the members are service wives who have a special interest in the ERA because of discriminatory state laws in their home states or states where they might live in the future.

"Del. J. Warren White of Norfolk who voted against the bill, just showed that he didn't think much of all the service wives in his area," said Mrs. Bretz. "I think the women should organize against the delegates who voted the ERA down and run someone else in their place in the next election."

Many of the NOW members are also members of the national and state Women's Political Caucus, and the local NOW intends to keep its ERA Task Force, or committee, active in working for the ERA and other non-partisan issues of interest to women, according to Mrs. Bretz.

Other interests of the group, which organized locally last fall, include day care centers, eliminating sexism in textbooks, the right of the individual to choose in matters pertaining to reproduction, and equal opportunities in jobs and education.

In the matter of abortion, NOW members stress that they believe in the right of the individual to choose when and if they will complete a pregnancy. Several of their members are also active with the Virginia Beach Branch of Planned Parenthood.

Pleased with the recent Supreme Court decision which said that women had the right of abortion during the first three months of pregnancy, members of the local NOW Task Force on Reproductive Freedom will be keenly interested in the way in which that decision will be carried out at the local level, by individual doctors and hospitals, since a state law bringing Virginia into line with the recent decision is being debated in Richmond.

NOW was the first organized on the national level in 1966. Its first president was author Betty Friedan, whose "Feminine Mystique," a 1963 book about the unsatisfying lives of suburban women who felt frustrated because they were not using all their education and talents, is one of the "Bibles" of the movement.

This week, a delegation of about eight women from the local NOW, including Mrs. Bretz, will attend the national convention of NOW in Washington. The organization, the largest and best-known of the new women's liberation groups, now numbers thousands of members and has chapters in all 50 states.

The first chapter of NOW was organized in Tidewater in 1969, and met in Norfolk from then until August, 1972, when it joined with several other Norfolk groups in a coalition called the Women's Resource Center, which meets at the YWCA in Norfolk.

However, several Virginia Beach women who had attended NOW meetings in Norfolk were anxious for a chapter closer home, to specifically study the problems of Virginia Beach women in the areas of job opportunities and education, and their organizational meeting last November attracted some 30 women.

The married members of NOW agree that their husbands are both interested in the group and support its ideals of equality.

"I think my husband is kind of proud," said one Oceana pilot's wife. "People used to think anyone in women's liberation was really far-out radical and unhappy, but our group isn't like that at all. It's become an 'in' thing to have a copy of 'MS' on your coffee table." (MS is a new women's magazine, edited by Gloria Steinem and other feminists, to which the local NOW sells subscriptions.)

Mrs. Bretz, a native of Florida, is the wife of Navy Lt.

Cmdr. Craig Bretz, and the mother of two sons. The vice president of NOW is Mrs. Vera Henderson, a mother of two children, and the wife of Horace Henderson, who was an independent candidate for the U.S. Senate last fall.

The secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Lydia Howard, the wife of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Harlan C. Howard. The Howard's 11-year-old daughter, Debbie, also went to Richmond to testify in behalf of the ERA, but was not called because of time limitations on the hearings, much to her disappointment. She had planned to tell the committee that she favored the ERA because she wanted to be a doctor, and was against any type of a "quota system" for medical colleges. At the present time, only seven percent of the doctors in America are women.

The local NOW gets several inquiries every week from persons who believe they have been discriminated against because of their sex. Such persons are advised to write the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 1800 G Street NW, Washington D.C. 20506, or the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor, Washington.

Although most of the cases involve women who say they are being paid less than a man for the same work, one of the members recently heard about a firm where a man is being paid the same as the women, but is expected to work nights when none of the women want to be out alone.

"If a man is expected to do extra work because of his sex, then it ought to be in the job description, and he should be paid more," said one of the members.

The incident proves one of the beliefs of the organization, that no one wins in the matter of sex discrimination. Women's liberation is ultimately human liberation.

Teachers learn of career opportunities for students

The Virginia Beach Public Schools recently began a new training program designed to help teachers better advise students about career opportunities available to them in Tidewater. The project will consist of a series of field trips to local businesses, industries, and government facilities where the teachers will be given first-hand information about each organization's operation, employment requirements, and personnel needs.

Approximately 40 teachers, primarily guidance counselors and distributive education instructors, will be participating in the program which will include visits and instructional sessions at more than a dozen facilities throughout Tidewater. All but one of the field trips will be made on Wednesday evenings.

The program was developed through the combined efforts of the National Alliance of Businessmen and the Business Education, Distributive Education, Guidance and Vocational Technical Education departments of the Virginia Beach Public School System. Its primary aim is to familiarize educators with the myriad career opportunities available in Tidewater to graduating high school students, and the various qualifications necessary for entrance into these fields.

The program will be conducted in three phases with approximately six field trips scheduled during each phase. The first portion of the project will concentrate on opportunities in industry with visits scheduled for the Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Ford Motor Company, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Terry Corporation, Landmark Communications, and Nacirema Stevedores.

The second phase will deal with service businesses and will include trips to Virginia Beach General Hospital, VEPCO, Virginia National Bank, Sears Roebuck & Company, The Hilton Hotel, General Electric and Colonial Stores.

The third phase will be devoted to government activities and will tentatively incorporate informational sessions at Oceana Naval Air Station, the Civil Service Commission, the Post Office Department, the Virginia Employment Commission, the Navy Supply Center and the offices of the Virginia Beach City Government. All three phases should be completed by mid-August.

Single Parent entries sought

The Tidewater Chapter of Parents Without Partners (PWP) has begun a search to locate the outstanding "Single Parent" in our area. The winner will be awarded a plaque and $100.00 at a special dinner given by PWP on March 14th. The local winner will automatically be in the finals of the 24th International Outstanding Single Parent of the Year Award, held in July.

The Single Parent Award is being given by PWP, to demonstrate appreciation and recognition of the difficulties involved in raising children in a one-parent family. The public is invited to submit entries on behalf of any single parent who resides in the greater Tidewater area. Entry forms are available upon request from PWP, P.O. Box 9708, Norfolk, Virginia 23505. Essay style entries will be accepted also. All entries should be submitted before the end of February.

Valentina Fersing to wed George William Masters

Mr. and Mrs. Sten Ellis Fersing of Virginia Beach announce the engagement of their daughter, Valentina Stenne Fersing, to George William Masters III, son of Mr. and Mrs. George William Masters Jr. of Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Barraco will speak

The Virginia Beach Christian Church Youth Fellowship has invited Mrs. Joseph Barraco to be their guest speaker on Sunday at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Barraco will speak on faith, courage, love, unity. A former P.O.W. of the Nazis will relate her experiences and relate life as an American living under an enemy power. She will express views and concern about today's problems and radical movements.

Mrs. Barraco, a graduate of St. Mary's Convent, National Conservatory of Music, has been a resident of Virginia Beach where she has won Outstanding Catholic Layperson, Personality of the South 1971-72 and 1972-73, and Who's Who in the World of Women. She is one of the most active civic leaders in the community and has been commended by national, state and city officials.

Four named Homemakers of Tomorrow

Four Virginia Beach high school seniors have been named 1973 Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow.

They are Bernice K. Nagle of Cox High School, Darrilyn L. Brooks of First Colonial, Cynthia Garrett of Kempsville and Debra L. Holmstrom of Princess Anne.

Jayne Harvey weds Dino P. Guerrieri

The marriage of Jayne M. Harvey and Dino P. Guerrieri took place January 15 at the Base Chapel, Naval Amphibious Base, with Chaplain Frank Garner officiating at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Grace Herrman and the late Ernest Herrman of Landover, Md. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Guerrieri of New York City.

The bride wore a gown of pink chiffon over taffeta with a bodice of pink brocade with long sheer sleeves. She wore a crown of pearl headdress with shoulder length veil. She carried a white prayer book with white orchids and lily of the valley streamers.

Mrs. John Cameron of Lanham, Md., served as matron of honor. She wore a navy blue, velvet gown with long sleeves accented by chantilly lace inserted at the neckline. She carried a cascade of blue and white carnations with blue streamers.

Richard E. Herrman, of Landover, Md., brother of the bride, served as best man. Music was provided by Arlene Tubbs, organist at Thalia Methodist Church.

Out-of-town guests who attended the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Moyers of Virginia Beach included Joey Baker, Richard E. Herrman, Grace Herrman, Mrs. John Cameron, Miss Betty Ball and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Santill.

The bride and groom now reside in Virginia Beach.

Start seeds in peat pots

Every spring home gardeners struggle through the arduous task of placing the seeds of radishes, turnips, spinach, and lettuce beneath the soil; but when it comes to tomatoes, eggplant, and peppers, these are most often purchased at the local greenhouse as plants, each in its own peat pot.

There is no comparison in the ease of planting these peat pots, but, conversely, there is no comparison in the satisfaction derived from planting one's own seeds, since it is impossible to love "somebody else's" tomato as much. One can have the best of two worlds: Plant seeds in peat pots.

There are numerous obvious advantages to this procedure; chief among these, early planting. The seeded peat pot may be prepared for home greenhouse, cold frame, or sunny window well in advance of the "last frost" insuring an earlier yield.

No small plus is the ease of seed handling. A minute turnip seed dealt with at eye level takes on a degree of manageability you never felt in a kneeling position and at arm's length.

By utilizing peat pots that come in strips, you can preview your whole garden in miniature—ever arrange it with a lot more fun.

When outdoor-garden time arrives, you have a lot more things going-and growing-for you than you have imagined. First, there is no transplanting shock. The peat pot sunk firmly in the ground (don't leave the lip exposed, but cover completely, so that changes in moisture will not cause it to rise) gives the plant protection during this critical period by holding the moisture around the plant until its roots have out-distanced the pot and no longer need it.

You will recall from those tomato plants you bought last year that there is no need for early weeding or mulching with peat pots, because you have provided each seed with a trouble-free area in which to start life (a decided advantage in rocky soil).

New flowers for 1973

MARIGOLD RED DIMENSION

Largest red-flowered Marigold so far, the petals are finely edged with yellow. This Super French has the vigor and uniform habit to match its large 3 1/2 inch flowers, growing nearly to 16 inches with a spread of 18 inches. A good variety for hedges and borders.

MARIGOLD HONEY MOON

This first clear yellow in dwarf French Crested-type Marigolds has 1 1/2 inch blooms on well rounded plants. The foliage is almost hidden under the profusion of bloom. Vigor and habit is there with neat, compact, bushy plants 14 inches high and a spread of 18 inches.

Both of these new marigolds were developed by the Geo. Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C. and are available from your garden center or direct from Park.

Time to wash houseplants

Your houseplants have been exposed to the fireplace fumes, the heat from the radiator of winter, and the use of heat with a good washing about now is a good idea. Houseplants need to be checked frequently to see that they have not become infested with insect pests. One of the easiest ways to eradicate the insects is to wash them away.

Pests like spider mites and aphids can often be eliminated by directing a strong spray of water on them. If the insects are clinging to the plants in a mass of residue, smooth-leaved plants can be submerged in a basin of soapy water and washed.

BLATIMORE TO RECYCLE SOLID WASTE

With a six million grant from EPA, the city of Baltimore will convert half of its solid wastes into synthetic gas daily and burn the gas to make steam for electricity. The plant will convert one thousand tons of solid waste daily into synthetic gas.

AIR POLLUTION EFFECTS ON PLANTS AVAILABLE ON SLIDES

A series of 105 color 35mm slides, illustrating the effects of air pollution on plant life, is now available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They are available on vegetables and fruits, field crops and ornamental plants and trees. They can be purchased or $13 per unit or $18.50 for the complete set of 105 slides. Write to Photography Division, Office of Information, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250 and enclose your check.

NEW BOOKLETS

New booklets on noise pollution are "Noise from Heavy Construction" and "Noise in the Home." Each can be obtained by sending 15 cents for each booklet to the Office of Public Affairs, EPA, Washington, D.C. 20460.

Now is the time to + Use a dormant oil spray. Spray should be applied when temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees. Avoid spraying on damp, cloudy days because oil does not dry rapidly. Spray should be applied thoroughly but lightly to assure a complete covering of the bark and the underside of all leaves. Pick up a bottle of a good dormant oil spray from your nearby garden center.

+ Make plans to use a crabgrass preventer if your lawn has crabgrass. The best way to control crabgrass is early - before the seed germinates. Most crabgrass preventers combine fertilizer and crabgrass preventer so you can kill the crabgrass seed before it germinates - and feed the desirable grass at the same time.

+ Clip some forsythia, flowering quince or pussy willow for forcing into early bloom in your house. With the kind of weather we've had, some is in bloom already, but the recent snow and cold weather have curtailed it. You can have early blooms by bringing in some now.

+ Sow grass seed in the bare spots. Lawn seeding should be done in the fall - but if you didn't get it done, do it now - the earlier the better. Freezing doesn't bother grass seed. The only variety of seed to wait until later to plant is Bermuda - and who wants that anyway?

I ordered some vince minor (portwinkle) from a mail order survey that advertised a lot. Since 6 weeks have gone by and I still don't have it, what should I do? Mrs. Ralph H. Bayside.

Answer: By letter is to report this to the Better Business Bureau. I think I saw the mail order firm you sent your order to; I was a victim of the same situation and they cashed my check and still didn't send the merchandise. Do business only with reliable nurseries - if and when ordering plants by mail that you can't get locally, make sure it's a reliable firm.

I've a lot of wild onions showing up already in my lawn. What do I do to get rid of them? Mr. J.F. Alston.

Answer: Wild onions are one of our most severe lawn problems in Tidewater. The wild onion is a bulb and extremely hard to kill. You can get rid of your own but unless your neighbors do the same thing, you're still going to have a problem. Spraying with 2-4-D or Silvex does the best job. Ask your garden center for it. Don't be disappointed when you don't get a kill the first time. Probably three sprays will be required - so buy a big bottle. Be careful using it around azaleas and other ornamentals - and don't spray on a windy day. And warn your neighbor to spray too so the whole neighborhood can get rid of these pests.

Mariner Conference Center opens

The Mariner Conference Center formally opened last week with some 200 city, state and out-of-state guests attending.

Not only does the opening of the $430,000 addition finalize phase II of the Mariner's master expansion plan, according to general manager Robert Worsham, but it significantly extends the number of major beach resorts which are attuning their properties to the group meeting market as a sales builder for off-season.

Exemplifying the latest concept of space flexibility and functional versatility, the 10,000 square foot expanse subdivides into 45' x 45' rooms by air-locked, sound retardative walls. Specifications embodied the most scientific advancement in lighting, air and temperature control according to architects Chewing-Hoggard & Associates. An all season heating and cooling system is automatically self regulating and provides 100 per cent replacement of air by constant inflow of fresh air.

In making the Center meeting perfect by modern standards convenience features have been incorporated. Immediately adjacent to the meeting area is a functional catering kitchen, coat rooms and rest rooms. A drive-up entrance and additional parking area are provided in the ground level area under the block long second level facility.

The new Center accommodating up to 500 (groups of 250 are preferred) expands existent meeting and function rooms while making all facilities conveniently available to each other.

The first phase of the master program was activated in 1968 and involved extensive renovation of the former Cape Colony Club building. Its 11,000 feet were transformed into a dining, lounge and banquet complex.

The third and final phase to expand present guest accommodations is to be announced at a later date.

The Mariner is one of the properties of the Northshore Corporation which is headed by Charles H. Burton of Washington, D.C., president; Arthur D. Schmidt, Jr., vice president; and Mrs. Anita D. Lee of Roanoke, secretary and treasurer.

Hosting the affair were the principals, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Burton of Washington, D.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Schmidt, Jr.

Lawn King guarantees thicker, greener lawn

The very latest in automated lawn care is now available to lawnowners in the Virginia Beach area, with the appointment of David C. Hwalek as exclusive representative for Lawn King Inc. Known as Lawn King of Virginia Beach, Hwalek's organization offers a complete, four-season service to residential, institutional and commercial customers that is fully guaranteed to build and maintain a thicker, greener, healthier lawn.

The key to the success of the Lawn King program is a mechanical combine which, in one pass over the lawn, dispenses seed, fertilizers, controls for insects, weeds and fungus; while at the same time it power aerates and rolls the turf to ensure proper acceptance and retention of the materials. All that remains for the lawnowner to do is water and cut the lawn.

According to Hwalek, "The Lawn King combine accomplishes in a half-hour what it would take 10 experienced men to do in an entire day. The resultant economy is obvious. Not only that, but the precision which is engineered into the machine permits it to dispense each material evenly and in the proper amounts, thus ensuring the desired results."

"A continuing research effort on the part of the parent company also ensures that only the latest proven developments in lawn chemistry and techniques are made available to the lawnowner at all times at no extra cost." Hwalek added, "Hasn't dreamed of having a beautiful lawn that he can be proud of, without all of the drudgery and frustration involved in doing the work himself?"

Hicks promoted

Robert K. Hicks of Virginia Beach has been promoted to the position of sales manager with combined Insurance Company of America.

Hicks joined Combined as a representative in October, 1972.

THE BIBLE SAYS

QUESTION: Does Ezk. 37:16-19 refer to the Book of Mormon?

Answer: Mormons say so! If the readers will just look at this passage they will be equipped to follow our reasoning. First let's notice Mormon's claims and teaching with regards to this account.

Mormons claim the two sticks were sticks upon which Scripture scrolls were rolled. The stick or rod of Joseph representing the Bible and Joseph the Book of Mormon. The Book of Mormon is supposed to be a "record" of the Ephraimites. The joining together of the sticks is supposed to be the joining of the two writings. And finally, according to Joseph Smith's own words as a "prophet of God," immediately after the joining of the two sticks, there would be a gathering of Israel, the American Indians (Lamanites) would be converted to the gospel, the temple would be built at Independence, Missouri, and Christ would make his second advent and wind up the scene, as Smith said, "and go forth to prune the vineyard for the last time, or the coming of the Lord which was nigh— even fifty-six years should wind up the scene." (History of the Church, II, 182).

That there was writing on the stick is evident; but that there was writing on parchment, or a scroll, wrapped on the stick, is an unfounded assumption. There isn't one word about joining WRITINGS in the entire thirty seventh chapter of Ezekiel. It was the STICKS that were to be joined. The entire Mormon theory demands PROOF that the writings were on a scroll instead of on a stick. PROOF that the writings were the record of the doings of the descendants of Ephraim and of "all the house of Israel." PROOF that the descendants of Ephraim are the American Indians; and PROOF that the Book of Mormon is a reliable history of the American Indians.

For the Bible explanation of what the meaning of the two sticks is one should be aware that the Jewish kingdom was divided during Ezekiel's day. Ezekiel says, "Thus saith the Lord, 'I will make them ONE NATION, Ezk. 37:21-22. When the Lamanites were brought out of Babylonian captivity they were no longer known as two separate kingdoms, but only as the Jewish nation, Israel."

According to the Bible's explanation Mormon interpretation of this passage is incorrect. According to Smith's "prophecy" as seen above, the Mormon theory is incorrect and Smith was a false prophet. If the Book of Mormon is found in the Bible at all it would be in Gal. 1:9.
